Hutchinson—Rye that stands more than seven feet high, cut the second week in June, has been brought into Hutchinson by Ed Chastek, farmer near Lamson. The stalks which he picked at random from his field ranged up to seven feet and seven and one-half inches tall. That certainly is some tall rye, but it is not a tall story, as the rye is on display at Hutchinson for inspection by the skeptical. Chastek states that nearly all of his field is just about as tall.

BANKS BECOME POPULAR AS CITIZENS LOSE, GAIN

Lewiston—Citizens in this state are looking at banks with more kindly eyes following the experience of two neighbors recently. Faith in the old family fruit jar as a depository of money still remains, and one party dug up a jar and found it broken and his money practically disintegrated by the mud and water which had seeped into the jar. He gathered up the bits as best as he could and brought them to the bank, where tellers labored over the jig puzzle, finally giving up the problem and sending the whole mess to Washington to let the government figure out how much money these scraps originally represented. Another citizen, Morgan Haug of Fremont, can feel fortunate that he had no paper money salted around the house when his building burned down, but a penny bank with 300 pennies was left melted into almost a solid mass. From Long Prairie comes the story that a former resident, now receiver in the First National Bank in Detroit, Mich., found a deposit of $10,000 which has been forgotten. The original sum had grown to $20,500, with the interest which had accumulated. The man who had forgotten this tidy sum was located in Quebec, and had been earning a bare living in the backwoods.

COUNTIES ACCEPT ALLOTMENTS SET BY STATE AGENCY

To Join With Federal Government in Sharing the Relief Burden

The state executive council Thursday took steps to complete the new relief setup whereby the counties, the state and the federal government are to co-operate in financing relief for the two years ending with 1936.

The setup carries out the federal government idea that hereafter the local community must make a contribution to the relief fund based on its relief needs and its ability to pay. No Minnesota county will receive federal aid for relief unless it co-operates.

The county allotments have been worked out by the SERA (state emergency relief administration) in co-operation with county officials and L. P. Zimmermann, acting SERA director, advised the council 21 counties have accepted their allotments, which are enough to meet requirements of the legislative appropriation of $10,000,000 for the two-year period.

To meet requirements of the legislative appropriation, it was necessary for Minnesota counties to guarantee to contribute at least $5,000,000 a year for the period. The three counties of Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis agreed to contribute approximately $3,000,000 and enough rural counties have contributed to make up the remaining $2,000,000 contributions. This is enough to insure the receipt of the federal funds.

A special accounting office within the SERA is to be established and the council at its Thursday session appropriated $50,000 a year for its support. The change in the system is an important one for the counties because up to this time substantially all the relief expense has been borne by the federal government. Several counties have announced that they will withdraw from the system and handle their own relief without outside aid.

LARGE AMERICAN FLAG PROBLEM TO OFFICIALS

Fairmont.—This city has an American Flag stored in their court-house so large that officials do not know what to do with it, and they are unable to state where it came from. It is thirty feet long and 18 feet wide and stars six inches across the point. The caretaker was told that an old resident obtained it at the world's Fair in Chicago in 1892. The flag is of good material and its colors are brighter than many which float in that business section today.

Three Sisters Set up Enviable Attendance Record in S. D. 165

A rural school attendance record that is hard to beat has been established by the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hetland of Thief River Falls community, it was learned this week. The girls are or have been pupils in the school in District 165, now served by Agnes Askre Markus. Lucile Hetland completed the eighth grade in 1933 after being neither tardy nor absent the preceding four years. Her sister Lillian this year completed the seventh grade with a perfect attendance record from the time she started school in the first grade. That Betty Lou is following her older sister's footsteps is indicated by the fact that she has completed the third grade without ever having been tardy or absent since starting school.

Winnipeg Man Killed on No. 59 Near Erskine Early Monday Morning

R. L. Lane, 21 years old, of Winnipeg, was killed in an automobile accident near Erskine early Monday morning when he was struck by a passing car while changing a tire.

The accident occurred about 1:30 A. M. on state highway 59 about seven miles south of Erskine. Lane, who was accompanied by his wife and another couple going to Detroit Lakes, was standing in the highway changing a tire when he was struck by an automobile driven by Howard Black of Grand Forks.

Lane was taken to the Erskine hospital where he died from severe head injuries. Deputy County Coroner L. Gjerstad of Crookston investigated the death and pronounced it accidental. No inquest will be held.

DEKKO'S BALL TEAM DROPS TWO CONTESTS DURING PAST WEEK

Hovden were the only local players to hit with any show of consistency, each getting two hits while Oscar Nordby got the other. Blanchard and Elmer Johnson were the heavy hitters for Crookston, Blanchard collecting a triple and a double while Johnson got a triple and a double.

The jinx causing all the errors for the Giants seems to be hanging on as for the third game in a row the locals were unable to hold onto the ball when the Page all salaried ball club handed them an 8 to 1 shellacking.

The fast ball pitching of Leonard Page, ace mobsdoman, (who was the main factor in Page's victory. Leonard set the locals down with but three hits while his teammates collected eleven hits from the offerings of Lefty Heiberg.

The Page club scored one run in the first inning, two in the fourth and five in the sixth. The visitors bunched their hits to account for their runs while the Giants ruined their big chance with the bases loaded in the fifth inning with only one out and Brevick and Langlie flied out. Hovden continued his hitting streak being the only player to get more than one hit when he got a double and a single. Bob Bell drove out a single for the only other hit of the game as the game ended, being called on account of rain. Cox, catcher for the Page team, collected three hits while Dunbar got two to lead the attack for the visitors. The Giants will meet the North Dakota State Mill Team next Sunday.

Interests in Montana Plan Natural Gas Line Thru North Minnesota

Construction of a natural gas pipeline from eastern Montana, through Minot, Devils Lake, Grand Forks, and across the Minnesota iron range to Duluth and the Twin Cities became a possibility Saturday when E. W. Clark, executive assistant to Harold W. Ickes, PWA (public works administration) head at Washington, gave out the statement that the project is eligible to receive a loan or grant from the public works administration. The project would cost from approximately $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 and would give employment to some 25,000 men in running the line from Glasgow and Malta in the Bowdoin natural gas field of eastern Montana some 850 miles to Duluth. The project already has received approval of city councils at Grand Rapids, Hibbing, Duluth and St. Paul and will come up before the Minneapolis city council within the next 10 days.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT THIEF RIVER FALLS WEST COAST PICNIC

Sedlacek and Mrs. H. P. Sponheim, was the crowning achievement. Formalities were forgotten and it was simply a case of "everybody at it and let's all have a good time."

Following the lunch, Pres. Sponheim called the gathering into executive session. The only order of business was the election of a new president. Members failed to see the necessity for a change of pilots, so friend Oscar will continue to render the able service so notable in the past.

Impromptu talks were next in order, with E. O. Mogensen as "lead-off" man. E. O. recently visited the old home town and his recital of conditions back there were of a nature that reminded one and all of the fact that "the old home is a pretty good place after all." Others followed, including Frank Kratka, Jr., Geo. Kratka, E. L. Quist, Olof Ramstad, Emil Sedlacek, Mrs. A. I. Anderson and others.

That these gatherings are a real event to former Thief River Falls people is proven by the fact that Mrs. Winnie Herron Purdy and daughter came from New York; Frank Kratka and wife, nee Guynor McConnell came down from Bakersfield, Bob Erickson came from Trona, and the rest came all the way from ten to fifty miles, just to see old friends and renew old acquaintances.

Mention of the picnic is not complete without a personal reference to one who has rarely missed either a Minnesota picnic or a Thief River Falls reunion. This is Mrs. Anna Wedmer, one of the pioneers of the old home town. Despite her eighty-eight years, and her somewhat failing health, Mother Wedmer was the highlight of the party. Another who was cordially welcomed was Harry Dobmer, a little more gray of thatch than one would expect, but just as full of "the ould Nick" as ever.

Many of those who have heretofore attended these meetings were absent Sunday. The Minnesota State Picnic held on Saturday, June 22, may have been the reason, but it is easier to believe that this absence was more necessary than wilful.

Before adjoining it was decided to hold the 1936 picnic at Brookside Park in Pasadena. A list of those present, follows:

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sedlacek, Covina, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Larson, El Monte; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hageman (nee Sedlacek), Altadena; Mrs. Winnie Herron Purdy, Sherburne, N. Y.; Miss Evelyn Purdy, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Halverson, San Pedro, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Mogensen, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mussey, San Gabriel; Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Anderson, El Monte; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Quist, South Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kratka, Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Bakken, Palms; Mrs. Anna Wedmer, Culver City; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Kratka, Jr., Bakersfield; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar F. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Backe, Inglewood; George F. Fargo, Hollywood; Mary K. Caldwell, So. Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Anton Gunderson, Santa Ana; Mrs. Theralia Holzknecht, Altadena; Helen Erickson Jarrett, Culver City; Robert W. Erickson, Trona; C. R. Stowell, Eagle Rock.

Present from Los Angeles were Mrs. Ila Reynolds and daughter Marion, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Blanco (nee Sedlacek), J. O. Sether, Roy Langseth, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Auringer, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Withrow, Mr. and Mrs. Ole J. Blom and Mrs. Jessie Queen (nee Schafer).

Those from Long Beach included Mrs. Harold Miller and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Ramstad, Harry G. Dobmer, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sponheim, H. P. Sponheim, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jacobson, Mrs. Laura Liddell, Mrs. C. B. Kreggs (nee Florence Kratka) and C. E. Gilnes and Twila.

You can't fool your Uncle Sam
He says, "This Gasoline is Different!"

It's a cinch for Uncle Sam to tax most gasolines. He just slaps on the regular gas tax and that's that. But Tydol is something of a problem for him . . . for this gasoline is different from the others. You see, into every gallon of Tydol is blended a special lubricant. This lubricant (which also reduces carbon) keeps the upper-cylinders and valves of your motor cool, friction-free, and smooth-running...a job your regular motor oil cannot do. So Uncle Sam says, "Sorry, Tydol gets taxed twice, once as a gasoline, and once for the lubricant it contains." But between ourselves, we don't much mind paying that extra tax for Tydol's extra lubrication feature. It seems to us pretty good proof that double-duty Tydol is actually a different and a better gasoline . . . And that's something which a lot of car owners must have discovered, judging from our business. In fact, business is so good, thank you, that we don't charge even a penny extra for Tydol's extra quality.

TAX REFORM IS GREATEST NEED, SOLONS AGREE

Legislators Divided on Need of Special Session in Minnesota

While somewhat divided on the need for a special session in Minnesota, members of the State Legislature are overwhelmingly of the belief that tax reform and social security legislation should be the major business if such a session is called, a poll taken by the Minnesota Taxpayers Association reveals.

Sentiment of a majority of the members of the legislature opposes a special session, 48 registering against; while 34 are in favor.

The senators and representatives were asked to answer three questions, with a space left for remarks. The questions, and the number of answers to each are as follows:

Do you believe there should be a special session of the Minnesota Legislature? Thirty-four favored a session, and 48 opposed.

If so, when do you think it should be held? Fourteen said July; 13, September; 11, for November; 9 for October; and 5 said "when Congress adjourns".

What do you believe to be the most important business for such a session? Tax reform legislation was named by 71 as the urgent issue, while 49 named social legislation, a number considering both of equal importance.

LUCKY MAN FINDS 35 FOUR LEAF CLOVERS ON ONE STEM

Houston.—If one's luck can be measured by four leaf clovers, then S. T. Morken, president of the Houston Creamery association, must be in for a streak of good fortune. While out looking around his farm recently, Morken noticed a four leaf clover looking up at him, and on plucking it remembered that someone had told him that generally there was more than one four leaf clover on a stem. He examined the stem and much to his surprise picked 35 four leaf clovers and ten five leaf clovers.

Marshall County Fair is Now in Progress; to be Concluded Saturday

Vieing with a colorful program of entertainment scheduled for the next two days, entries of exhibits in all departments at the Marshall County Fair which is now in progress at Warren indicate that the 1935 fair will be a record breaker in crowds, entertainment and education.

Thursday and Friday afternoon programs will feature Thrill Days at the Fair which will include daredevil motorcycle stunt riding, head-on collision, crashing through a board wall, and thrilling motorcycle races with well known professional riders entered. Lew Rosenthal's program of grandstand acts will also be a big feature of the two afternoons.

Great interest is being taken by horsemen of Northwestern Minnesota in the Derby Day program for Saturday afternoon. The circuit race will have many entries from this section of the state who will compete for the $75 and added money purse. The pony race will have an entry limit to Marshall and Northern Polk counties.

Each evening Lew Rosenthal's Continental Revue with its colorful array of dancers, singers and comedians will entertain better than ever with a clever program.

CAFE OWNER KNOCKS OUT PEDDLER WITH CLUB

Worthington—A crew of itinerant photographic portrait salesmen aroused the ire of business men in Worthington recently, and their visit was climaxed when a restaurant proprietor took the law in his hands and cracked one of the salesmen over the head with a log, knocking him "cold". One of the crew of 14 men entered the small cafe of Everett Phillips, refusing to leave when requested, unless an order was secured for his photos. Returning again, he took a seat at the counter and again tried his selling methods on a waitress, and again flatly refusing to leave, Phillips picked up a stock and reaching over the counter, put him in an extremely unconscious condition and dragged him out. Later the crew came in and tried to bluff Phillips into making a settlement to avoid arrest, but finding their bluff failed, they left.

N. W. EXPERIMENT STATION TO MARK 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Former Superintendents Will Take Part in Program Monday, July 15

Elaborate plans have been completed for the fortieth anniversary celebration of the establishment of the northwest Experiment station which will be held on the school campus at Crookston Monday, July 15. T. A. Hoverstad, who served as the first superintendent of the station from July 1, 1895 to 1906, will be presented to greet old freinds and associates and to deliver an address during the day. Mr. Hoverstad has the distinction of being the first graduate of the college of agriculture at the University of Minnesota. He was followed by William Robertson who served as superintendent of the station and the newly established school of agriculture from 1906 to 1910.

Following his untimely death C. G. Selvig was appointed superintendent, which position he occupied until 1927. Mr. Selvig will also be present on this occasion and appear on the speaking program. Upon the election of Mr. Selvig to congress, he was succeeded by Dr. A. A. Dowell, who has been in charge of the school and station from 1927 to date. With the exception of William Robertson, deceased, all former superintendents of the station will take part in the day's program.

Dean W. C. Coffey, director of the department of agriculture at the University of Minnesota since 1921, will deliver the principal address of the day. He will discuss achievements of the Minnesota experiment stations and indicate problems that will require solution in the future. A. L. Stephens, former state senator and a life long friend and supporter of the school and station, will speak on the part played by the school development of the Red River Valley.

The station herds and flocks will be on display throughout the day under the direction of O. M. Kiser, animal husbandman; R. J. Christgau, assistant, and A. M. Pilkey, poultry husbandman. Following the speaking program, which will be held during the late forenoon and early afternoon, a tour of the station plots will be made under the supervision of R. S. Dunham, agronomist; T. M. McCall, horticulturist, and E. R. Clark, pure seed specialist. This will include extensive trials with forage crops, variety trials with grains and grasses, potatoes, sugar beets, and other crops common to the Red River Valley.

Many community clubs are planning on visiting the station during the day and joining in a picnic lunch on the campus at noon. A special program is being arranged for the women and for the boys and girls so that the occasion will be enjoyed by all.

FARMER MAKES OWN LAKE IN BACKYARD

Pine City—Three years ago Albert Ellison of Pine township four miles south of this city conceived the idea of making a lake in the door yard of his farm. Mr. Ellison built a dam across the outlet of a slough on which he used to cut hay and now has water to the depth of seven feet in the deepest place. The lake covers about one and one half acres and affords a watering place for the stock on the farm. Fish have been planted in the little lake and there are perch, sunfish, pikerel, bass and bullheads in the place to provide future good fishing. White pines have been planted on the earth dam and around the shore of the lake. Thru two dry years he has had plenty of water in his lake and the steady stage has raised the moisture level in the adjacent farm land. An overflow take off has been installed and when the water gets high it runs off down the old slough bed, leaving the lake at normal stage.

Red River Valley History

Thief River Falls Data

Since much of the local history of Thief River Falls was competently covered in the fortieth anniversary edition (of the foundation of the city) published by the Times Oct. 6, 1932, the writer will endeavor to handle historical episodes without repeating the special edition accounts insofar as is possible.

The anniversary edition tells of Frank Russell and his Indian wife settling at Squaw Point in 1879 and we also learn from the same source that Russell sold his squatter's right to John Baptist LaBree in January, 1881. But what we wish to stress here is the fact that it was just 50 years ago this year that LaBree broke land between the river and the present LaBree avenue and planted it to wheat and corn. While this date is significant since it denotes the passing of the half century, the circumstance associated with it is not epochal. Still, there is historical significance in the fact that the genesis of organized society here dates from a relatively late period. We know that traders, trappers, freighters, mail carriers, promoters and adventurers knew this section well and visited it frequently prior to the 80's. But such were the conditions that a steady and uninterrupted procession of development moves was not possible. This was a rugged country, Indians were numerous and until well into the present century lumbering with its comparatively primitive practices was a dominant industry. These facts in large part explain the city's late foundation.

To the writer it seems strange that the locality in which the Russels chose to locate should be called Squaw Point. There were many squaw men in those days in this part of the country and even if it was desired to note the presence of the couple in naming it it would seem that Squaw Man Point would have been more appropriate. Incidentally, we are able to link the Thief River Falls community to a new development in the study of Minnesota history. Recently historians have exhibited interest in the art played by the French in the early settlement of the state. It has been shown that French settlers, chiefly from the province of Quebec, were prominent in laying the foundations of St. Paul and Minneapolis and in paving the way for settlement in much of the rest of the state. They were voyageurs, coureur du bois, traders and skilled frontiersmen in other callings. They possessed great courage, a sublime faith not only in the country but in life itself; they were a happy, venturesome class, never fearing to enter where danger lurked. They were true heroes of the frontier. Among them was Joe Godo, the French-Canadian who opened a trading post here in 1850.

But the French do not dominate the pioneer picture here for among the other early settlers listed we find George Maxfield, John Hemmings, Charles Anderson, Carl Kretzschmar, M. C. Burns, J. W. Wallin, Carl Johnson, R. S. Hoyt, Ole C. Larson, C. Knutson, Peter Newman, Sam Kreuger, C. A. Swanson, P. B. Mailberg, James Kreuger and Dennis Connely. There were many others but this mixture of nationalities is representative and shows that the burdens of early settlement were born by Scandinavians, Germans, native Americans and other national as well as the French. But we still are able to view the French as the colorful members of the vanguard of settlers.

Of, course, the presence of the Indians in the vicinity tended to retard development, not only because much land was reserved for the use of the Indians but also for the reason that the settlement of the area had not progressed to a point where the whites were able to control the Indians. Excerpts from the files of Thief River Falls Press of the year 1889, published in the special edition, show that the Indians were able to avoid the law against sale of liquor to Indians. One item reads: "The Indians have been having a big drunk the past few days. There are two or three parties getting whisky for them and they had better look out for Uncle Sam may get his clutches on them."

Two years later, in 1891, there was a general Indian scare which stirred the entire northern half of the state but did not result in blood-shed. Seventeen years later, in 1898, there was bloodshed in the Leech lake country. So we may assume that while Thief River Falls was founded at a relatively late date the perils surrounding the event were greater than those associated with much earlier settlements in the state. The city may justly boast of a record of remarkably rapid progress. It is probable that no city in the state has come so far in so short a time and it is certain that few cities at least have brighter prospects today. The writer believes that a recapitulation of this sort is important in a historical series. —Northwestern Feature Service.

STATE ASKS U. S. O.K. ON $6,000,000 HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Elsberg Submits Construction Plans for Federal Aid Road System

The Minnesota Highway department has submitted to the United States Bureau of Public Roads a $6,000,000 detailed program of federal aid highway construction for the fiscal year beginning this month, it was announced today by N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

Projects to cost an additional $800,000 will be submitted in a few days, completing the state's full program of $6,800,000 under the regular federal aid provisions. Of this amount the federal government will pay half and the state will be required to pay the balance.

When federal approval of the program is obtained, Commissioner Elsberg will ask the State Executive council to authorize the sale of bonds to provide for the state's share of the expense, he stated. The bond financing plan was set up by the state Legislature.

Under federal laws, the regular federal aid construction program is limited to the federal aid highway system, which in Minnesota corresponds generally to the original $7,000-mile state trunk system.

An additional $10,000,000 relief labor employment program is to be carried out by the highway department with emergency federal funds. Completion of plans for this program has been held up pending receipt of detailed federal regulations governing the use of the money.

SO WET IN LITCHFIELD THAT FOUR DUCKS DROWN

Litchfield—If you don't think it has rained recently, this story should convince you. Four young ducks at the L. J. Pankaka place in Litchfield drowned in an early morning downpour recently. They were standing on high ground, but with their heads up found too little air between the sheets of rain and finally succumbed. Included among them was a freak four-legged duck hatched about a month ago.

3,000 State Residents Seek 36 Positions on State Highway Patrol

Faced with 3,000 applications for 36 jobs to be filled in the State Highway Patrol, Chief J. P. Arnoldy is devoting himself this month to the task of picking 70 men who will attend a special training school at Camp Ripley and fight it out for the final appointments, says a highway department bulletin.

The last Legislature authorized an increase in the size of the Patrol to 100 men and granted the body additional police powers, but owing to the fact that the 1935 budget of the highway department did not provide for the extra expense involved, it was decided to postpone the expansion until January, 1936.

However, a patrol training school will be held at the national guard camp, Fort Ripley, in August, September and part of October. Here 70 candidates will be given a stiff course of complete training, and 36 will get appointments to the patrol. All present members of the patrol will be sent through a special short course in criminal law and police work in connection with the training school. This is to give them a better groundwork for their increased police duties. In the past the patrol has functioned only as a traffic squad, without general police powers.

Bill for Payment to Indians Passes Senate

Every enrolled Chippewa Indian of the Red Lake band of Minnesota will be entitled to a payment of $15 from the tribal fund if the president approves a bill passed by the senate Tuesday, according to a Washington dispatch. The measure, introduced by Representative Buckler was approved by the house some time ago. It directs the secretary of interior to withdraw as much money as necessary from the timber fund of the tribe on deposit in the treasury. No payment would be possible without approval of the tribe.

LIGHTNING KILLS MAN, MELTS CHAIN ON WATCH

Dawson— Killed by lightning stroke while in a pasture after a cow, Lewis G. Larson, aged 64 years, was found with his body badly burned, his clothes and shoes torn, and the heavy chain on his watch melted. Larson's wife became alarmed at his failure to return from the pasture, where he had gone to fetch his cows, and called her son, Lewis, to look for him. The boy found his father. His clothes and shoes were ripped in a number of places, as though he had been in an accident. His watch was found the next day. It had stopped at the time he was struck by lightning, and the heavy chain attached to it was completely melted.

SERA CHIEFTAINS HEAR QUOTA PLAN UNDER RELIEF LAW

Zimmerman Outlines Plan for Participation by Counties

Plans for county participation in the $10,000,000 relief fund authorized by the last state legislature were outlined here by L. P. Zimmerman, acting administrator of the SERA, to 36 area administrators in conference on the new works progress program.

Pointing out that the law requires counties and municipalities seeking relief to contribute an amount "which in the opinion of the federal government relief agencies and the state executive council is a fair and equitable sum to be so borne by them", Mr. Zimmerman explained that the three large cities of the State, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, had agreed to accept responsibility to pay", he told the state administrators, "The law stipulating that 'economic conditions, conservation needs, acts of the elements, economic distress, public debt and relief projects at this time contemplated, to be taken into consideration.

"Tax delinquency, assessed valuation, per capita indebtedness, relief needs and other financial considerations have been used in determining the amount of county participation. Experts have been employed in arriving at this financial determination and the state executive council through the SERA has had the valuable assistance of the Minnesota County Auditors' association in making the survey. In this manner percentages were determined for each county and proposed to the county commissioners in an attempt to follow out the requirements of the relief measure."

It was pointed out at the conference that the $10,000,000 appropriation is for a biennial period making necessary contributions at this time for only one year, or for $5,000,000. While no figures were made public it is generally understood that rural Minnesota will be expected to contribute about $2,000,000 of the total amount.

"No change will be made in the procedure for handling relief funds", Mr. Zimmerman said. "The federal government is expected to supplement state relief needs in so far as they exceed $10,000,000 for each of the calendar years of 1935 and 1936. For this reason it is important that the counties enter into agreements at this time to act aside the quotas as determined under the requirements of the law."

An optimist is sometimes a pessimist whistling in the dark.—Grand Rapids Press.

LET US MAKE YOUR VACATION TRIP SAFER

BEFORE you start on your holiday trip, let us completely inspect your car. There is no charge for this service and it will assure you of a safer and more enjoyable trip.

For the convenience and safety of car owners Firestone has established more than 500 Auto Supply and Service Stores throughout the country, and thousands of Firestone Dealers are also equipped with complete Auto Supplies and complete Service Departments, to test and service your tires, brakes, batteries, spark plugs, in addition to power lubrication and crank case service.

AVOID THE DANGER OF BLOWOUTS

Firestone removes the danger of blowouts by preventing their main cause—internal friction and heat. This is accomplished by Gum-Dipping.

THERE ARE THREE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS THAT WILL SOLVE YOUR PROBLEM OF WHAT TIRES TO BUY:

1 "Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

— Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes.

For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death.

2 "Are they blowout-proof?"

—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the grueling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Not one of the 33 drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

— Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles, averaging 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind.

3 "Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

— Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile. In fact, unequaled mileage records of thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Equip your car with a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Non-Skid Tires, the safest tires ever built and avoid the dangers of skidding and blowouts.

SCHOOL BOARD BUYS WINTER COAL SUPPLY

Red Lake Ice and Fuel Company Bid Accepted for 425 Tons

ADDED EQUIPMENT ALSO IS PURCHASED

Miss Helen Olson of Warroad Will Teach English and French

Contracting for next winter's supply of coal for the local school buildings, acceptance of bids on equipment for the agricultural department being established in Lincoln high school and appointment of a teacher to fill the remaining vacancy in the high school faculty constituted the principal business transacted at the July session of the board of education Monday evening.

The board decided that the coal bids of the Red Lake Ice and Fuel company were the most favorable of the four bids received, and awarded that company the contract to supply 225 tons of Blue Grass screenings at $8.25 a ton and 200 tons of Youghiogheny lump coal at $9.45. The screenings were 15 cents a ton higher than last year's quotations, and the lump coal 60 cents a ton higher.

The Northern Woodwork company, on its bid of $181.65, was given the contract to supply a magazine rack for the library and 15 student tables for the agricultural department. Also accepted was Arthur Hamilton's proposal to supply 30 steel chairs built by the American Seating company at $3.60 each, and the Oen Mercantile company bid of $50 on a laboratory sink.

Miss Helen M. Olson of Warroad was elected to fill the English and French teacher vacancy in the high school. Miss Olson was graduated from Hamline university in June magna cum laude, and last year was engaged in practice teaching in French at Mechanic Arts high school in St. Paul.

Supt. Morris Bye reported that the painting project involving the Northrop, Knox, Lincoln and Central School buildings is now in its final stages. The work was carried on as a relief project, a total of $3,902.30 being paid in wages to 40 men by the federal government, while the cost to the school district for materials was $1,632.12.

The board approved a calendar of events for the coming school year as submitted by Mr. Bye. Registration of high school students who did not register in May will be conducted from August 15 to 21 in the office of W. C. Clafly, high school principal, while classwork will commence Tuesday, September 3.

RECORD BREAKING DOWNPOUR OF RAIN ARRIVES JULY 4TH

Estimated More Than Two Inches Fell in Little More Than Hour

Numerous Thief River Falls residents who were away from the city for the Fourth of July holiday returned to their homes to find basements flooded with water following a downpour of record-breaking proportions that visited the city shortly after noon last Thursday.

While no official figures are available as to the precipitation, estimates were made that in excess of two inches of rain fell in little more than an hour. A strong wind that blew momentarily did not damage locally, but swept thru an area southeast of Holt and razed a silo on the Arne Steinhauer farm. The loss was not covered by insurance.

Additional showers visited the community late Sunday afternoon, Monday morning and Wednesday morning, the weather being characterized by an oppressive degree of humidity.

Early this morning another heavy shower visited this locality, and served further to delay haying operations and cause fear of damage to crops in some areas due to excessive moisture.

The meeting of the county board of equalization to act on tax assessments, scheduled to be held next Monday, July 15, has been postponed until a date to be announced later, County Auditor A. M. Canning Specialist to Demonstrate July 15-16

Relief Administration to Sponsor Demonstration at Auditorium

Mrs. Evelyn Sell, canning specialist of the home economics department of the state emergency relief administration, will conduct a canning demonstration in the Civic and Commerce association rooms in the Auditorium next Monday and Tuesday July 15 and 16, beginning at 1:45 in the afternoon, Miss Marjorie E. Shaw, acting county relief worker, announced today, extending an invitation to all interested persons.

The whole subject of vegetable canning will be discussed, suggestions will be given as to what and how much of each vegetable to can per person, how to prepare vegetables for canning, methods to use, causes of food spoilage and other essential facts. Different types of vegetables will be canned, using approved methods for each type.

An opportunity will be given to discuss individual canning or other food preservation problems. Bulletins written by Inez M. Hobart, extension nutritionist, will be available, giving not only essential facts about canning but also containing suggestions for the use of canned vegetables, the planning of vegetable storage and other problems. A complete time table for canning all kinds of vegetables and fruits is a valuable feature of the bulletin.

85 RURAL SCHOOL 8TH GRADERS GET DIPLOMAS JULY 6

Rev. Cooke Urges Pupils Not to Rely Too Heavily on Material Things

A fine looking group of Pennington county boys and girls, 85 in all, received diplomas signifying the successful completion of their work in the eighth grade of the Pennington county rural schools at formal graduation exercises conducted Saturday afternoon, July 6, in the Auditorium. A large group of relatives and friends of the pupils witnessed the exercises.

Rev. E. A. Cooke, pastor of the Community church, was introduced by County Superintendent A. C. Matheson, presiding as chairman, and delivered the address to the graduates.

The speaker told the boys and girls that they have been traveling along the side roads of life but that they are soon to proceed along the main highways. He stated that the rising generation should be better enabled to solve their problems than their elders because they are better prepared. He urged his hearers not to be disappointed by setbacks nor to rely too heavily on material things that may be lost by chance.

Miss Marjorie Matheson played the processional march, and S. P. Orwall supplied a group of instrumental selections.

Omitted from the list of graduates announced last week were the names of Verner Arveson and Mildred Hanson, District 67; Alice Olson, District 180; and Evelyn Nelson, District 12.

Visitors in City Find Water Tank a Good Spot to Fire Roman Candles

An apparently irresistible impulse to find a high vantage point from which to shoot off Roman candles late in the evening of the Fourth of July led two Crookston young men and a young woman to climb 100 feet to the platform surrounding the Thief River Falls water tank. The spectacle of fireworks at that elevation led Police Chief A. B. Stenberg to the tank, and after a brief delay the visitors consented to return to earth. They said they had thought their idea was a good one but that they hadn't fully realized how high they were going. The only casualties were begrimed garments and a torn pair of white trousers.

COUNTY BOARD OBJECTS TO ERA ASKING $11,400

Board Indicates It Wants Greater Control Over Expenditures

OTHER COUNTIES TAKE LIKE STAND

Action on Matter Deferred to Adjourned Meeting Next Monday

Possibility that Pennington county will divorce itself from the state emergency relief setup which is now in charge of the administration of relief in the county was seen Monday in a discussion between the county board and S. P. Roach, area relief administrator with headquarters at Crookston.

Mr. Roach informed the board that the administration wanted the county board to appropriate $11,400 for the county's share of relief costs for the current year and an equal amount for 1936. The board indicated that it desired more control over the expenditure of relief funds, and that it objected to the present high wage scale under which relief clients are paid.

Members further stated that they had been informed previously that this county had been placed in Class D, calling for an appropriation of approximately $8,000 for each of the two years. County Attorney H. O. Berve raised doubts as to the legality of the appropriation.

Similar objections to the federal relief setup were voiced last week-end at a meeting of representatives of approximately 30 counties in Southern Minnesota, and the Polk county board Tuesday similarly protested against a demand for a contribution of $63,000. The Pennington board deferred final action on the request until an adjourned meeting next Monday.

Mr. Berve was instructed to notify the bonding company covering Harry Fowler, former county auditor, of the shortage in his accounts. A number of tax abatements were granted, and four old-age pensions were approved by the board.

MAN BOUND OVER AFTER ATTACK ON 12 YEAR OLD GIRL

Signs Confession to Crime Committed on East Side June 30

Orvan Morstad, arrested by local police Monday on a statutory charge involving a twelve-year-old girl, waived examination when given a preliminary hearing Wednesday morning before Judge J. M. Bishop and was bound over to district court.

It was announced that Morstad Tuesday evening had signed a statement confessing the crime, which was committed June 30 at a point southeast of the O'Hara icehouse on the east side of the river. The attack occurred near midnight when the girl, after leaving a group of friends, was proceeding alone to her home.

Police records reveal that Morstad escaped from the school for the feeble-minded in Faribault in 1933 after being confined there for more than six years. He is now in the county jail.

N. W. LUTHERAN ASSEMBLY HEARS DR. O. J. H. PREUS

Large Gathering Attends Fifth Annual Event at Squaw Point

A large group of persons from throut the Thief River Falls community attended the fifth annual Sunday at Squaw Point and listened to a sermon delivered by Dr. O. J. H. Preus, president of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa. As the case last year the afternoon program was cut short by a sudden downpour of rain.

As the text for his morning discourse Dr. Preus took the words of Solomon, "Remove not the ancient landmarks which your fathers have set". He compared our heritage of the Bible and the Christian religion to the landmarks used by the early Hebrews to determine territorial limits.

The Christian landmarks, Dr. Preus said, may be lost either by violence, as in the case of the early Roman persecutions, or may be the result of personal indifference. He concluded his sermon by pointing out how serious such a loss would be since we have nothing to give our children in place of it.

Rev. Harlan S. Peterson served as liturgist at the morning services and Rev. S. Fladmark in the afternoon. Musical offerings included songs by a male quartet from North Star college at Warren and selections by a brass quartet including S. P. Orwall, Arthur Myrom, Ralph Fjelstad and Roy Johnson.

At a brief business session reports were submitted by John Wold, secretary and N. A. Nelson, treasurer. Officers elected for the coming year include Rev. R. M. Fjelstad, president; Rev. E. O. Haba, vice president; Rev. Harlan Peterson, secretary; and Chester A. Myrom, treasurer.

Quanbeck of Roseau is president of the District Young Peoples Federation. A large attendance is expected.

77 New Motor Vehicles Registered Locally in First Six Days of July

That sales of new automobiles are holding up well into the middle of the summer in this locality is indicated by the fact that during the first six days of July a total of 60 new pleasure cars and 17 new trucks were registered at the office of Alex Campbell, deputy registrar of motor vehicles in this city. Of the total 39 cars and 11 trucks were sold to residents of Thief River Falls and Pennington county. The figures for this year reveal a substantial increase over those for the corresponding period of 1934 when 29 cars and two trucks were registered at the local office.

COUNCIL CALLS FOR PROPOSALS ON EQUIPMENT

Asks Bids on 1000, 750 and Two 500 Horsepower Diesel Units

CALLS FOR BIDS ON OILING 3 STREETS

Plan to Remodel Fire Hall; $2,700 in Building Permits Granted

Following a discussion at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, in which the acute need of securing additional generating equipment for the municipal power plant at an early date was stressed the council voted to call for proposals on Diesel equipment to be opened at an adjourned meeting Friday evening, July 19.

Inasmuch as sentiment of the members was not united on any particular size of equipment, it was voted to call for proposals on one 1,000 horsepower unit, one 750 horsepower unit and two 500 horse power units, leaving the final selection to be threshed out later.

It was agreed that the chance of securing a federal grant to aid in financing the purchase will not be affected by calling for bids at this time. Mayor Frank Rinkel further stated he had been informed by a representative of W. N. Carey, acting public works engineer in Minnesota, that there is little likelihood of a grant being available unless the major portion of the outlay on the project goes to labor.

Another important step taken by the council at its meeting was to call for bids for oiling three streets now being subjected to heavy traffic, the action being taken following the reading of a petition signed by approximately 60 residents along Knight av. The streets which it is proposed to oil include Knight av. from Sixth st. south to Highway 32, Fourth st. from Main av. to the fair grounds, and Conley av. south from Bridge st.

It was indicated that arrangements can be made to have the oil spread by the highway department crews which will shortly be working on trunk highways in this vicinity.

Following acceptance of plans submitted by Architect Henry C. Eckland for remodeling the present fire hall to provide additional facilities on the second floor at an estimated cost of $2,270, City Clerk P. G. Pederson was instructed to advertise for bids and Mr. Eckland was engaged to supervise the remodeling work.

O. C. Paulson, member of the park board, discussed the desirability of having a city band, and said the board was willing to take over the supervision of the project if funds were made available to engage a band director. The matter was referred to the council finance committee for consideration. At the same time the council approved the action of the park board in engaging the services of Glen Hau-

Oven Sterilizing Not Reliable in Canning

Processing rhubarb and other fruits in the oven when canning, is not recommended, says Mrs. Kathryn B. Niles, foods specialist of the division of home economics, University Farm, St. Paul. However, Mrs. Niles suggests a combination oven method that is satisfactory for rhubarb as follows:

Place the rhubarb, cut into lengths of one-half to one inch, in a shallow pan and sprinkle with sugar, using about one-fourth as much sugar as rhubarb by measure. Bake until the rhubarb is tender, then pack immediately into containers, seal, and process for 5 minutes in the water-bath.

Explaining why oven heat is not recommended as a method of sterilizing canned foods, Mrs. Niles says dry heat is much less penetrating than the moist heat of the water-bath or pressure cooker method of sterilizing. Tests show that the boiling temperature needed for sterilization is almost never reached in the center of jars during the period of time suggested for oven sterilization. This, of course, is conditioned by temperature of the food when packed into the jars, the ratio of liquid to solid, the composition of the food, the oven temperature, and the period of sterilization.

Work-relief should provide an increase market for small tools, especially chisels.—Muskogee Phoenix.

REVIEW HISTORY OF N. W. SCHOOL AT FETE MONDAY

Elaborate Program Planned on 40th Anniversary at Crookston

The history and development of the Northwest School and Station will be reviewed by former superintendents and others interested in the Valley institution during the Visitors' Day celebration which will be held on the campus Monday, July 15. The occasion will mark the fortieth anniversary of the establishment of the experiment station and the thirtieth anniversary of the organization of the school of agriculture.

The program will open with the inspection of the station herds and flocks from 9 to 11 a. m. This will be followed by a speaking program at which time T. A. Hoverstad, superintendent from 1895 to 1905, will discuss "Early Days". C. G. Selvig, superintendent 1910 to 1927, will continue with "Later Developments", and A. D. Stephens will follow with "The Part Played by the Northwest School and Station in the Development of the Red River Valley". Following the picnic lunch which will be held on the campus at noon, Dean W. C. Coffey will speak on "The Need of Experiment Stations." This will be followed by a brief business session of the Red River Valley Crops and Soils association, of which Herman Skyberg, Fisher, is president; Melvin Flaskerud, Foston, vice president, R. S. Dunham, Crookston, secretary; and S. M. Sivertson, Crookston, treasurer. Following the business session, station specialists will supervise the tour of inspection of the experimental plots.

Remarkable chages have taken place on the station grounds since this land, now comprising around 500 acres, was donated to the University of Minnesota by James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway. As a result of an extensive system of drainage, construction of numerous buildings, development of the experimental plots, and the completion of the campus beautification project, the Northwest School and Station has developed into one of the beauty spots of the state. The life of the school and station has been intimately associated with the agricultural development of Northwestern Minnesota. Many farmers and townspeople who have played a prominent part in the development of Northwestern Minnesota are expected to visit the campus on this occasion and review early days with the former superintendents.

Superintendent A. A. Dowell and members of the staff have extended a cordial welcome to all friends of the school and station to join in the fortieth anniversary celebration. Coffee, cream and sugar will be provided all who bring their picnic lunches.

University Farm Checks Pheasants' Food Habits to Determine Seed Loss

An investigation of the food habits of pheasants carried on within the last few days by the University Farm in cooperation with the Game and Fish Division in response to numerous complaints by farmers about pheasant damage in fields of newly planted corn has shown that in general these complaints are not wholly justified and that much damage by insects and gophers has been wrongly attributed to pheasants.

Over 50 pheasants killed in the region from which most complaints have come were submitted to Ralph T. King, Instructor, Economic Zoology at the University Farm, for an examination of the crop contents, and an analysis of the food taken, according to Mr. King's report, shows that while pheasants have eaten some corn they have not done nearly the amount of damage for which they have been blamed.

Their fondness for weed seeds make the pheasants valuable agricultural aids. Two of the birds contained 3342 and over 6000 ragweed seeds, respectively, one bird, contained 16 dandelion heads, and the remaining birds contained 11 seeds of wild buckwheat, 19 mustard heads, and 551 miscellaneous weed seeds. Every farmer knows the damage which weeds do, and appreciates this aid in his fight to keep them under control.

HOME BUILDING SEVEN PER CENT OF NORMAL RATE

Tax Reform Held Needed to Encourage Erection of Residences

Building of homes shrank to the lowest level in many years in Minnesota in 1934, officials of the Minnesota Federation of Associations for Tax Reform reported today in a survey undertaken to ascertain the relation between construction and high tax burdens.

Using St. Paul and Minneapolis as examples, Constant Larson of Alexandria, president of the Federation, pointed out that the building of homes dropped last year to a point where it was only 7 per cent of the normal construction carried on in the period from 1923 to 1928. Some slight improvement is taking place this year, he said, but the construction industry still is lagging far behind other industries in recovery.

"The building of homes has almost passed out if we go by the standards of normal years," Mr. Larson said. "Only 146 new homes were built in Minneapolis last year. In the period from 1923 to 1928, the yearly average was about 2,500, and in 1923 the number was 3,650.

"The people have money despite the hard times. This is shown by the purchases of other things that are being made. In the first six months of this year, permits were issued for the building of 195 homes in Minneapolis. In the same period 9,536 persons in Hennepin County bought new automobiles. It is clearly evident that there is a disinclination to put money into homes.

"Now, why is this? One of the principal reasons is to be found in the increase in taxes. Taxes have increased to the point where many persons feel they cannot afford to put their money into homes. Taxes levied against property have increased more than 300 per cent since 1910, and the expenditures of many of our governmental units are still going up. Other factors also have helped to discourage home building. Construction has declined steadily as a consequence and thousands of workmen have been thrown out of employment."

Twin City Market Week Extended to Two Weeks From August 5 to 17th

In anticipation of one of the heaviest buying seasons in the northwest, the semi-annual Twin City Market Week will be extended to include 14 days this summer to accomodate the thousands of retail merchants expected to be in Minneapolis and St. Paul for the event.

A two weeks program designed to enter visitors while they are in the Twin Cities will include the semi-annual banquet and educational program sponsored by the during Market Week. The banquet will be handled by William Coulter who was elected secretary of the Minneapolis association last year to succeed John DeWild who is now trade extension manager of the Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Association, and will be held August 6. The board of directors of the National Merchants association will meet at the St. Paul hotel in St. Paul August 6 and a style show to be presented by the Twin Cities Apparel Industries will be held at Hotel Radisson in Minneapolis that same evening.

The remainder of the entertainment program will include attendance at Minneapolis and St. Paul baseball games, a boat ride and dance on the steamer Capitol down the Mississippi, a general meeting of visiting and local merchants with a prominent speaker and other events.

Headquarters will be set up in the West Hotel in Minneapolis and the Ryan Hotel in St. Paul.

Time Has Arrived to Fight Potato Pests

Many farmers in Minnesota regularly spray with paris green or lead arsenate for potato bugs, but do not use bordeaux mixture. Bordeaux mixture and the arsenate spray for potato bugs may be combined and applied at the same time, thus increasing the cost only by the cost of the chemical used in making bordeaux mixture and a small amount of labor in mixing it, says J. G. Leach of the division of plant pathology, University Farm, St. Paul. This added cost is insignificant when compared with the gain from the control of leaf hoppers and fungus diseases.

Improved methods of making bordeaux mixture have greatly simplified the process. Directions for making bordeaux mixture are given in a folder entitled "Homemade Bordeaux Mixtures" which may be obtained from University Farm free upon request. It is better to mix your own bordeaux. The new simplified method is quite simple and easy. Write for directions.

Recently, good results have been obtained by dusting potato plants with copper-lime dust as a substitute for liquid bordeaux. With efficient dusting machines this is about as effective as the liquid bordeaux spray. The materials for the dust cost more than those for the liquid spray, but the additional cost is equalized in labor saved in applying the dust. If you are interested in using the dust method, write to the Department of Plant Pathology, University Farm, for more complete details.

Revenge is sweet and if you don't believe it ask any of the players of the local ball team and also a good number of the local fans. From the drubbing our boys received at Warren some little time ago they have suffered a lot of humiliation but last Sunday they redeemed theselves. The Warren aggregation came over somewhat over confident we believe but ere the game had progressed very far they began to see they were up against the real thing. The first inning the Grygla boys scured 1 runs and after battle the score stood nine to nothing—a nice string of goose eggs for the invaders. Leo Baker pitched air tight ball and was given good support.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V-8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip—to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

T. P. Hamre, owner of the property on the corner north from the site of the new postoffice, offered to pay $1,800 in full settlement of approximately $4,530 in accumulated taxes dating back to 1927. When asked for a definite statement of his intention to erect a new building on the property, he was unwilling to commit himself, and no action was taken on the request for abatement.

Nels Myrin was present to seek settlement of his claim for water flowage damages to his property up the river. He asked $700, but a council committee that visited the scene recommended that half that amount should be sufficient. No agreement was reached. Action also failed to materialize when William LaFave asked what progress was being made on plans for a new road across the mill yard to the Horseshoe district. Council members indicated that more expense would be involved in the project than the city treasury could bear unless the county shared in the expense.

R. M. Aalbu asked the free use of the Auditorium for a series of speeches sponsored by the local Farmer-Labor club, and the request was deferred to the building committee for disposition. A motion was carried to make a charge of $1 a day for use of the city jail by county prisoners, the county to furnish their food in addition.

A REVOLT THAT IS JUSTIFIED

A group of southern Minnesota counties, twenty-eight of them according to reports, are staging an organized revolt from the SERA, state emergency relief administration. They refuse to make their contributions to the relief funds, as demanded by the federal government under the new relief program, unless they be given some authority in directing the expenditure of those funds. They charge extravagance, inefficiency and waste in the government's relief program.

The result of the protest by southern Minnesota officials will be watched with interest in this section of the state, our problem being the same as theirs. Pennington County, for instance, is expected to turn over about eleven thousand dollars to the federal relief agency and that eleven thousand dollars must be paid directly by local tax payers. Up to the present time, as we understand it, the county board has made no provision for raising this amount and there probably is some question in the minds of board members as to whether or not this county should contribute such a sum unless they retain some authority of supervision over its distribution.

It certainly is to be hoped that the southern Minnesota revolters will not yield to the pressure of federal officials through fear of losing all federal aid. It's about time the tax payers began asserting themselves on these matters. A large portion of the money that is to be spent in the state will come from the state itself, the legislature having been brow-beaten into a huge appropriation last winter. And when the federal government says that we, as a county, must make an additional contribution before we can get our share of what the state has appropriated, and have nothing to say about how our money is to be spent, then it is indeed high time that we start making a few demands of our own.

A NECESSARY CHECK ON POWER

Dictator Mussolini seems to be determined to wage war on Ethiopia and before the year is out we probably will be reading hair raising stories of the campaign in Africa. No need to cry out at the sordidness of the thing itself. It is just another international crime that the world will "little note nor long remember." Much could be written in contempt of the rest of the so called civilized world that will not raise a finger to stop the outrage, but that is neither here nor there. The thing that causes us to wonder is that a Mussolini can gain such absolute power over a nation that millions of people, most of them reasonably intelligent, become mere puppets in his hands.

Would such a dictatorship be possible in this country? It probably would. And as government becomes more centralized, and bureaucracy more firmly intrenched, the possibilities increase.

Huey Long has established a virtual dictatorship in his native state. The legislature of that state has now provided that all appointments to political jobs, even those made by city, village and county officials, must be approved by the state civil service board which in turn is controlled by the Huey Long machine. In other words every political appointee in the state must look to Huey Long for his bread and butter. It would seem that nothing short of an armed revolution could break up such a combination.

And what Huey Long has done in Louisiana could possibly be done in the country as a whole. The most effective safeguard against such a condition is the United States Supreme Court. The Supreme Court, for instance, is the only power that could limit the authority of the present administration in Washington, and as long as this tribunal is permitted to function without political interference there is little danger that any administration will far overstep the powers granted to it under the constitution.

Occasionally, in its interpretations of the Constitution, the Court is obliged to make unpopular decisions. On such occasions there is always much ranting among demagogues of the too great powers of the Court. It is an impediment to progress and all that sort of thing. In some instances it perhaps is. But it is never an obstacle that cannot be overcome. The people themselves have the power to change the constitution and through that power the people are always supreme. The constitution is the "bill of rights" of the people guaranteeing certain privileges to the governed and limiting the powers of those who govern. The Supreme Court defends the constitution, and by so doing safeguards the people from such usurpations of authority as now enable a power-drunk dictator of Italy to plunge a nation into a shameful war of conquest.

The council has properly decided that the city cannot afford to delay longer in the purchase of additional power equipment. In order to get new equipment installed and operating in time to meet the increased demand of the winter months it will be necessary to take immediate action. There is a possibility that by waiting we might secure a government grant but this possibility is very remote under the new rules governing such grants. And to wait for the government to act, and later to conform to all the government red tape, would doubtless mean delays that would make it impossible to have the new equipment in operation this year. We can get along without a federal grant but we can't get along without more power.

A diesel engine powered automobile travelled from coast to coast, nearly four thousand miles, at a fuel cost of less than eight dollars, according to reports. Breaking that down to smaller units it means a fuel cost of about two cents a hundred miles. It sounds fishy but we're not going to start an argument about it. It is every bit as plausible as the big boiler Ice Man McLaughlin told us about a couple of months ago. The boiler was so big, he said, that they were able to serve a banquet to ninety people in the furnace chamber. Of course we didn't believe it and told him so and then danged if he didn't prove it by producing an actual photograph of the ninety people comfortably seated on the inside of a heating plant. So as far as we're concerned, two cents a hundred miles is fair enough. When they get the fuel cost reduced another cent a hundred miles then we'll take the territory south of ditch sixteen.

ON COLLECTIVE SECURITY

(Rock County Herald)

In a recent address in Great Britain, Stanley Baldwin, noted Conservative British statesman, is reported to have regretted the absence of the United States from Genevan complications and to have added:

"It is in times like these, when we are talking so much about collective security, that I lament so sincerely the absence of the United States from the League.

"For the United States to take part in collective security is, I am aware, not practical politics. But as one who has now been in public life many years and who can't be in high position in this country many more years, I may perhaps be allowed one thing that those who follow me may bear in mind.

"I have always believed that the greatest security against war in any part of the world whatever, in Europe, in the East, anywhere, would be the close collaboration of the British Empire with the United States. * * *"

Commenting upon this statement, the Republican-Bulletin invites attention to the fact that "The United States is, of course, willing to co-operate with Great Britain in a purely American way in the interests of peace and tranquility, and that it is also willing to co-operate with France, Italy, Japan, Germany and any other nation for the same purpose.

"The United States is not, however, willing to bind itself in advance to go along with Great Britain or any other country as to world policy. Too often in the past British statesmen have been able to fool us into believing that what is really purely selfish British policy is 'in the interests of peace' or to 'save democracy.'

"We have not the least doubt that John Bull would welcome the assurance of our collaboration, especially in the Orient. Great Britain has a dozen times as much at stake there as we have, many times as much trade to protect in China as we have. It would be, therefore, very satisfying to British politicians if they could be assured that American policy would collaborate with them in protecting these vast interests and this foreign trade.

"Unfortunately for John Bull, however, the United States at this time has no disposition to mix in political affairs in Europe or the Orient, nor to promise in advance what we will or will not do. This tendency was eloquently and forcefully developed in the Senate recently in the defeat of the resolution which would have placed the United States in the League Court.

"Great Britain is a far-flung empire and she could naturally use our resources in the interest of British policy especially in the interest of 'peace and democracy.' But developments during the past dozen years have opened our eyes. We willingly gave up battleship supremacy over Great Britain in the interest of disarmament only to see that nation outstrip us in other implements of sea power. Then there is the question of international debts. Perhaps if John Bull is so anxious to have our support he will do something toward paying these instead of boasting about his treasury surplus.

"Of course we want to be friendly with Great Britain and the rest of the world. But when it comes to pulling other folks' chestnuts out of the fire, let us remember that we have plenty of chestnuts of our own at home. Our ventures abroad have been expensive and unsatisfactory."

"GIVE US MEN—"

(Mankato Free Press)

Congress is coming in for some severe criticism these days, as a result of the invalidation of the NRA by the supreme court and the apparent collapse of a major portion of the New Deal program because of conflict with the constitution.

That is a healthful sign. And instead of showing resentment congressmen should accept the criticism as justified attempt to restore their standing in the eyes of the public. It is well known to every close observer of events in Washington that a majority of Democrats as well as Republicans considered much New Deal legislation invalid, unnecessary, cloaked with arbitrary and unwarranted powers that could and possibly would be abused by the executive or bureaucratic chiefs appointed under him.

Still these congressmen voted for these bills. Why? Simply because they thought it was the popular thing to do. Principle surrendered to expediency. Now the supreme court has stepped in, placed these vacillating lawmakers on a spot where they properly deserve the sharp criticism that is showered on them. It is congress that should be held accountable—and it is congress alone that can correct the harm that has been done, can guard against such slips in the future.

Speaking of this tendency of legislators to vote for the popular issue rather than for sound principle Senator Glass delivered one of his typical Philippics recently when he said: "It is a self-evident proposition that the public man who permits himself to pause long enough to inquire whether a thing is popular or unpopular, instead of seeking to know whether it is right or wrong, is not only useless but dangerous to his country. He is a coward to begin with and a menace always."

Another equally pointed characteristic of congressmen who yield to the pressure of minority blocs, by Frank Kent, political writer: "It is impossible to convince scary congressmen, no matter how much evidence you present. Let one brave man who defied a lobby be licked and they are all licked for that reason. The truth is the average congressman is a rabbit, whose cabbage leaf mind is so completely concentrated on the job of prolonging his silly political life that he is always just one jump ahead of the jitters."

Unkind words—yet well deserved.

Two things are sorely needed in this country—some able, capable, strong men to run for congress—a sober minded electorate that will appreciate the abilities of such candidates and not only elect them but keep them in Washington.

About one more campaign in which we elect congressmen simply because they out-do one another in promising to "stand by the president" and our national law-making body will be as useful and effective as a grade-school kindergarten.

Topics of the Times

This city several months ago was promised a federal weather reporting station to be set up in July. We're ready to accept delivery any time now.

Under the Wagner bill, we presume, employers will still be permitted to meet the payroll.

Russian divorce laws are to be made more stringent, signifying a new era in Soviet union.

Things are rapidly coming to a head, particularly in the grain fields.

Life is especially complex for the men folks in the coatless summer days when the shortage of pockets in which to put things presents a serious problem.

It was hot in the Twin Cities last week—particularly around St. Paul police headquarters.

Congress seems to be interfering with the President's plan to preach a funeral sermon over the public utility holding companies.

Of course you can't judge a fellow's patriotism by the size of the firecrackers he sets off on the Fourth of July.

Judging by reports from Mussoliniland, the Ethiopians face a dark future.

A proofreader last week permitted the Times to refer to the humility of the weather on a recent hot day. The weather man needs not apologize if it stays cool.

The man who has lost his shirt frequently asks folks to "put it on the cuff".

Former Local Woman Enjoys Life in Alaska

Mrs. Carl Erickson Tells of Conditions in Matanuska Settlement

The press has recently published numerous complaints by members of the American colony recently established in the Matanuska valley in Alaska relating to the conditions under which they are living. In refreshing contrast is the following letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Archie Henstad from Mrs. Carl F. Erickson, formerly of Thief River Falls and lately of Wisconsin, who is a member of the colony. Her letter reads:

We certainly made a great move when we came up here and we are not sorry. I know you folks have read a lot of bunk in the papers, and don't believe a thing of it. It is only a few kickers that think everything should be carried to them on a silver platter. There have been delays of more kinds than one, but that is to be expected. There are quite a few cases of measles, but there was measles where we came from too.

We are living in tents and we like it. They are very comfortable, with screen doors and windows, floors, nice kitchen range, and lumber to make tables and benches and shelves. Every camp has a drilled well, and the water is very good tasting, and nice to wash with as it is very soft.

People are kicking about the roads. Well, new roads are not like pavement—we all know that. We came here to build up this valley, not to find it already made.

The air is something wonderful and the scenery is beyond description. We are surrounded by snow-capped mountains, and oh how beautiful! On a clear day they seem to be only a mile away. Any picture that you may see does not do justice to this country. Our family love it, and to me, who come from Norway, it was like coming home. The very woods and flowers are much the same.

It is not very many hours of the day that we do not see the sun here now, and when it does set it is still broad daylight all night long. My husband just cannot get used to it—in fact, no one knows when to go to bed. It is nothing strange to hear men cutting wood or doing some little carpenter work or sitting around visiting at 12 o'clock at night.

The erection of the homes has just begun, and nearly all the logs are cut. We want our home built with round logs, while some people want them sawed. They have two or three portable mills that have been running now for more than a week.

Sunday we drew for cows, and we got a nice three-year old Guernsey cow. You will laugh, but we named ours Prosperity. There has been a shortage of milk around our camp, and at one time only children under five could have milk, but as more stock was shipped in that condition changed, and there is now plenty of milk for everyone.

We also drew for hogs, but we were not lucky enough to get one, as there were not enough for all. The horses have not been drawn yet, as they are being used in the woods wherever needed. We are looking forward to that, as we all want a team.

We drew quite a nice piece of land. There are some better, also some not as good. We are only one and three-quarters miles from the railroad station which is Palmer. We used to think it cost quite a bit to travel by train in the states, but here it is a good deal higher, the rate being six cents a mile. It used to be 12 cents, so it is not so bad. But when a person sees what engineering has been done the price is not to be wondered at.

We came thru a narrow pass in the mountains between Seward and Anchorage, steadily going up and many times nearly meeting our own engine on the curves and loops going down the mountains. You may not believe it but the Rocky mountains and the Cascades look small to us after seeing all that I have described.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Erickson, Palmer, Alaska.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

Representatives of 30 benevolent insurance societies of Minnesota, at a meeting at the State Office building, last week, voted to adopt a code of ethics. Provisions of the code will be suggested after study by a committee of nine members of a new state association which was formed and will be submitted for ratification at a later meeting. The action was taken at the suggestion of Commissioner Frank Yetka of the state insurance department. He said that such a move is required to assure the conservation of assets of the 33 societies operating in the state for the benefit of certificate holders.

Information has come to S. Paul Skahen, Commissioner of Securities, that a small group of security salesmen are again attempting to sell whiskey warehouse receipts to the public of Minnesota under circumstances that will ultimately result in substantial loss to such purchasers. Because of a ruling that the sale of such receipts is in effect a sale of a commodity, Commissioner Skahen is powerless to prevent the sale and distribution of such warehouse receipts. Mr. Skahen, however, would welcome any inquiry concerning the proposed sale of whiskey warehouse receipts and suggests that before purchasing such receipts thorough investigation be made either through his department of local banks or licensed dealers concerning the reputation and standing of the distillery whose certificate is sought to be sold, and the particular brand of whiskey covered by the certificate.

The drivers' license principle received a splendid endorsement from police officials of the state when the annual convention of the Minnesota Police and Peace Officers' association unanimously urged that the state law be strengthened to provide an annual renewal of the license. At present, no renewal is required. Police and sheriff forces have come to appreciate the value of licensing drivers because it gives them a means of checking traffic crimes, and also because the individual license is extremely useful in making identifications. Much of this value is lost when a renewal of the license is not required at reasonable intervals.

"Economic slaves of today can become the masters of tomorrow" through intelligent national planning, with particular emphasis on the wise conservation of our natural resources. This prophetic statement was made in a conservation symposium conducted at the University of Minnesota as a major part of the program for the annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The speaker was Dr. Charles E. Merriam, chairman of the department of political science, University of Chicago. Dr. Merriam is one of the acknowledged political scientists in the country and is a member of the national resources board.

The state banking department established a record last week in bank liquidation. Six months after the Farmers State Bank of Bongard was taken over by the liquidation division, the department succeeded in paying the depositors of this institution 100 per cent in dividends. This was accomplished even after the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through its Liquidation Board refused to participate in any plan to make possible a 100% payment and after the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation refused to participate in a plan to make such action possible. The closing of this institution was only accomplished after the stockholders themselves decided that the future for a bank in that vicinity did not look bright, and they had no desire to continue in the banking business.

The meeting in Minneapolis last week of clergymen representing all religious denominations and leaders in the co-operative movement is of more than passing interest. This was the first time that representatives of the church and of the co-operative movement gathered for a conference in the Northwest to discuss the problem, its future, and its social and economic implications. A committee, in which the church is preponderantly represented, was formed to further co-operation, which squares with the highest tenets of all religious faiths. The church is beginning to realize the evils of the present cut-throat system of "rugged individualism" and the fact that it is opposed to every noble doctrine of the church.

Charles L. Horn, Minneapolis conservationist, makes a very worth while suggestion to the state conservation commission. Mr. Horn, as a tribute to the late Sam Anderson, who devoted years of his life to the conservation cause, recommends that the commission designate some park as the Sam Anderson park. The commission undoubtedly will give serious consideration to the suggestion.

The shamrock, being a form of clover, is one of the most ancient plants in Ireland and was the "seamrog" in Gaelic. It is one among many trifoliates. The kind best known has white blossoms, but it is cherished most for its leaves, which figure in holy tradition.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

GETS $500 FOR LOAD OF STOLEN WOOL

Fergus Falls.—A rather good haul for a day's work was netted by a stranger in Fergus Falls recently, who "borrowed" a truck, "borrowed" some wool, and sold his produce for 600, cash. The truck was stolen in Fargo. The man who stole it apparently drove from that city to Hankinson, N. D., during the night, broke into the warehouse of the Hankinson Wool Pool, and stole 14 bags of wool. The next morning he drove to Fergus Falls, representing himself to be a farmer from near Detroit Lakes, and sold the wool to E. J. Ness, being given a check for a little over $600. The man said he represented some of his neighbors, and that it was customary to pool the wool and sell it in one load. After cashing the check and unloading his cargo, the stranger drove into an alley where he left the truck, rubbed his hands together, and shook off the dust of Fergus Falls, well satisfied with the day's work.

DAKOTA MILLERS BOW TO DEKKOMEN SUNDAY; SCORE 2-1

Local Team Breaks Visitors Record of 13 Victories in Succession

Regaining their early season form, the Thief River Giants last Sunday broke the North Dakota Miller's string of victories when they gave them a 2 to 1 drubbing at the local park. The Millers had won thirteen straight victories when they tackled the local club which proved to be their Waterloo. Devils Lake and Wahpeton have been the only other clubs to defeat the Millers in twenty-four starts. Lefty Bob Heiberg allowed only five hits while striking out eleven men to chalk up his fifth home victory.

The game started out to be a pitcher's duel when both hurlers struck out two men in the first inning. In the second inning Schwazrock, first man up for the Millers, struck out and then Dunn hit a long drive to center field which was good for three bases but was called out at home plate when Hovden made a quick throw in to second and Haugen relayed it in to throw him out at home to save a possible score. The locals were in a nice position to score when in the third inning Bob Bell doubled to the left and Harold Thordal walked with only one man out and on the first pitch Thordal stole second and Bell tried to steal home, being thrown ou by the third baseman. Greeigen struck out to end the inning. In the fifth inning Hovden, first man up for the Giants, singled to center followed by Tony Elge infield hit to put men on first and second. The runners then made a double steal and both men scored on Harold Thordal's double to left for the Giant's only scores.

In the sixth the Millers scored their lone run when Baumgartner reached first on Philip's error and was driven in by Joe Bach's long double to left. Flaa then hit into a double play which Harold Thordal handled unassisted. Heiberg got himself out of a hole in the seventh inning when the bases were loaded with only one out and Grothe tried to hit into a squeeze play Schwazrock was trapped between third and home to end the threat.

Hovden, Giant's hitting sensation, continued on his batting spree to get three line singles in his four trips to the plate. In the last five games he has collected a total of nine hits in the eleven official times at bat. Harold Thordal's line double in the fifth proved to be the winning blow when he drove Hovden and Elg in for the Giant's only scores. Lefty Bob continued to outsmart the batters with his change of pace to add eleven more victims to his already imposing list of strikeouts. Baumgartner, Miller hurler, deserves credit allowing but nine hits while striking out nine men. This was by far the best game so far this year and it is hoped that a large number of fans will turn out to witness the next home game Sunday.

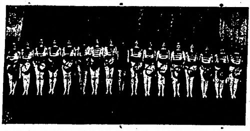
Ernie Young's "Trip Around the World" Revue at County Fair



Although the management of the Pennington County fair have always given their patrons the best of entertainment, it has been possible for them to obtain, sometimes circumstances are favorable for them to secure attractions out of the ordinary. Such has happened this year and they are pleased to announce that they have secured the appearance of the nationally known and deservedly popular musical melange entitled—Ernie Young's "Trip Around the World", for the fair which opens July 30 for a four day run.

Unlike practically all other Revues, this organization is staged from start to finish in a manner that is thought possible only in the best equipped theatres. By intricate and devious devices and mechanical arrangements, the Revue is mounted amid settings of great beauty and the scenic and electrical effects are not the least of its many attractions.

Add to this a talented roster of names high up in vaudeville circles, the corps who can really sing, and beautiful women, clothes in brilliant and unique costumes, and you have an ensemble that is hard to beat anywhere.

Many changes are made in the routines during the week the Revue will be here. New songs dances, and numbers will be of frequent ocurence, so that the show will always have a new aspect and be worth visiting again and again.

Uncle Sam says, "You're wrong... you think all Gasolines are alike!"

Uncle Sam makes a lot of jack by taxing gasolines. So he has to know exactly what goes into each brand. When he says, "Tydol Gasoline is different from the others!"... you can bet your boots it is different. So different in fact, that Uncle Sam taxes it twice... once as a gasoline, and once for the lubricant it contains.

"But," you ask, "why under the sun should a gasoline lubricate?" Here's why: There is only one way to give the upper cylinders and valves of your motor the lubrication they need... and that is to mix a fine lubricant with your gasoline. (Remember how the instruction book, with your new car, advised just that?) But adding a top-cylinder lubricant to your gas is both a nuisance and an expense. So Tydol does it for you. Into every gallon of Tydol is blended a super-lubricant (which is also a carbon-solvent). And, although Tydol gives you this extra lubrication service and pays the government an extra tax, lubricated Tydol Gasoline doesn't cost you an extra penny; in fact, it goes into your tank at the same price as ordinary motor fuels.

MAGNUS JOHNSON PLANS TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR'S POST

Makes His Announcement in Fourth of July Address at Bird Island

Magnus Johnson of Kimball, former United States senator and representative, touched off a big firecracker Thursday under the noses of farmer-labor party chieftains, with the announcement that he will be a candidate for governor next year. He broke the news in a speech at a big July 4 farmers' gathering at Bird Island, before several thousand.

The speech was interpreted as a flat announcement, regardless of the plans of the leaders, and perhaps without regard to action of the party convention.

"Since it is generally believed that our able Governor Olson is to run for the United State senate," Mr. Johnson said in his speech today, "many of my friends have urged me to file for the governorship.

"Members of my party during the past few months have besieged me seeking to know what my plans were for 1936. Many are anxious that I run for governor, and, although it is yet too early to foretell exactly what will take place next year, nevertheless I intend to be one of the farmer-labor candidates for governor in 1936".

Mr. Johnson, defeated for re-election to congress last fall by Congress Harold Knutson in the sixth district, was appointed recently as supervisor of live-stock weighing at South St. Paul. He is a veteran party leader.

Son of President May Attend Young Democrat Meet in St. Paul Friday

James Roosevelt, son of the President and secretary of the Young Democratic clubs of America, together with Cliff Woodward, of Washington, D. C., national president of the organization, are expected to speak at the first state convention of the Younger Democrats of Minnesota, it was stated yesterday by Geo. F. Williamson, of Minneapolis, state president of the organization in announcing completion of plans and committees for the convention, to be held in St. Paul on July 12 and 13. Sessions will be held in the St. Paul hotel and the President theater. Senator Rush Drew Holt of West Virginia, youngest member of the Senate and Elmer J. Ryan, Minnesota's only Democratic congressman and youngest member of the House of Representatives already have agreed to attend and address the Minnesota younger Democrats conclave.

LAKE DYNAMITED, MANY FISH KILLED

Elk River—Residents of the Twin lakes are aroused over the dynamiting of the lake recently, resulting in the killing of many fish. Some unknown person used dynamite at various places in the lake, evidently with the intent of killing fish for his own use. He accomplished his purpose, but in doing so killed a large number of the remaining fish. Many were found floating on the surface after the evening in question when the dynamite was set. The lake has been very low for a number of years, due to the drouth and drainage, but there have always been some bass and pickerel remaining. The use of the dynamite seems to have pretty well "unstocked" the lake, and it looks as though there would be little fishing the rest of the season.

ALLIANCE SEEKS CLOSED SEASON ON ALL WATERFOWL

Petitions President Also for Adequate Federal Enforcement

Presentation to President Roosevelt and congress of a massed petition representing 263,550 individuals, demanding a closed waterfowl season and adequate federal enforcement funds was announced Saturday by the Midwest Conservation Alliance.

Characterizing the appeal as "the greatest united sectional overture for wild life conservation on record," the alliance, piloted by regional and national wild life authorities, disclosed its domain as 11 states and one Canadian province.

"Originals of all petitions were presented President Roosevelt," the alliance bulletin asserted. "Printed transcripts have been forwarded to members of congress and the migratory bird advisory board, the secretary of agriculture and the chief of the biological survey."

States represented are Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Nebraska, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, California, Utah and New York. The Canadian province of Saskatchewan is included.

"The alliance was instituted by and for sportsmen", the bulletin continued. "Its original domain was one Canadian province and 11 midwest states, but overwhelming unsolicited responses from Utah, California and New York prompted addition of these areas to the massed appeal."

Kermit Roosevelt, New York, and Dr. W. T. Hornaday, Stamford Conn., were announced as among the alliance counselors.

"It is the unanimous sentiment of our far-flung constituency," the bulletin concluded, "that unless waterfowl are granted an immediate and complete closed season, several species will be lost forever, with others hustled nearer the threshold of extermination." The massed petition is composed of signed "closed season" affirmations on a form prepared by the alliance.

Historical Society Head Will Speak in Marshall Co. Sunday

A splendid program is promised to all who attend the second annual picnic of the Marshall County Historical Society to be held this year at the Big Woods Landing Sunday afternoon, July 14, says the Warren Sheaf. The place has a beautiful location on the bank of the Red River and it offers all accommodations for a large crowd.

The outstanding number of the program is the address by Dr. Theodore Blegen of Minneapolis, president of the state historical society, who is instructor in history at the University of Minnesota, and who also is a leading member of many other historical movements.

The concessions will furnish a variety of foods including home-cooked Norwegian dishes. To defray expenses a small charge of 15 cents will be made for each car. The place is easily reached by any of several roads. The highway one mile east and seven miles north of Oslo is graveled all the way.

"Leech Stations"

One of the subjects discussed at the first meeting of Ohio physicians and surgeons, held in 1831, was the proposal to provide "leech stations." As leeches, used to suck out bad blood, could not be found in all drug stores, physicians were anxious to establish depositories for the worms, as is now done to supply anti-toxin and other remedies used in treating diseases.

HOME-MADE MONEY ARTIST ARRESTED

Hendricks—One man's remedy for ending the depression was stamped out in Hendricks recently when "G" men swooped down on that town and arrested Guy Wright, charged with coining bogus money and passing it out to merchants. The Federal men gathered considerable information in town, and about 4:30 paid Wright a visit, placing him under arrest and searching the house. A toy casting machine, a machine used in making toys from hot lead, and a number of molds made from plaster paris were found. It is believed that Wright simply took casts of coins, and then used his casting machine to recast lead into the forms. It is alleged that Wright made a complete confession, clearing up the mystery of the bogus coins which have been circulating since the first of June. It took the "G" men less than a month to clear up the matter and place Wright under arrest.

A critic says he received a book recently that made him sit up nearly all night. Bankmanagers specialize in that sort of publication.—Punch (London).

SMILEY

The Fourth of July celebration on the Smiley ball grounds went over with a bang, despite the rain and bad roads. The program was held within the hall in the afternoon. The main speaker was Mrs. Holte of Crookston garbed in that gorgeous Indian chief head gear and dress, both genuine. Her talk was most interesting. The Smiley Women's Chorus under the direction of Elias Angell sang quite a number of songs. Other numbers on the program were cancelled for the day because of the inability of the prominent speakers and members on the program to be present because of that continuous downpour of rain. Contests were held also, those winning prizes were: Evelyn Samuelson in the egg race; Mrs. Richard Peterson in the fat women's backward race; Ann Stenseth and Ruth Angell in the three-legged race; Vera Luhe in the girl's fifty-yard dash; Willie Helgeland and Doris Helgeland in the Camel race, a group of Wyandotte club boys in the chariot race; Bruno Belswenger in the one leg man tug-o-war; Alfred Skjerping of Holt in the knock-off barrel contest. SMALLER WORLD WHEAT SUPPLY IS SEEN FOR 1935-6

Three Per Cent Reduction Forecast by Government Agency

A reduction of about three per cent in the world supply of wheat, outside of Russia and China, is in prospect this year despite an expected production increase of about five per cent, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics' report on world wheat prospects.

Stocks of old wheat as of July 1, 1935 will be about 295,000,000 bushels less than last year.

This year's production estimate is based on an estimate of a 35% increase in production in North America; about the same production this year as last in Europe—excluding Russia—and about a 35 per cent reduction in North Africa.

Continued dry weather in the southern hemisphere may cause a reduction there of more than 5 per cent.

Should the new crop in the United States total 670,000,000 bushels, and the carry-over about 160,000,000 bushels, there would be a surplus of about 80,000,000 bushels above the least amount needed for domestic use, says the report.

The Canadian crop, it is stated, may turn out to be about 365,000,000 bushels, compared with 276,000,000 bushels last year.

KITTENS IN BOX SCARE BIRDS FROM BERRIES

Mound—Something new in the way of a scare-crow is being used by George Plant, Mound, to keep birds away from his strawberry patch. Plant has two small kittens which he puts in a box with a screen over the opening. The box is turned on its side so the kittens won't be in the sun, and he puts in a dish of cream and some food regularly. The kittens play around in the box, making the kind of sounds kittens usually do, and the birds stay away from the strawberries in the region of the box. Plant claims that two kittens can make enough noise to protect a big piece of ground. The idea is not patented.

Heads State Bankers

WILLIAM N. JOHNSON

William N. Johnson, vice president in charge of the Department of Banks and Banking, of the Northwestern National Bank and Trust Company of Minneapolis, one of the best known of the younger bankers of the Northwest, was elected president of the Minnesota Bankers Association at its annual convention last week.

Mr. Johnson started with the Northwestern National Bank as a messenger boy at the age of 19. He has been assistant cashier, assistant vice president, and for four years vice president in charge of the important department of banks and banking. The only interruption to his banking career was when he served as first lieutenant in the 316th infantry in France during the war.

Farmers State Bank of Stephen Entered Sunday; $376 is Taken

The Farmers State bank of Stephen was robbed of approximately $376 late Saturday or early Sunday by burglars who gained entrance to the building by breaking down a rear door.

The combination knob was pulled off and the tumblers removed to gain access to the vault, but the burglars apparently could not break the time lock on the safe, where a large portion of the money was kept. The money that is missing was taken from change racks, officials said.

The sheriff's office at Warren was notified and Sheriff Tottner came to investigate. He is being assisted by Scott Hall of the Grand Forks police force and Edward Jenson of the state bureau of identification at St. Paul.

Work-relief should provide an increase market for small tools, especially chisels.—Muskogee Phoenix.

SUPPORT OF RURAL ELECTRIFICATION PROGRAM URGED

Farm Bureau Asks Farmers to Investigate Federal Program

Farmers are urged by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation to interest themselves in the possibilities of the rural electrification program of the federal government, which is backed by a $100,000,000 appropriation. Limitless power can be "pulled out of the air" and put to work on Minnesota farms if there is sufficient interest in the project, declares A. J. Olson, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation.

Rightly handled, the hundred million federal appropriation will make it possible for farmers to obtain electricity at a rate low enough to permit its wide-spread use, for lighting farm buildings, for modernizing them with running water, for operating washing machines, refrigerators, separators, milking machines, and many other things.

Until now the high cost of financing power lines and the prohibitively high cost of electric current has prevented farmers from using electricity. If the federal appropriation is made available to farmers' mutual electric companies, much advancement will be made in the near future, Mr. Olson declares. It is probable that existing municipal or privately owned plants would furnish the power, with farmers owning the lines.

Farm Bureau officers declare that if the rural electrification program is so drawn that farmers can take advantage of it, the resultant sale of electric equipment will be a vast stimulant to business, locally as well as in industrial centers. The Farm Bureau is urging at Washington that farmers' power lines be given full federal sanction and encouragement. Farmers wishing suggestions for local procedure in setting up co-operative electric lines are invited to write the Minnesota Farm Bureau, St. Paul.

"JONAH" FISH LODGES PERCH WHEN CAUGHT

Kenyon—Sizzling slices of fried pike, slightly flavored with perch, was the piece de resistance at Ray Mitchell's dinner table at Kenyon recently, as a result of his capture of a fish with cannibalistic tendencies. Fishing at Cedar Lake near Faribault, Mitchell pulled in a beautiful specimen of wall-eyed pike, a bit distended around the middle. A bit suspicious of the bulge, Mitchell opened his prize and found a seven inch perch snugly enclosed in somewhat the same fashion that Jonah was ensconced in the whale.

SOO PREPARES FOR HANDLING RECORD CROP

Four Hundred Cars Are Being Re-conditioned at Rip Track Here

OLD EMPLOYEES TAKEN BACK AT FORMER RANK

Division Grain Movement is Expected to be Largest Since 1915

Preparations for one of the largest grain movements in the history of the road are now being made by Soo Line officials who anticipate a record crop especially in the territory served by the local division. If the crop comes up to present expectations the facilities of the railroad will be taxed to the limit, according to W. H. Mann, assistant division superintendent. By speeding up train movements and increased efficiency in the handling of cars at the terminals he believes adequate service can be maintained.

A twenty million bushel movement over the eleven hundred miles of the Winnipeg Division is a possibility according to the present crop outlook, Mr. Mann states, which would equal the record of 1915. The largest crop movement over this division since that time was in 1928 when sixteen million bushels were hauled to market.

Among other preparations that are being made to handle this large volume of traffic which will get under way about the middle of August, a thousand grain cars are being reconditioned. Four hundred of these are scheduled for repairs at the Thief River Falls rip track which already has begun to hum with activity. The round house crew has not been increased as yet but it is expected that more men will also be put to work there as soon as the movement of extra trains starts, all of the running repairs to the engines being made at this point. Hours of work on the rip track have been increased from 35 to 42 per week.

All former employees of the company, those dropped from the board during the years of slack business, are being reinstated in the order of their former rank, and many young local men will be given an opportunity to "railroad" again. Business of the entire division will be dispatched from Thief River Falls and additional dispatchers and operators will be put to work. Yard crews will also have to be increased to keep a steady movement of cars through the terminals.

In order to get maximum use out of available grain cars train movements will be greatly accelerated. Under ordinary operating conditions a car is expected to handle three loads in a period of two months. It is expected that the movement will be speeded up to a point where a car will make on an average of two loads a month.

Thief River Falls is the operating headquarters of the largest division of the Soo Line system, the lines controlled from the local office extending from Thief River Falls to Duluth, Duluth to Glenwood, Glenwood to Noyes, Thief River Falls to Kenmare and Fordville to Drake, or a total of 1115 miles. In recent years, during the period of slack business, the local Soo line payroll has totaled approximately a quarter of a million dollars a year. This payroll will of course be substantially increased as business improves during the fall and winter months.

Specialist Instructs Women in Art of Canning Vegetables

A canning demonstration conducted by Mrs. Evelyn Sell, canning specialist under the state emergency relief administration, was well attended by the housewives of this community last Monday and Tuesday.

The whole subject of vegetable canning was discussed, suggestions were given as to what and how much of each vegetable to can per person, how to prepare vegetables for canning, methods to use, cause of food spoilage and other essential facts. Different types of vegetables were canned using methods approved for each type.

Individual problems of food preservation were discussed. Bulletins written by Inez M. Hovart, extension nutritionist, were available for all those who desired to make use of them.

This is the last of a group of more than forty lectures that Mrs. Sell has delivered in the last few weeks. Considerable interest has been taken by the housewives and it has undoubtedly been beneficial.

Donkey Baseball Will be Played Here Aug. 14

Business Men Challenge Farm Clubs to Contest at Fair Grounds

Donkey Baseball, the funniest sport ever invented, is coming to Thief River Falls, the night of Wednesday, August 14. Without a doubt a new laugh record for this community will be set that night when members of the Civic and Commerce Association and Pennington County Farm Clubs meet at the Fair grounds park to ride wild-eyed donkeys and play baseball at the same time. The players are now being selected and the line-up will be announced next week.

The Bar J Ranch veteran troupe of "Mountain canaries" will introduce Donkey Baseball to Thief River Falls under the auspices of the Civic & Commerce Association. This organization has issued a challenge to the farmers' clubs of the county through E. B. Norum, assistant county agent.

The names of the eminent baseball donkeys which compose the Bar X Ranch troupe are: "Mae West", "Moon Mullins", "Bungle", "Pop Eye", "Jesse James", "Huey Long", "Andy Gump", "Wimpy", "Pretty Boy", "Madame Queen", "Amos" and "Andy". The players will ride these donkeys without bridle or saddle.

Folks who have seen Donkey Baseball games in other cities say it is the funniest thing they have seen in years. They say the crowd is kept in a constant uproar by the antics of the players and donkeys.

Donkey Baseball is played on a regulation sized diamond with circles marked on the ground to be used as bases. The fielders and batters ride donkeys—or try to. The pitcher and catcher are the only players not mounted on donkeys. They are not allowed to get out of a certain lane marked off between the box and the plate. A soft ball is used and the batter always gets a hit.

The Bar X Ranch donkeys are all trained and according to advance reports they are as liable to start toward third base as they are toward first. Sometimes they will not start at all.

Smiley Community Club offered their hall and grounds for this picnic and a good program has been arranged by the communities. There will be a Farm Bureau speaker present. Other attractions will be the 4-H Club Band from St. Hilaire, kittenball tournament between Community Clubs, races, horseshoe pitching, and other events ordinarily staged at a picnic.

It would be possible for those coming to this picnic to park on both sides of the river as there is a foot bridge across the river to the Community Hall. Those coming from the east can park on the east side of the river and those from the west can park near the hall.

At a meeting of the Farm Bureau directors on Saturday evening, July 13th, the following committees were appointed to make arrangements for this picnic:

The Farm Bureau is interested in having every farmer who would care to come, present at this picnic.

FAIR BOARD PREPARES FOR RECORD CROWD

Expect Attendance Figures to Reach New High as Opening Date Approaches

MORE ATTRACTIONS ADDED TO PROGRAM

Authorize Building of New Gate and Painting of Barns Recently Erected

Final preparations for the thirty-fourth county fair were arranged for at a meeting of the directors of the Pennington County Agricultural Society last night. With excellent prospects for record breaking attendance, the purchase of additional attractions was authorized in order to provide the strongest entertainment program ever presented here. The grounds committee was directed to have the grand stand and bleachers in condition to handle capacity crowds and also to improve the facilities at the outside gate to speed up the movement of cars.

While fairs thruout the state are increasing admission charges this year to meet the increased cost of operation and attractions, the twenty-five cent admission price will be maintained here and, as usual in recent years, children under twelve years of age will be admitted free. Special efforts are being made to interest exhibitors in all departments and the interest already in evidence indicates that as an exposition of the progress of the community the fair will be well up to standard.

Ernie Young's Revue assures an outstanding evening program in front of the grand stand. The show is coming here direct from Chicago and carries with it a solid baggage car of scenic effects. This is Ernie Young's so called "Glass Show" which had a successful run in New York last winter and which was presented at the Minnesota state fair two years ago. Fifty dancers and entertainers take part in the mammoth production.

The afternoon program will consist of harness racing and eight vaudeville acts, several of which are distinctly "big time" entertainment. More than forty horses have already been entered for the racing events.

One of the popular features of the Ernie Young show that was presented here several years ago was the public wedding and Secretary H. J. Lund was instructed to request Mr. Young to repeat this number again this year.

DR. A. M. SMITH IS ELECTED TO SCHOOL BOARD

Receives 283 Votes in Close Election in Which 649 Take Part

LARSON AND DOUVILLE TIE FOR SECOND PLACE

Tie Vote Causes Controversy Over Procedure; Board May Appoint

Dr. A. M. Smith was elected to membership on the school board in an election Tuesday evening that was so close it resulted in a tie for second honors, Mrs. Frances Larsen and William J. Douville each getting 272 votes. Dr. Smith led the field with a scant margin of thirteen votes, his total being 283, while Olaf Neset trailed with a total of 185. There was more interest in the contest than any school board election in recent years, 649 voters taking part.

The tie vote between Larson and Douville has raised an interesting question on procedure. According to available opinions it seems that in cases of tie votes in school elections neither candidate is elected and that after August first, when the term of office in question expires, there will be a vacancy which the board can fill until the next election by appointment. The statutes provide that if the board fails to fill a vacancy within ten days after the vacancy exists then any three qualified voters may petition for a special election.

In this case the tie may be broken by a court decision on one questionable ballot. This ballot was marked plainly for Douville and had only one line instead of the completed cross after the name of Mrs. Larsen. The tellers allowed the vote for Douville but did not count it as a vote for Mrs. Larsen. A court decision finding this to be a vote for her would give Mrs. Larson the election by a margin of one vote. When the vote was found to be a tie a recount was immediately taken, changing the tellers, but the results were the same in both counts.

Mrs. Larsen is the senior member of the board at the present time, having served as a director fifteen years. During the past two years she has served as treasurer. Mr. Neset has served nine years, the past two years of which he has held the office of clerk.

The organization meeting of the new board will be held on Saturday, August 3. Other members of the new board are E. M. Bennes, B. O. Norby, A. M. Senstad, and Ralph W. Woolhouse.

The reading of the reports of the treasurer and clerk took place immediately before the opening of the polls for the election. These reports were read by Frances R. Larsen and Olaf Neset respectively.

According to the annual statement and report of the clerk the balance on hand July 1, 1934, was $10,715.72. Revenue from current taxes was $41,607.21, from delinquent taxes $6,096.06, from state and county apportionment $18,179.20; from state aid $50,949.72; from income tax $1,250.60 and from other sources $4,396.85 or a total of receipts of $122,195.86.

Disbursements for the year were as follows: for general control $3,560.92; for instruction $61,722.06; for operation $12,812.24; for maintenance $5,895.38; for auxiliary expense $3,616.42 and for fixed charges $1,934.20. The total for current expense was $91,341.20. Capital outlay including permanent improvements and debt service totaled $20,439.32, leaving a total cash balance of $10,414.34.

At the present time the bonded debt of the district totals $140,000.00. Of this total $32,000, the last of the six per cent bonds, come due next February. The board expects to be able to take these up when due.

Summer garden flowers decorated the Trinity Lutheran Church for the wedding of Miss Gladys Williamson and Orvis H. Olen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Olen of Shelly, which took place at 8:00 o'clock Sunday morning. The Rev. R. M. Fjelstad performed the ceremony. Mrs. Mildred Engen Hamilton played the wedding music.

Both attendants wore light blue accessories and carried bouquets of talisman roses and baby breath. Mr. Thorston Williamson, brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man.

Decorations were carried out in yellow and white in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Williamson for the three course breakfast which followed the wedding. Baskets of flowers were placed about the rooms, and a basket of daises and yellow tapers for the table continued the chosen color scheme. A wedding cake centered the brides table. W. C. T. U. News Notes

"Once more the real force behind the effort to legalize intoxicants—greed— has shown itself," is the assertion made by an Atlanta attorney of the fight recently made in Georgia which resulted in legalization of beer and wine, but the continued outlawing of the harder liquor.

"An advocate of beer frankly urged that it would fill vacant buildings in Atlanta," Mr. Walter continued, as quoted by the Christian Science Monitor, "and that was his reason for urging that it be legalized. But even so, the grounds of his appeal are fallacious.

"It is a well-known fact that beer saloons seek back streets and side streets and do not show themselves on the main thoroughfares and in the region of high rents.

"Several years ago one of Atlanta's most civic-minded and efficient business organizations, the General Marrietta Street Association, went to considerable expense and trouble to remove beer saloons and poolrooms from the section in which its members were chiefly interested. They realized, because they had proof in their business records, that retail trade shuns the areas of saloons and other haunts of the criminal element and that no section could thrive in which intoxicants were sold."

An old-timer is the one who can remember when the only national problem was a tariff.—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

SCHOOL DEBT DOWN

School election excitement does awaken interest in school management problems and considering the heavy burden of debt under which the district was laboring a few years ago it might not be out of order to call attention again to the progress that is being made in the retirement of this indebtedness. The peak of this district's debt was $300,000. That was back in the early twenties when this community was experiencing a depression. At the present time this total has been reduced to $140,000. Next February the last block of six per cent bonds come due. The original issue due at that time was for $68,000 but the district has been buying these bonds as they have been able to get them and now only $32,000 of them remain outstanding and these will be taken up when due, paid for by the reserves that are being maintained for that purpose. So from a financial standpoint, considering the fact that by next Spring the indebtedness will have been reduced to $108,000, the district is in excellent condition.

A RAILROAD TOWN AGAIN

If present crop prospects thruout the Soo Line territory materialize, Thief River Falls will really be a railroad town again this winter. Preparations for handling a record grain movement over the division which headquarters here are now under way and every available railroad employee will probably be back on the job again before many more weeks have passed. And this railroad payroll is no small item when trains are running. Even during the years of slack business it averages better than twenty thousand dollars a month locally. With good business on the road this volume will double.

The swimming pool problem seems to have been satisfactorily solved in Thief River Falls. At any rate there is much favorable comment on the fine beach that has been provided and judging from the large number of people who are enjoying a swim these days the good reports must be justified. Some day the fine possibilities in the river at this point will really be developed. The progress that is being made in that direction is most encouraging.

Many baseball fans missed seeing a good game two weeks ago when Thief River Falls won a close contest with the Dakota Millers by a two to one score. These teams will play here again next Sunday, and while you can never tell in advance what a baseball game is going to be, this one should be worth seeing.

Donkey baseball is going to be introduced here next month when the business men meet the farmers in a contest at the fair grounds. We have been assured that the donkeys are equipped with rubber shoes and local doctors have volunteered to maintain a first aid station on the side lines but something tells us that it isn't only the donkeys that are going to look like jackasses when the final whistle blows.

We have become accustomed to having Thief River Falls receive high ratings for its many varied distinctions but this week the mail brought us a national recognition of our high standing in the state of Minnesota in a manner that completely unnerved us. A survey of the state conducted by the federal power commission revealed the fact, and broadcast it thruout the length and breadth of the land, that our city had the highest rate for a hundred kilowatts of power of any city of comparative size. Fortunately this is a sad condition that will soon be corrected—we hope.

THE SPIRIT OF AVIATION

We were in Bob Carlisle's office the other day when a radio news flash announced that the stratosphere baloon had collapsed before its scheduled flight from out near Rapid City, South Dakota. "There," said Bob, "is a good subject for an editorial." "All right", said we, "if it's such a hot subject why don't you write one for us." "Okey," he snapped back, "I will", and right then and there he dashed off the following inspirational comment:

> "Another stratosphere flight has failed. Hours of painstaking labor, hundreds of thousands of dollars, apparently lost in a few minutes of time.
>
> "But man will not be discouraged. This is just another incident in the record of the progress of aviation.
>
> "As far back as 1670 a Jesuit priest conceived the idea of a "flying boat" but the design was not practical. It was not until 1780 that two Frenchmen rose in a "fire baloon" and travelled a distance of twenty-five miles. From that time on baloon travel as a means of navigation was assured.
>
> "The first recorded attempt to fly with man made wings dates back many centuries. This attempt failed because, flying too near the sun, the wax securing the pinions of the ship melted and it crashed upon the Athenian hills. This myth still persists as one of the many interesting Greek legends.
>
> "And it holds double interest for us who are concerned with today's flying because it proves that there has been no time in all of the annals of history in which man has not desired the power and ability to rise above the earth and soar through the sky like the birds of the air.

It will interest our readers to know that we have offered Mr. Carlisle a position as chief of the aeronautical division of the Times editorial staff.

MAKING BEACHES SAFE
(Anoka Union)

When one notices the number of drownings that have taken place in the lakes of Minneapolis, one cannot help wondering why a city of that size does not take adequate steps in the prevention of drownings at its public beaches. Upon investigation it was found that half of the public beaches of Minneapolis were patrolled by paid life guards, a few were patrolled by volunteer guards working under the auspices of the Red Cross, while a great many had no supervision at all. It would probably be enlightening to the Minneapolis officials if they would travel to Anoka and see our patrolled municipal bathing beach.

ARTIFICIAL PROGRAMS FUTILE
(Long Prairie Leader)

A few years hence it will be interesting to look back on present day government activities having to do with recovery and in the light of history contemplate some of the things now being done.

The president with $1,800,000,000 to spend to aid relief and stimulate recovery is at his wit's end to try and find what to do with the money. The most curious schemes are being advanced and some projects that to say the least are fantastic, are being planned. The intention is good but the administration is discovering what a lot of hard-headed old-timers have known from the beginning—it is not possible to create work artificially and have it much else than wasteful.

It is beginning to dawn even in the inner recesses of the brain trusters that there is something lacking in artificial creation of work and that flinging money right and left doesn't accomplish anything in the solution of the problem. The natural way for unemployment to cease is for business to recover. Then jobs are created and endeavor is useful. Heaping enormous taxes on business and imposing restrictions that harass and hinder have only one effect—to delay the time when industry in a natural way does the things that never will be done otherwise to solve permanently the unemployment problem. In other words, the country would get back on its feet, business would revive and expand and things would become natural again if permitted to do so. It looks as if the big job now is to head off the whole artificial program—and just let nature take its course.

IT'S OUR OWN FAULT
(Watertown, S. D., Public Opinion)

If the railroads killed as many travelers as the automobiles do, they would be destroyed by outraged public sentiment. The trouble with the automobile problem is we inflict it upon ourselves and decline to take the restraints which will furnish the remedy.

The most lovable quality that any human being can possess is tolerance. It is the vision that enables one to see things from another's viewpoint. It is generosity that concedes to others the right to their own opinions and their own peculiarities. It is the bigness that enables us to let people be happy in their own way instead of our way.—Northfield News.

ANOTHER TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION

On Tuesday, July 23rd, we will conduct another tractor and plowing demonstration on the Gus Hillyer farm six miles north of town on road past golf course.

In this demonstration we will have the "F12" McCormick-Deering Farmall and W30 tractors on Goodyear rubber tires.

Most interesting will be the demonstration of the new McCormick-Deering diesel tractor. This is the first tractor of it's kind ever built for farm use, and a great advancement in farm power as well as fuel economy.

The demonstration will start at ten o'clock in the morning and continue all day, unless rain then will be postponed until following day, or when weather permits.

Ladies Aid Will Serve Lunch

The Ladies Aid of the Community church will serve a 15 cent lunch in the afternoon during the tractor demonstration which will add much to comfort as well as interesting afternoon.

MACHINE SHORTAGE

Some time ago we announced that there would be a shortage of farm machinery for this year. We have already experienced this fact and while we still have some binders on hand and will get some additional, we know positively that we will not get nearly all the grain binders we will need for our trade this year. We are giving you this final warning to place your order early if you need a binder especially. This is also true in regard to many other machines.

The F12 McCormick-Deering Farmall is today the most popular tractor and it will be impossible to fill late orders. Many shall be wanting them this fall but only a few shall receive, unless orders are placed early. In case of crop failure, we will not expect you to take delivery.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times,
Thief River Falls, Minn.
Dear Sir:

After seeing the wonderful appearance and listening to the rythm of the Ladies Auxiliary Drum and Bugle Corps of your city while here at the State Legion Convention, I could not refrain from writing publicly to highly compliment them, and your city for having them as one of the best advertising units Thief River Falls ever had. Much should be done by each and every one there to help these ladies with equipment and instruction. I am a one time resident of Thief River Falls and sure made me proud to point out this organization as being from my old home town. Again I wish to say I hope in the ensuing year business men and citizens in general will get behind this clever organization and they will without any doubt hold their own with any competition in the country. Wish I could personally shake hands and congratulate every member of the Corp for their wonderful showing over here.

Respectfully yours,
Scott Hall.

Wm. Paetznick, 51, Killed in Accident Near Middle River

Wm. Paetznick, well known Middle River farmer, was killed early Monday evening about 4½ miles southeast of Middle River when the automobile he was driving tipped over in a four foot ditch, pinning him underneath. Mr. Paetznick had been in Middle River during the day and was returning to his home when he evidently lost control of the car which resulted in the fatal accident. He was found underneath the car by a passing motorist about seven p. m. Deputy Sheriff Marshall Kays and Dr. H. M. Illegen, county coroner, motored to the scene of the accident Monday evening.

Funeral services for William C. Paetznick, born in Germany Nov. 8, 1883, were held Wednesday in the Norwegian Lutheran Church of Middle River with services read by Rev. Treistad.

Remaining to mourn his death are his wife and five children, 3 sons, Leslie, Willie and Lyle, and two daughters, Florence and Mrs. Herman Severt of Middle River.

The deceased came to America at the age of two years and settled in Middle River in 1888. He was married in Crookston, June 11, 1914 to Miss Mary Hoh.

H. O. Chommie Enters Pine to Palm Event

Golfers from all over the northwest, including Thief River Falls, will gather in Detroit Lakes July 24 to 27 to vie for honors in the fifth annual Pine to Palm, Minnesota's fastest growing tournament.

In 1934, a total of 152 club swingers from six states and three Canadian provinces were entered. Officials this year plan for a record breaking entry of 200. H. O. Chommie is entered in competition with other prominent golfers of the northwest. Gus Novotny of Chicago who won the title last year, will not be back to defend his laurels. Former champions who will attempt to regain the honors are Pat Sawyer and Virgil Roby, late of Minneapolis.

DEKKO'S GIANTS SCALP WHITE EARTH INDIANS SUNDAY

Score 11-0; Dakota Millers Will Attempt to Avenge Defeat Sunday

Resuming an ancient feud, that of the Indian and the white man, this time there were no hard feelings and no blood spilt when Shorty Dekko's Giants administered an 11 to 0 drubbing to the White Earth Indians.

Lefty Helberg was again on the mound for the Locals and was in great form to shut out the Indians with but three measly scratch hits. Lefty worked easily and forced the Redmen to hit, rather than striking them out thereby saving himself for next Sunday's important game.

The Giants scored one run in the first on doubles by Harold Thorial and Hovden; one in the second when Big Tony Eig singled and came all the way home on errors by Huseth and Murphy. The locals scored one more run in the third and four in the fourth on singles by Gronigen, Hovden, and Nordby together with errors by Herfindal and B. Spry. There were two more runs in the sixth and two in the eighth for a total of eleven.

Harold Gronigen appears to have recovered his batting eye when he collected three line singles and two walks in five trips to the plate. After being hit in the groin in the third inning when he slid into third base, Gronigen couldn't continue catching so he moved into the shortstop position and Harold Thorial proved himself to be an able understudy to the peppery Gronigen behind the bat. Hovden held up his high batting average in getting a double and two singles in five trips to the plate. Oscar Nordby also collected three hits and a walk to boost his average.

Next Sunday the Giants will meet the Dakota Millers in a return engagement at the local park. The Giants defeated the Millers in the first game 2 to 1 and the Millers are determined to avenge the previous defeat with a victory. This will prove to be one of the high spots of the season and all the fans should be out there giving the locals their backing. The Millers have lost only three games out of about twenty-five played this season and will try to add another to their string.

NEW YORK PASTOR TO SPEAK AT BAPTIST CHURCH JULY 8

Rev. C. A. Segerstrom former pastor of the First Baptist Church of New York City will speak at the Baptist Church here Thursday, July 18 at 8 P. M.

Waseca.—The days of hardy pioneers were brought back to Waseca recently when Mrs. Harry Honts, farmer's wife near that town, calmly killed a rattlesnake. Mrs. Honts was sitting on the front porch when she heard an unusual noise under the step. When she stoped to see what it was, a snake's head darted toward her. Luckly it struck a board supporting the porch floor. Although badly frightened, Mrs. Honts grabbed a garden rake, dragged the rattler from under the porch and killed it with the aid of the family dog. The snake had 10 rattles and measured five feet eight inches.

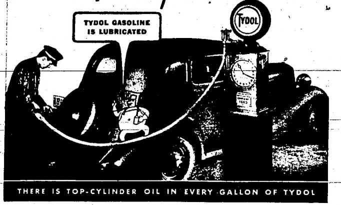
"I'LL save you money"
SAYS The Engineer IN EVERY GALLON



THERE IS TOP-CYLINDER OIL IN EVERY GALLON OF TYDOL

LOTS of car owners are discovering that "the engineer in every gallon" represents the biggest improvement that has been made in gasoline in a long, long time... an improvement that means extra miles in your gas tank, extra power in your motor, extra money in your purse. For "the engineer" stands for the fact that Tydol Gasoline is lubricated. Blended into every gallon of this new type motor fuel, is a super top-cylinder oil and an active carbon-solvent. This extra lubricant does plenty to make your motor run better. It keeps valves from sticking. It reduces carbon. It safeguards upper-cylinder walls and pistons from wearing heat and friction. In fact, it does as much to tune up your motor's performance as though there were "an engineer in every gallon." Stop at the Tydol pump! Get this extra-duty motor fuel at no extra cost.

BABY WILD DUCKS WANDER INTO TOWN

Elbow Lake—Whether it was an impending celebration in the town or just a natural childish desire to see the sights, nine newly hatched wild ducks wandered into Elbow Lake recently and were rescued by Hans Germundson on the Ben Anderson lawn. In his capacity as handy man around the village, Germundson has been called upon for many odd jobs, but this is the first time it has fallen to his lot to act as a nurse maid to a flock of baby wild ducks in the heart of a village. He gathered them up carefully and carried them down to the lake where they were turned loose in more natural surroundings.

TWO THIEF RIVER HORSES IN MONEY AT FARGO RACES

Wallace Dillon Came in 2-3-4 in 2:18 Pace in Field of Twelve Starters

Two local horses were in the money at the North Dakota State Fair races at Fargo last week. Wallace Dillion, owned by Harry Lund, came in 2-3-4 in the 2:18 pace Friday afternoon. The time on this race, with a field of twelve starters, was 2:12, 2:11 and 2:11. On Thursday afternoon Roy Lambert's four year old Tipona Meadows, came in third in the last two heats of the 2:24 pace. This was her first start, and she attracted attention because she was the only green starter in a field of six. The time on these heats was 2:16 and 2:19. High Peter, four year old owned by D. J. Shaw, was entered for this race but did not start.

These three Thief River Falls horses race at Langdon and Hamilton, North Dakota this week and are entered in the Pennington County Fair races. Tipona Meadows may not start here, however, as she is entered on a southern circuit and probably will race in Iowa that week.

Provides Short Course for Study of Wild Life at Itasca State Park

The University of Minnesota, through its forestry and biological station at Itasca Park, on the shores of Itasca Lake, is this year offering new opportunities for the study of wild-life conservation and game management, botany, zoology, and plant pathology. For more than 25 years, the University has maintained a forest summer school at Itasca State Park, for the study of forestry, botany, and entomology. Now, owing to increasing demand from those interested in biological studies, added courses will be offered as a part of the second term of the summer session of the University, the work all being done at the Itasca Park station as a field laboratory, offering exceptional opportunities for a combination of life in the open and pursuit of special studies. The term will be from August 5 to September 7. Dr. A. A. Granovsky of the division of entomology, University Farm, will be in charge.

The teaching staff will consist of Botany—Neil L. Huff, Martin L. Grant, and Henry Oosting.

Entomology and Economic Zoology—Dr. Granovsky and Ralph T. King.

Forestry—Mr. Grant.

Plant Pathology—Louise Dosdall.

Zoology—Samuel Eddy and Ralph W. Dawson.

The buildings and equipment of the University of Minnesota forestry school at Itasca will be used. The buildings include: Forestry Lodge, with assembly room; cottages for dormitories; a large laboratory, and library building. For the session this year, not more than 100 can be admitted.

Details as to arrangements may be obtained from the Director of Summer Session, 235 Administration Building, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn.

SEVEN YEAR OLD BOY LANDS 27 LB. MUSKIE

Bigfork.—Seven year old Chester DeLong and his brother, Edward, nine, can lay claim to being the champion boy muskie fishermen of Itasca county. They will enter the contest this year with a specimen tipping the scales at 27 pounds and 7 ounces. Armed with a short pole, heavy line and a piece of raw potato for bait on a three-way hook, the lads had a battle on their hands soon after throwing the line into the depths. Unable to land the big fellow, one of the boys ran for help, and their mother responded to help them end the battle in 20 minutes. Local anglers declare there is nothing remarkable about the catch as far as the raw potato bait is concerned. Potatoes have been used successfully in that section for years. Red flannel, white pearl buttons, chewing gum and raisins have also been used with success. The Bigfork river is full of fish of various kinds, and in former years people have landed big ones on the tines of their pitch forks.

June U. S. Slaughter of Meat Animals is Smallest on Record

June slaughter of meat animals in the United States was one of the smallest on record, according to the livestock market bulletin issued by the Central Co-Operative Association, farmer-owned livestock selling agency at South St. Paul.

Most of the reduction is due to the extremely small number of hogs slaughtered, the June total being 1,828,279 head or about half the average June hog slaughter, and two-fifths of the June slaughter in 1933.

During the first half of 1935, total hog slaughter in the United States was 13,792,000 head or practically half the average six months slaughter since 1920.

While cattle slaughter during June, at 669,263 head is a sharp reduction from June last year when thousands of cattle were forced to slaughter because of the drouth, it is about in line with the average June cattle slaughter for other years. The six-month cattle slaughter at 4,414,782 head also is about equal to the average corresponding periods in other years.

Sheep and lamb slaughter during June this year was 1,420,679 head. This figure has been exceeded by three other June totals, and six-month sheep slaughter at 8,343,191 head is fourth largest on record.

Sheep production is still large and the cattle population of the country is about equal to the average, but with pork extremely scarce, sheepmen and cattlemen should get along well.

The biologists find a relation between brain power and chest development. A wrestler who just thought of something is a dynamic sight.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

LEARNS 434 BIBLICAL PASSAGES IN 14 DAYS

Jackson.—Elroy Abrahamson, 14 year old farm youth living near Jackson, can recite 434 Psalms, parables and other verses from the Bible, establishing some sort of a record for Biblical memorizing. He learned the passages during a recent two week's vacation Bible school in Gethsemane church tent in Duluth. Previously to this time, he had made no effort to learn the passages. His memory worked almost automatically after he had read the verses only once.

Facts About Marshall Co.

Since at least the eastern part of Marshall county lies in Thief River Falls trade territory we have decided to present the account of the sources of geographical names of Marshall county by Warren Upham as published in the Minnesota Historical Society collections. The account follows:

"This county, established Feb. 25, 1879, was named in honor of William Rainey Marshall, governor of Minnesota. He was born near Columbia, Mo. Oct. 17, 1825; but his boyhood was spent in Quincy, Ill., to which place his parents removed in 1830. At the age of 16 years, in company with his older brother Joseph, he went to the lead mines of Galena, where he worked several years and learned land surveying.

"In 1847 he came to St. Croix Falls, Wis., and in 1849 to Minnesota, settling at St. Anthony Falls and opening a general hardware business, with his brother Joseph. For Franklin Steele and others he surveyed the St. Anthony Falls townsite, his plat being dated Oct. 9, 1849. Two years later he removed to St. Paul, which thenceforward was his home, and became its pioneer hardware merchant. In 1855 he founded a banking business, which failed in the financial panic of 1857; and subsequently he engaged in farming and stock-raising, and brought to Minnesota its earliest high-bred cattle.

"Marshall was commissioned in August, 1862, as lieutenant colonel of the Seventh Minnesota regiment; aided in the suppression of the Sioux outbreak, and in the expedition of 1863 against the Sioux in North Dakota; and afterward served through the Civil war in the South, being promoted colonel of his regiment in November, 1863, and brevetted brigadier general Mar. 13, 1865. He was governor of Minnesota during two terms, 1866-70, being 'one of the best chief magistrates the state has ever had.' In 1876-82 he served as the state railroad commissioner.

"In 1893 he was elected secretary of the Minnesota Historical society, of which he had been president in 1868; but he resigned in 1894, on account of ill health, and went in hope of recovery to Pasadena, Calif., where he died Jan. 8, 1896. An obituary sketch by Rev. Edward C. Mitchell, was published in the eighth volume of this society's historical collections."

The article then continues with an account of the naming of the townships and villages of the county:

"Information of the origins of names was received from the History of the Red River Valley, from August G. Lundgren, county auditor; and Peter Holan, deputy auditor; John P. Mattson, editor of the Warren Sheaf, and Hon. Andrew Grindeland, district judge, each being interviewed during a visit at Warren, the county seat, in August, 1909; and again from [illegible]

Vega township, has the name of a seaport and river in Mexico, about 40 miles southeast of Vera Cruz. It is also the name of a small city in Texas, and of villages in Indiana and California. Argyle, a large railway village in Middle River township, bears the name of a county in western Scotland, which is borne also by a township in Maine and by villages in nine other states. This name was proposed by Hon. H. G. Comstock, for whom a township of this county is named.

"Augsburg township, organized in 1884, was named by its Lutheran people for the ancient city of Augsbury in Bavaria, Germany. The chief Lutheran creed, called the Augsbury confession, was submitted to the Diet of Augsbury in 1530; and a treaty was made there between the Lutheran and Catholic states of Germany, Sept. 25, 1555, which secured the triumph of the Reformation by granting authority for the separate to prescribe the form of worship within their limits.

"Big Woods township, organized in 1882, has a wide border of timber along the Red river. Bloomer township, also organized in 1882, received its name from the village of Bloomer in Chippewa county, Wisconsin, whence some of its settlers came.—Northwestern Feature Service.

Weed Flavor in Milk is Common This Year

Weed flavors in milk have been more common than usual this year, says S. T. Coulter of the division of dairy husbandry, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn. The cause, doubtless, is the greater prevalence of weeds this year. The weather has favored the germination of weed seeds and the growth of weeds had been rank. Among the more common weed flavors encountered this year are those of pepper grass and French weed, both widely distributed in Minnesota. Both of the plants are members of the mustard family and secret substances which produce oil of mustard, oil of garlic, or both.

Fortunately, says Mr. Coulter, few cows will eat freely of these weeds unless forced to it by lack of other forage.

It is desirable, of course, to remove weeds of this kind, or of other kinds producing undesirable flavors in milk, from pastures. But that is not an easy thing to do. Mr. Coulter suggests that if weeds are found to have too much of a start on the pasture grasses, something may be done by clipping the pasture with the cutterbar of the mower set high. In any event, be able to drive the cows in from pasture as long as possible before milking will help to minimize the weed flavor effects. Feed containing French weed can be fed to cows immediately after a milking without danger to the quality of the milk from the next milking.

The Grygla ball game with St. Hilaire as the opposition Sunday proved another good source of amusement and also showed the class of the local team. The early part of the game Grygla scored 2 runs to one for St. Hilaire which continued until the latter part of the game when they again scored two more, but the local boys were not to be out done so collecting their war club they pounded hit after hit finally winning the game seven to six. BELIEVE IT OR NOT— CANARY KILLS HAWK

Battle Lake.—One of the most unusual incidents in animal life was witnessed by Charles Zemke, who asserts he saw a canary do battle with a hawk and kill the larger bird. While herding cattle on his farm, Zemke noticed a great commotion in a nearby tree, to which at first he paid small attention. However, in a very short while he saw a large bird swoop from the tree, and after flying but a short distance, fall to the ground. He walked over and looked into the bushes into which it had fallen and there lay a large hawk, dead, with a small canary which had killed him still perched on top of his head, all bristled up and angry. Altho the incident seems incredible, Zemke vouches for the fact that there was nothing else which could have killed the hawk, and the canary acted the part of the victorious killer. The hawk had a wing spread of three feet.

PARDON ME, SIR, BUT CAN YOU TELL ME WHAT COFFEE HAS THE RICHEST FLAVOR?
NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE, MY MAN. THE VAN CLEVE LABORATORIES REPORT THAT NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE CONTAINS 35.7% MORE FLAVOR THAN OTHER COMMERCIAL BRANDS.
10¢

The flavor of coffee comes from an aromatic oil known as caffeol. Scientists can actually determine the flavor of coffee by extracting this oil and weighing it on a scale—and tell you scientifically which brand possesses the most flavor.
The Van Cleve Laboratories, food chemists, recently analyzed seven popular brands of coffee. Nash's Toasted Coffee was found to contain 35.7% more flavor producing oil than the highest of the six other brands—scientific proof of its richer, deeper flavor, a flavor that millions pronounce, "Every Drop Delicious."

COUNTY COSTS ON WHEAT PROGRAM ARE MADE PUBLIC

Members of Pennington Association Spent 2.8 Cents a Bushel

Members of the Pennington county wheat production control association set aside 2.8 cents a bushel of their allotment payment of 29 cents a bushel to pay the costs of the association during the first year of its operation, County Agent R. M. Douglass reports. Part of the funds, however, were not spent and this surplus will serve to reduce the current year's budget.

This expenditure, he explains, was purely for county costs of administration, since national expenses were paid from a different budget.

In general, the costs varied among counties and states, according to the size of the allotments. Polk county, for instance, with an allotment of 1,200,200 bushels, had a local cost of 1.1 cents per bushel, whereas Murray county with an allotment of 4,165 bushels, had a local cost per bushel of 6.1 cents. Pennington county's cost of 2.8 cents per bushel is based on an allotment of 31,951 bushels.

The average cost for all Minnesota counties was 1.9 cents a bushel; for Wisconsin, 3.4 cents; for North Dakota, 1.1 cents; for South Dakota, 1.5 cents, and for the nation, 1.12 cents.

Use of Flushing Bar in Haying and Harvest Will Save Wild Life

Members of the Minnesota Conservation Commission, E. V. Willard Commissioner of Conservation, and Erling Swenson, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, joined in issuing an appeal to Minnesota farmers to aid in preserving wild life through the use of flushing bars in haying and harvesting operations.

"At this time of the year, hundreds of young bob-white quail, ringneck pheasants, Hungarian partridges and grouse will be destroyed by mowing machines and other farm machinery unless precautionary measures are taken," Director Swenson said.

A satisfactory flushing bar can be constructed with a cane fishing pole or other material of suitable strength. Or, the 10-foot pole, fasten a piece of burlap or canvas four or five inches long or hang pieces of old tire chains from the pole. The suspended burlap, canvas or chains should be long enough to trail in the grass or grain that is being cut. Attach the pole to the yoke and extend across in front of the cutting bar to the extreme front side of the mower or binder.

Increase in Minnesota's Income Tax Collection

Minnesota's individual and corporation income tax collections showed a marked increase in 1935 over 1934, according to the annual report made today by J. R. Landy, collector of internal revenue for the federal government.

In 1935 corporations paid $7,599,382 and individuals $5,162,827, compared to $5,748,759 and $4,118,120 for 1934, Landy's report showed.

The $2-per-barrel beer tax brought the federal government $2,000,000 more from Minnesota in 1935 than in 1934. The 1935 returns were $5,297,961. Hard liquor taxes brought in $158,910 this year compared with $145,080 for last year.

VARIETIES OF APPLES ON SAME TREE

Breckenridge.— Thirty varieties of apples and pears, all growing on the same tree, constitute the unique product of Chester Gewalt, Breckenridge. Gewalt's hobby is grafting, and he had spent some years experimenting with the tree, with the result that the same main trunk gives off branches which bear 30 varieties of apples and one variety of pear. There is hardly a branch of the tree upon which a graft has not been made by this local Burbank. All the fruit is in good condition, and is more than just an experiment. Gewalt has the satisfaction of walking out into his yard and making a very choice selection of the fruit he wishes to eat. He can afford to be right choosey.

In making public these figures prepared by the statistical department of the SERA L. P. Zimmerman, acting administrator, pointed out that the major share of the state's participation in the $10,000,000 relief fund will be borne by the three large cities, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. The quota for the rural counties has been set at approximately $2,000,000 of the $5,000,000 to be raised for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The report made public shows a declining human case load in Minnesota, it dropping from 421,302 in April to 388,850 in May. Facts for Gardeners and Fruit Growers Presented

The Minnesota State Horticultural Society, an organization with a membership of 6,643 enthusiastic gardeners and fruit growers, has recently issued a small folder that is crammed with facts of interest and value to gardeners and fruit growers, and it is for free distribution on application to R. S. Mackintosh, secretary of the society, who has offices at University Farm, St. Paul.

The folder contains an outline map of Minnesota, showing the fruit districts of the state. Then follow some tables showing the fruits adapted to each of the different districts. Next come lists of vegetables for the home garden, and after those come formulas for various sprays with which to combat insects and plant diseases, and then lists of hardy trees and shrubs, hardy perennials, and so on.

DISTRICT WORK PROGRESS HEAD HERE IS NAMED

Donald Whitmore of St. Paul to Have Charge of Local Office

NINE OFFICES BEING SET UP IN MINNESOTA

Proposed Projects Required First to Get Approval of District Office

Completing appointments for all but two of the state's nine districts WPA Administrator Victor Christgau last Thursday announced naming of six more persons to the WPA organization.

Included among those appointed is Donald Whitmore, St. Paul, named acting director of the Thief River Falls district, whose counties will include Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Pennington Red Lake, Polk Clearwater, Norman, Mahnomen, Clay, Becker, Wilkin and Ottertail. He has been area director for the SERA with headquarters at Pine City.

Mr. Whitmore spent Monday in this city making preliminary plans for opening the local office within the next ten days. He indicated that the staff of the office in this city would include approximately 20 persons.

Others appointed all acting directors, are: Maurice A. Fitzgerald, Minneapolis district; Miss Holfrid Johnson, certification; C. H. Zealand, safety; Rufus Russell, St. Cloud district; A. T. Gilbertson, Brainerd district.

Nine district Works Progress Administration offices are being established in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, St. Cloud, Brainerd, Thief River Falls, Morris, New Ulm and Rochester. Until these offices are established, sponsor may obtain the project proposal forms from the central offices of the Works Progress Administration in St. Paul, Mr. Christgau announced.

The project proposal as submitted by the local unit of government or sponsor is sent to the district office where it is carefully analyzed. In case the municipality or local unit some assistance in detailing the specifications for the project, the district office will be glad to cooperate and send an engineer to help fill out the forms.

The district office will then study the relief load of the county as well as the practicality of the project and will approve or reject. If approved, the project proposal then moves to the state office. If the state office gives its approval, an application is then made to Washington for allocation of funds.

The Works Progress Administration machinery is being rapidly set up to move the project proposal from the local unit to the state unit and then to Washington for allocation of funds as rapidly as possible so that people can be shifted from relief to public works quickly.

St. John's Church Fetes 40th Birthday Sunday

Elaborate Exercises at Auditorium in Morning and Afternoon

With elaborate exercises at the municipal Auditorium next Sunday morning and afternoon, members of St. John's Lutheran church will observe the fortieth anniversary of the organization of the congregation under its present name and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the erection of the present church structure. Rev. V. E. Schroeder, pastor since December, 1926, is in charge of arrangements.

Rev. F. J. Seltz, who served as pastor of the local church from August, 1907, until February, 1920, and who is married to Matilda Jonas of a pioneer local family, will deliver the dedicatory address at the morning services. Reverend Seltz is now in charge of St. Stephen's congregation in St. Paul.

Rev. P. E. Ross of Pomeroy, Iowa, who served the local congregation from 1905 until the arrival of Reverend Seltz, will deliver the jubilee address in the afternoon, while Rev. J. C. Meyer of St. Paul, district president, will supply the synodical address, and Rev. E. W. Baumann of Mavie will give the prayer and scripture reading.

The history of the congregation since the early days is presented in interesting fashion in a booklet published in connection with the anniversary under the title "Historical highlights and sidelights on the development of St. John's Lutheran congregation."

Early day members of the church include names familiar to local residents, including the Geskes, Ristaus, Ranelorfs, Robbeckes, Browns, Krauses, Kretzschmars and Richters.

Beginning in 1888 Rev. G. Drews, stationed at Wylie, made monthly visits to preach to local German Lutherans. He was succeeded in 1892 by Rev. Adolph Kuring, now of Chicago, who served when the congregation was organized under its present name in 1895, and continued until October, 1896, when Rev. Valerinus Kern, now stationed at Scribner, Nebraska, became the first resident pastor.

In December, 1900 Reverend Luttmann became resident pastor, and served until the fall of 1904, being succeeded by Rev. P. E. Ross, who also served the Germantown congregation. Rev. F. J. Seltz began his pastorate here in August 1907, serving for 12 years until February, 1920. Following his departure for St. Paul he was succeeded by Rev. E. H. Kreidt, who served until 1926 when called to to California. Rev. V. E. Schroeder, the present pastor, was inducted into office in December, 1926.

High lights in the progress of the local congregation include the construction of the present church edifice in 1910, and the purchase of the present parsonage in 1927. The congregation now comprises approximately 300 members, and boasts an active ladies aid and a well attended Sunday school.

PLANS READY FOR DONKEY BASEBALL GAME HERE AUG. 14

Donkey Derby Also Will be Feature of Program at Fair Grounds

A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand Wednesday night, Aug. 14, to see the Donkey Baseball game played by the Civic & Commerce association and the Pennington county farm clubs at the fair grounds.

An added attraction will be the Donkey Derby which will be run just before the game. Local dignitaries have been selected to be the jockeys. The winning jockey will receive a beautiful hand painted, red plush pillow.

The committee in charge of selecting the players for the Donkey Baseball game and the jockeys feel that they have organized two outstanding teams and a field of jockeys that cannot be surpassed. Much time and care was spent by the committee members in searching for men who understand mule psychology and temperment.

All the players must ride donkeys but they get their feet on the ground once in awhile. Needless to mention there are occasionally other parts of the players' anatomies on the ground). It is when they are batting that the men get a rest from riding. However, as soon as the batter hits the ball he must get aboard a donkey to ride to first base.

The Bar X Ranch troupe of baseball donkeys are said to be in tip-top shape for the battle. The frisky little jenny, "Mae West", is said to be in particularly good shape.

5 YOUNG PEOPLE HERE IMPLICATED IN $1,935 THEFT

Arrests Follow Emptying of Strongbox of Middle River Woman

Three local girls, under the age of 18, and two young men were arrested Monday by the police and Sheriff Arthur Rambeck on a charge of stealing $235 in cash and $1,700 in securities from Miss Hannah Peterson, cook in a hotel at Middle River. The boys were Douglas Olson, 20, and Leroy Olson, 18, no relation, while the names of the girls were not made public.

Those arrested are reported by the police to have confessed committing the offense, news of which had been withheld since its occurrence late in May. They admitted emptying a safety deposit box in Miss Peterson's room of its contents, after which they divided the money and burned the securities.

Members of the group were taken to Warren early this week, where the boys were scheduled to appear in justice court and the girls in juvenile court. Police records reveal that Douglas Olson is now under a suspended sentence following a theft of a quantity of wool in June, and that Leroy Olson served a term in Red Wing, while the girls have all appeared formerly in juvenile court.

ZIMMERMAN SEES CLOSING OF SERA OFFICE IN COUNTY

County Board Still Giving Thought to Continuing State Office

Following a conference Monday with S. P. Roach of Crookston, area relief administrator, at which the county board again withheld action on the request of the state emergency relief administration for a contribution of $11,400 by Pennington county toward relief costs for this year and next, members of the board indicated they would meet with the city council Friday evening for a discussion of the relief situation as it affects the city and county.

In the meantime County Auditor A. M. Senstad Saturday received from L. P. Zimmerman, acting head of the SERA in St. Paul, a letter stating that no agreement had been received that the county would participate in the SERA program, and adding, "It is our intention to close the relief offices in your county July 31. Kindly arrange to take over the relief responsibility at that time."

Mr. Zimmerman offered the cooperation of his department during the time that the office is being closed. In the event the state ERA steps out of the picture in this county, the administration of relief will revert to the township system formerly in effect.

Members of the county board, together with County Auditor A. M. Senstad and County Attorney H. O. Berve, conferred on the relief situation Wednesday evening in Crookston with officials representing Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake and Polk counties. Polk county following the meeting signed an agreement to qualify for a continuation of the SERA setup, while the sentiment of the other counties was against the SERA, altho they did not take any definite action.

The sound, talk, songs and music featured in this film are of the best recorded in Norway. The scenes are laid in that majestic and picturesque mountain region known as "Rodone." The photography is excellent and the acting marvelous.

In addition to this fine feature will also be shown the only complete film taken at the Royal Wedding in Stockholm, Sweden, recently. The royal families of the Scandinavian countries appear in this film. Also will be presented the film, "Seterjentens Sondag," and a travel film, showing some of the marvelous scenic beauties of Norway.

Auxiliary Notes

It may be of interest to many of our unit to know that Pennington Co. was transferred from Div. 1 to Div. 2 at the Bagley Convention. Mrs. Herbranson of Bagley is our Div. chairman now instead of Mrs. Windus of Roseau. Miss Dorothy Blanchard of Thief River Falls was chosen page to the 9th Dist. President, Mrs. T. L. Stickney and Dolores Berg of Bagley, page to the secretary, Mrs. Jenson.

Our unit president will act on the Child Welfare Board at the State Convention at Albert Lea in August. In order that there may be no conflicting view points, the auxiliary wishes it distinctly understood that they are sending only the Unit President as a paid delegate. The fact that several Drum Corps members were chosen as delegates may account for the seeming misunderstanding as their expenses are paid by the corps.

The Jr. Auxiliary met Wed. evening for a short business session followed by a marshmallow roast at Lover's Lane.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling mother and wife who passed away three years ago today, July 21, 1932.

When a mother breathes her last farewell
The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.

WARD'S GRAND OPENING SATURDAY

CHILDREN UNDER 12 ARE ADMITTED FREE TO BIG FAIR

Large Families No Handicap for Pennington Fair Visitors

Large families are not penalized at the Pennington County Fair—children under twelve years of age are admitted free. And if you don't think this arrangement is appreciated by the good people of Northwestern Minnesota just spend a half an hour at the gate this year and watch the big families roll smilingly by the ticket taker.

In one automobile that passed through the gates last year there were ten children below the age limit. There was no way of determining, in the rush of the moment, whether they were all brothers and sisters. We have our doubts. But it wouldn't have made any difference as far as the ticket takers were concerned whether or not the children were related. The only qualification necessary to a free admission is that they be twelve years old or under and be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

So bring the children. Bring the neighbors' children if you are so inclined. Children get a real wallop out of a fair. You were a kid once yourself. Remember? A fair or a circus was one of the big events of your early years. You looked forward to it for weeks. And you talked about it afterwards for months. So bring the children, by all means.

The admission charge for adults is only 25 cents. So come early in the morning. Bring a picnic lunch and stay all day. Forget your troubles for just a few hours. Bury old man Gloom. Give yourself and the family a holiday. And bring the children.

EMPLOY MORE MEN FOR TWO NATIONAL FORESTS

Immediate employment of 249 additional men, mostly from relief rolls, in the Superior and Chippewa National forests in Minnesota, was announced by E. V. Willard, commissioner of conservation, following receipt of word from the Milwaukee regional offices of the United States Forest Service. An allotment from emergency relief funds made the additional employment possible, Commissioner Willard said.

COUNTY ASKED TO SHARE $1,300,000 U. S. ROAD FUNDS

Ninety Per Cent of Labor Must be Taken From Relief Rolls

Pennington county was invited this week by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner, to participate in a $1,300,000 allotment of emergency federal works funds set up for use on rural or "farm to market" roads.

Letters outlining the program have been sent by Commissioner Elsberg to County Engineer J. A. Erickson and County Auditor A. M. Senstad, says a highway department bulletin.

The $1,300,000 is 25 per cent of Minnesota's $5,200,000 allotment of national work relief highway funds. Federal regulations require that one-fourth of the total be spent on roads off of the state trunk system and outside of municipalities and metropolitan areas. The funds will be administered by the state highway department, which will supervise the work through the agency of the local county highway engineers.

"There are several important points for counties to consider in planning to participate in the use of these funds", said Commissioner Elsberg. "Federal regulations require that 90 per cent of all labor used on a job financed entirely by federal funds be taken from the relief rolls. Therefore plenty of relief labor must be available. The rate of pay will have to be the same as that of the state highway department, which is 55 cents an hour for unskilled labor, 70 cents an hour for intermediate grades and $1 an hour for skilled labor.

"Total cost of a project must not exceed 90 cents per man hour of employment, including all materials, equipment costs, etc. If the cost of a job runs higher than this the local community must pay the difference. It has also been our experience that any work of this kind involves various items of cost which the federal government will not pay. The local community must therefore guarantee to pay any such items which may arise.

"If a county has available sufficient funds of its own it may combine them with the federal money and thus purchase materials and pay for equipment not available when federal funds are used alone.

"I realize that under these federal regulations it is going to be difficult for many counties to participate in the program. The relief labor requirements and wage scales present serious problems in many rural communities. However, the regulations are prescribed by Washington officials and the highway department cannot alter them.

"In making use of its own allotment of relief funds, the highway department is asking the state executive council to provide additional state funds to use with the federal money. Only in this way do we believe that permanent, worth while construction can be accomplished on a sizeable scale with the federal funds. However, work on the rural roads does not have to be of as high standard as on the trunk highway system."

R. A. Stewart, Bismarck, Is District Manager of Montgomery Ward & Co.

R. A. Stewart of Bismarck, N. D. district manager for Montgomery Ward & company, has supervision of the local store as well as of Wards stores in North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming. Mr. Stewart joined the company in 1928 and has risen rapidly to his present position. He is a native of North Dakota, having been born at Valley City. After being graduated from high school he joined the staff of the Ward store in Valley City, and later managed the store at Idaho Falls, Idaho, until appointed district manager.

Thirteen From Pennington Co. Conduct Various Projects

That the summer vacation period is not a time of idleness for all students is revealed in the announcement here today by R. J. Christgau of the faculty of Northwest school at Crookston that thirteen Pennington county students at the institution are carrying on summer projects at their homes that will give them credits toward graduation.

Mr. Christgau, while in the city this week making an inspection of the various projects, stated that the young men and women have been in attendance at the school for periods varying from one to three years.

The students from this county and their projects include the following: Olaf Dahlen, Erie, plant collection and identification; Laura Hanson, Thief River Falls, home economics; Martin Hanson, Thief River Falls, pure seed potatoes and Thatcher wheat; Oliver Haugen, St. Hilaire, Wisconsin 38 barley.

Truman Hemmestvedt, Goodridge, Thatcher wheat; Glenn Iverson, Erie, dairy herd management; Leo Jenren, Goodridge, certified seed production; Harold Nabben, Goodridge, poultry production; Raymond Oen, Thief River Falls, home beautification.

Bullets in Elephants' Tusks

Ivory workers not infrequently find bullets imbedded in the tusks of elephants. Sometimes there are no exterior marks to indicate their presence and they are well embedded, all trace of their entrance passage having been obliterated. One has even been found in a billiard ball which is preserved in the Museum of the Royal College of Surgeons in London.—Collier's Weekly.

MANY "SPECIALS" FOR WARD GRAND OPENING

Large stocks of merchandise specially bought and priced for Grand Opening day will heighten shopping interest at Wards Saturday. Store manager A. W. Mickelson declared that while more "specials" were ordered than are generally needed, he could not guarantee the supply would last through the day. "Wards policy is to always have enough merchandise on hand to meet the customers' demand," he said, "but the shopping rush of Grand Opening day creates a situation difficult to control."

In another section of this paper is the Grand Opening ad listing the values to which Mr. Mickelson refers.

Ward Manager Welcomes Visitors

Executives to Attend Grand Opening

Will Inspect New Store Saturday

So much importance is attached to the opening of Wards new Thief River Falls store that Mr. Wimmer, regional manager, will be here Saturday. With him will be Mr. Gebert, assistant to the regional manager, and Mr. Stewart, in charge of store operations.

The visiting officials plan to check the many innovations which are part of the new stores. The customers' reactions to these will determine their introduction in other Ward stores in Minnesota.

ANTICIPATES RECORD THRONG SATURDAY

Wards New Store opens Saturday at 9:00 A. M. Mr. Mickelson, store manager, extends a sincere invitation to all the shoppers of Thief River Falls and vinicity to be present.

The New Store consists of a basement, main floor, second floor and mezzanine. In planning floor space, related departments were grouped together to facilitate shopping.

Of interest to opening day visitors will be the new fixtures installed throughout the store. Much of the merchandise is displayed in low, well-proportioned tables, instead of behind glass cases. This allows the customer to inspect the merchandise easily. Each table is partitioned off with glass screens, for an orderly arrangement of items.

All floors of the new store are flooded with an illumination that is recognized as one of the finest in retail store lighting.

Stairs to the basement are conveniently located and aisles are wide and spacious. The new store is filled with fresh new stocks of merchandise.

Last minute preparations are being completed to handle a capacity crowd Saturday, according to Mr. Mickelson, who said that a large force of salespersons would be on hand to welcome the visitors. "Experience in other Ward stores has shown that Grand Opening day often attracts customers from fifty to one hundred miles away," he stated. "When the doors open at 9:00 A. M. we will be fully prepared for our first day's shopping rush."

WARDS COMPLETE STORE FOR HOME-MAKERS

Everything for Home From Roof to Basement

"Everything for the home" is a broad statement, but the complete stocks of Wards new store can back it up.

Begin with the top of the house, if you want. Wards carry a complete line of roofing. For the house itself, inside and out, you will find complete stocks of paints and varnishes.

Inside, Wards offer all necessary wiring and electrical fixtures for the home's lighting, as well as complete plumbing assortments, and heating systems. In the basement of the new store are three model bathrooms, completely equipped.

Wards big furniture floor carries stocks for every room of the house. Modern suites are represented, as well as early American and other popular styles. There's a big array of occasional furniture and studio couches, too. Also on the furniture floor are rugs for living room, dining room and bedroom, and hard-surfaced floor coverings for kitchen, bathroom and sunporch. The drapery department has curtains for every window of the house.

Modern kitchen equipment is represented in new lines of stoves and ranges, electric refrigerators, kitchen cabinets, breakfast sets, and big displays of modern cooking utensils and electrical appliances.

Larger household electrical devices include electric washers, ironers and vacuum cleaners.

A trip through the NEW WARDS is convincing proof that here under one roof is everything for the home. Because of huge buying power Wards is able to maintain these assortments at low prices.

Local Store Manager

A. W. MICKELSON

Manager of the Montgomery Ward store in this city, remodeling of which is being completed this week. Starting in the stockroom of the Kalamazoo, Michigan, store, Mr. Mickelson has had the advantage of learning the business from the very bottom of the ladder. From the receiving room he was appointed to floor man at Marion, Indiana, and from there he was transferred to Minot, N. D., as assistant manager, remaining there until March, 1932 when he was promoted to the managership of the Thief River Falls store.

No merchandise hidden away under glass at the NEW WARDS—everything is arranged on wide, waist-high counters where you can easily inspect the merchandise. No wonder shoppers find Wards NEW store a convenient as well as thrifty place to do their family buying!

STANDARDS FOR WARD GOODS ARE UNUSUALLY HIGH

Testing Laboratory Passes on All Goods

Wards was the first large general retail organization to establish their own laboratory for the testing of merchandise. Wards customers visiting Chicago are invited to inspect the laboratory, which is located there, and which is one of the best-equipped of its kind in the country.

Here visitors can see many interesting experiments on merchandise. For example, to test the wearing quality of a mattress, a machine raises and drops a heavy log upon it thousands of times. Fabrics are subjected to strong "sunlight" rays for days, to test against fading. Other fabrics are washed repeatedly as a test for tubfast dyes.

These are the more spectacular of the many experiments, but in addition are hours of scientific research spent by the staff of experts in checking the quality of all of Wards merchandise. Their standards are unusually high, meeting and in many cases exceeding those of the United States Government laboratories, Underwriter's laboratories, etc.

WARDS BUYS FROM HOME RESOURCES

When customers shop at Wards they are indirectly helping the industries of their own state, Mr. Mikkelson, Wards manager, pointed out. Each year Wards buys thousands of dollars worth of raw materials and finished products in Minnesota. Through Wards big group of 489 stores, Minnesota's products are distributed in 15 other states.

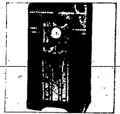
Ward Quality Products, produced by leading manufacturers in America in their respective lines, are featured in the new store. Their modern packaging, and their low price make a decided appeal to thrifty shoppers.



Wards world-wide radios are creating a sensation—thousands of sets have already been purchased. Modern cabinets featuring the new airplane dial and instant dialing distinguish the new Airlines, as in the model shown above.

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

Congratulations to St. John's church which this week is celebrating its fortieth anniversary. In the life of this community forty years is a long time and the members of this congregation have a right to celebrate so long a record of service. The success of a church cannot properly be measured by the number of its members or the cash balance in the treasury. Its credits are of a more abstract nature. During the forty years of its existence St. John's church has contributed much to the welfare of the community through the solace and comfort it has brought to "the weary and heavy laden." Those are the "credits" which properly measure its progress and for which the congregation deserves to be congratulated on this occasion.

NEXT WEEK THE FAIR

Those fellows who prepare the copy for the county fair advertising certainly can't have much regard for the truth. Year after year they tell us the same old story about "the biggest and best" of everything and anybody with a little common sense would know that every show and every exhibit can't possibly be the high point of perfection.

It does seem, however, that this year there is some justification for their enthusiasm. It looks like they might give us a pretty good show out there next week. Ernie Young is coming back with his 1935 revue. He was here several years ago if you remember. And Ernie Young is a showman. At any rate he has that reputation around the country and from what we have seen of his entertainment here and elsewhere we are inclined to agree with those who say nice things about him. He always does go strong for scenic effects and this year he is bringing a solid baggage car of equipment for his stage setting. There must be all of fifty performers taking part in the night show so in quantity at least the evening attraction in front of the grand stand is really going to be the "biggest" and "most elaborate" program ever presented here.

The afternoon program is going to be about the same as other years—with different acts of course. There are nine acts in all, which means there will be plenty of material to fill the gaps between races when the spectators will provide their own entertainment by razzing the starter. To us the most interesting thing about the horse races is the wise-cracking that comes out of the crowd and listening to Doc Penny snort back at the forty or fifty other starters in the grand stand. But the races themselves should be interesting this year too because there will be local horses in there. And these local horses are pretty good. They did well over in Dakota and they should keep some of the prize money at home in the races here next week. So all in all the afternoon entertainment ought to be worth seeing.

It's a little early to say much about the rest of the fair as yet. You can never tell what the exhibits are going to amount to until they are in and they will not be in until Tuesday. They always do have good exhibits however and there is no reason to believe that this department will not be up to standard this year. That's another place where the ad writers are weak. They seem to forget the exhibits, which really are the most important part of the fair, race horse men to the contrary notwithstanding.

But there is one thing about the fair which, to his credit, the advertising man doesn't claim to be the "biggest ever" and that is the admission price. It's only a quarter for adults and children are admitted free. So a trip to the fair doesn't need to be an expensive outing even for those who have big families. This fact could stand a little more publicity.

And so another fair is here and whether it's good, bad or indifferent it's still going to be a fair and half the fun of going there is just in standing around watching all the people who make up the crowds — every type and all types massed together—those who come to enjoy themselves and those who come to be shocked at the sham of the thing, the young and the old, the merry and the warry—they'll all be there. That's what makes it a county fair.

THE MIDDLE COURSE

(Minnesota Mascot)

In spite of attempts to shove it into the background, one of the major issues in the forthcoming presidential campaign will be whether or not to revise the American Constitution. Following the Supreme Court's NRA decision and the President's subsequent comments that the decision placed us back in the "horse and buggy" days, citizens of this country have rapidly become Constitution-conscious.

Republicans, at the grass roots conference, appointed themselves defenders of the Constitution and are not apt to let the public forget the real and imagined dangers which threaten this basic document. President Roosevelt has adroitly countered this attack by promulgating his tax program which will, to a large extent, divert the attention of the people from constitutional questions.

With all this talk about amending and revising the Constitution, it is well to remember that a people bent on governing themselves have but three alternatives. They can move in only three directions governmentally. They can decide upon having a concentration of power, or a decentralization of power, or an organized balancing of power.

There are several excellent examples of concentration of power in the world today. Hitler in Germany and Mussolini in Italy are two examples of concentration of power carried to its logical extreme. In Russia the political power is also concentrated, but in the hands of a group rather than an individual.

No matter how it is originally conceived, concentration of power eventually leads to tyranny. The individual or group which possesses a concentrated power sooner or later finds it necessary to employ tyrannical methods in order to maintain its power. In its attempt to achieve permanence it becomes domineering. In its struggle for self-preservation it forgets the first purpose of a government, to protect the welfare of the governed, and the ultimate result is revolution.

Decentralization of power is not a practical form of government in a civilization as complex as ours. It may work well in simple societies, but is hardly suited to the modern tempo. Carried to its logical extreme, a decentralized form of government is anarchy, which is no government at all, other than individual self-government. This is the ideal form of government but unfortunately we are not an ideal people.

The third governmental alternative is that of an organized balancing of power. This is the middle course between concentrated power and decentralized power which seeks to achieve sufficient concentration to maintain efficiency and yet avoid tyranny and which keeps power sufficiently decentralized to insure freedom.

The framers of our Constitution had such a system in mind when they wrote our basic law. For 159 years the government founded on the precepts contained in the Constitution has weathered the political and economic storms of the period far better than most other governments. This is not saying that our government has achieved the acme of perfection beyond which no improvement can be made. But any changes in our Constitution should not be made without a full awareness of the dangers that threaten on either side of the middle course.

The present danger toward which our government seems to be headed is that of a powerfully centralized federal government. Already the administrative division of our intricate system of checks and balances has more power than any other previous administration has ever wielded. Changes have also been suggested which would limit or take from the judicial department of our government the right to review legislation and declare it unconstitutional. Certain changes in our government may be beneficial but before they are made the electorate must know in what direction the changes are leading us, and should exhibit that eternal viligance which is the price of good government.

HOW RECOVERY CAN BE WON

(St. Cloud Times)

If bank statements are carefully examined, it will be found that in most of them the money in the bank vaults is greater than loans and discounts.

Bankers are of course anxious to get these idle dollars at work, to earn some interest, they want sound loans.

Many engaged in business, manufacturers and merchants, are also very cautious, watching Congress, and made hesitant if not fearful, by some of the measures before that body. There is a lack of confidence all around, including the good judgment of the lawmakers. If those in business knew their profits were not to be taken away, that the government would keep out of competition with them, and that they would be permitted to manage their own affairs, they would have more courage to enlarge their business, borrow money to speed up production, add to the number of workers, sensing that as soon as recovery is well started there is going to be a deluge of orders. With that prospect in sight bankers would be happy to aid in the financing. A settled and determined policy by the government, even if not the last word in wisdom, would aid much in restoring confidence and the spirit of going ahead, that are after all, the very foundation of good times and prosperity.

For a time it was feared that all assistance accorded pheasants in this state would be withdrawn when complaints came in from farmers that they were causing damage to newly-planted fields. Upon investigation it was discovered that the lowly gopher was really more to blame for reported damages. The game and fish and conservation departments have come to the aid of the pheasant and nearly everyone will approve their stand.—Eveleth Clarion.

We always regret the passing of a cheerful man. There are so many of the other kind that we can ill spare the loss of one who dispenses sunshine and radiates courage. If the crepehanger dies we feel resigned that he is well out of it. But for one who loves life and finds something warm and congenial in association with his fellows there must be regret that the last chapter has been written and the book is forever closed.—Deer Creek Mirror.

As it enters the dog days Congress is running true to form. A member of the house last week fried eggs in the sun on the steps of the capitol.

Business women shouldn't be too efficient, warns one of their sex at a west coast convention. That's one piece of advice the men folks don't require.

If you missed that eclipse of the moon last week, don't feel bad. There will be another one just like it fifty years from now.

Like D. A. W. of the Minneapolis Journal we don't read our own column after it appears in print, and sometimes we fear we aren't alone in the habit.

It looks as tho the Farmer-Labor party is suffering from an embarrassment of riches when it comes to candidates willing to succeed Governor Olson.

The most loyal boosters for this nearly ideal summer climate of ours have had to admit that it's been a bit warm recently.

Senator Long's father says Huey walked at seven months, but the Baudette Region thinks the old gentleman meant to say he talked.

Only five more weeks until the teachers find work for idle youngsters to do.

Farm and Implement News

TRACTORS ON RUBBER

We have never been very much interested in selling tractors on rubber tires, but after the demonstration we conducted at the Gust Hillyer farm this week we are convinced that tractors on rubber tires are far superior, with increased pulling power, fuel economy, and riding qualities greatly improved. Rubber tires on tractors are the equipment and we do not hesitate to recommend.

CORN AND ENSILAGE

This hot weather is sure making corn grow and will mean a good crop of feed, but it's full value will not be received unless cut into ensilage. We have just ordered one of the new type McCormick-Deering Ensilage cutters. The one that runs in oil and has a transmission just like an automobile, where you can shift your length of cut as desired. It is a wonderful improvement over the old style. Ensilage cutters as other machines will be sold out and not enough available for this season, so place your order now. We invite you to inspect this new machine.

ALL PURPOSE WAGON

All Purpose Wagon, is the name of the new McCormick-Deering all steel wagon, and is indeed a leader in wagon construction. Runs on heavy duty roller bearings, and some wonderful outstanding features, in it's construction. We have four on hand now at the old price. Buy now and save $2.50.

STEEL GRAIN BINS

We can supply you with 500 bu. or 1000 bu. steel grain bins at very reasonable prices, and have one in stock that we have used ourselves for two years. It is all set up and mounted on skids. This one at a special discount. Grain bins are the handy way to thresh your grain right into the bin in the field, and move them where you choose.

AGAIN BUY NOW

We dislike disappointments, and there will be many on late orders for farm machinery this year. We shall do all we can to supply and our factories that we represent are doing so. But the demand is greater than ever. So avoid disappointments by early orders. Work with us and we will do all we can for you. There is a great shortage of binders now. We are short, but promised to fill our orders and some additional, but know we will not have enough. This is going to be the condition in regard to all machines, and especially so on tractors for fall delivery. We have tractors on hand now—McCormick-Deering—in almost all sizes. We urge again, place your order now.

BINDER TWINE

There is a danger of facing a twine shortage, but believe we shall be able to supply to our trade. We do not sell twine made in foreign countries. We do not believe it is fair to sell twine made by cheap foreign labor, in competition with our home labor. There may be some twine sold cheap which is made by foreign labor. But you are only helping to effect trouble and face difficulties in the future by patronizing foreign made twine competition. Our twine prices meet the lowest and quality second to none.

USED MACHINERY

We have a large stock of used machinery on hand including:
2 15-30 McCormick-Deering Tractors
1 10-20 McCormick-Deering Tractor
2 Fordson Tractors
A few good value used grain Binders
A few mowers from $5.00 and up
Several Home Gangs and Sulkies
3 exceptional values in used wagons
1 20-in. Tractor Brush Breaker
2 Manure Spreaders

HORSES

1 large team, mare and gelding, 8 and 9 years, 1400 lbs.
1 1400 lb. gelding, 7 years old
1 2½ year old mare, 1350
2 black geldings past ten years. A good team at a bargain
2 yearling colts.

Use Calcium Chloride to Lay Dust on State Roads

Nearly 500 tons of calcium chloride has been distributed among the various maintenance districts of the state highway department this summer for dust laying purposes in towns and villages, says a department bulletin. Where gravelled trunk highways run through built up sections of communities, it is the policy of the department to prevent the dust nuisance which often develops if some kind of surface treatment is not provided. Many of the gravel routes have bituminous surface or pavement through towns, but where this is not the case calcium chloride can be used.

MONEY WILL FLY IN GOLF TOURNEY HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Win-E-Mac Club Coming Here August 4 and Crookston Aug. 11

Money, especially of the bogus variety, will be much in evidence on the Thief River Falls golf course next Sunday when local golfers will participate in a "Gamblers' Delight" tourney.

H. O. Chommie, tournament chairman, explained that each golfer will start out with $5,000 in near-money, and will be fined heavily for losing balls, getting into the rough, swearing and other offenses, the player finishing the round with the most remaining cash being declared the winner.

The following Sunday, August 4, members of the Win-E-Mac club from Winger, Erskine and McIntosh will participate in a tournament on the local course, and August 11 the Thief River Falls club will entertain Crookston. Mr. Chommie announced that he would be unable to take part in the Pine to Palm tourney this week-end at Detroit Lakes as announced last week.

Horseshoe and Softball Tourneys in City Soon

Horseshoe and softball players will hold their district tournament in Thief River Falls Sunday, August 11, and their regional tourney also in this city the following Sunday, August 18. The winners of the regional events will go to Willmar to participate in the state tournament, J. G. Messenger, district ERA recreation director, announced.

DAKOTA MILLERS DOWN LOCALS 2-0 IN 11 INNING TILT

Fast Oslo Team Coming to Thief River Falls Next Sunday

Jake Baumgartner of the Dakota Millers and Lefty Heiberg of the Thief River Falls Giants last Sunday continued their pitching duel of two weeks ago with the Millers coming out on top by a 2 to 0 count in an eleven inning struggle. This was the first extra inning game of the season and it supplied all the excitement necessary for a good ball game. The Giants ran into a streak of hard luck Sunday when what looked like certain base hits were picked out of the air by the speedy Millers.

The Giants collected five base hits off the offerings of Jake Baumgartner while Bob Heiberg held the Millers to four hits including three two baggers. The game moved at a rapid pace with the Giants getting themselves in a whole occasionally, but the brilliant pitching of Lefty Heiberg managed to get them out until the fatal eleventh, when Joe Bach walked and Flan singled to center with Billows getting his second two base hit of the day to right field scoring Joe Bach and Flan to account for the Millers winning runs.

Both teams played bang-up ball with both players and managers joining in to argue about a half dozen different decisions on the third base line which seemed to be the only place the Millers wanted to hit the ball. Harold Gronnigen, peppery backstop for the Giants, had to retire to the outfield in the fifth inning when his back injury received in the White Earth game proved to be too painful for him to continue his catching, giving the fans a chance to see Tuss Langlie, local right fielder who last year caught for the Crookston Pirates of the Northern League, in action behind the bat. Tuss gave a splendid account of himself doing a neat job of trapping Oeder in the fifth inning when the hit and run play was on and Hovden and Langlie boxed him to cut off a sure score. Hovden who has been playing in the outfield during the past three games was back in his old position at third base and was easily the outstanding fielding star of the day, handling eight chances without a bobble. Hovden also got a pop single in the first inning for his thirteenth hit in the last six games.

The Millers and the Giants have a game apiece to their credit and a deciding game should be played to decide who really has the best team. The locals hold a slight edge at this time, having gotten fourteen hits to the Millers nine. The Giants will meet the fighting Oslo Club here next Sunday and this should prove to be a good game as Oslo has one of the best independent clubs in the Northwest.

Following is the box score of last Sunday's game.

tainment, including acrobatic, comedy and musical offerings.

Perhaps the biggest showing of midway attractions ever to be presented at the Pennington county fair will be provided by the Hennies shows, which will present eleven riding devices, some of which were featured last year at the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, in addition to twelve shows of various kinds, insuring ample entertainment for young and old.

With favorable growing conditions during the current season, a splendid display of grains, vegetables and flowers is in prospect for the fair this year, and the usual fine showing of cattle, sheep and poultry is anticipated, while all other departments will be fully up to the standard of past years. Premium books are available at the office of Secretary Robert J. Lund, county agent's office and the Union State bank.

As has been the case the past several years, the general admission fee of 25 cents will be maintained at the 1935 fair, and as in tained at the 1935 fair, and as in the past children under twelve years of age will be admitted free.

A Ford car will be given away in front of the grandstand Friday afternoon, August 2, while $100 in cash will be distributed Wednesday afternoon and a like amount Thursday. The drawings will be conducted on the same basis as in past years, which have met with popular approval.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Nash-Finch Co. Observes Its Fiftieth Anniversary

Fifty years ago this month two ambitious young men at Grand Forks, N. D., scraping together their small savings of $400.00, formed a business partnership based upon an idea which in the fifty years to follow, built that company from its unpretentious beginning to one of the world's largest wholesale grocery companies. This month the Nash-Finch company is celebrating its golden anniversary.

These young men were Willis K. Nash and his two brothers, Fred P. Nash and Edgar Nash. Later, in 1889, Harry B. Finch, now president of the company, joined the Nash Brothers in capacity of warehouse boy.

These young men believed that grocers located in outlying towns were entitled to the same freshness of supplies, particularly of fruit, as grocers of the large metropolitan centers. They believed that wholesale fruit and grocery houses should be scattered throughout the smaller cities of each state, giving quick local service, so that grocers would not be dependent upon wholesale houses located in metropolitan centers.

In 1916 a coffee plant was started in Minneapolis in order to supply customers of the company with coffee of high quality, freshness and uniformity. Today Nash's Toasted Coffe is one of the popular coffees of this community.

Always a large distributor of fresh fruit, the Nash-Finch Company often found it difficult to obtain the quality of fruits they desired. For this reason, the company entered the fruit growing business, and today operate fruit growing ranches in California, Idaho, Washington, Colorado and Texas.

Today the Nash-Finch company operates fifty-seven wholesale grocery houses in the states of Washington, Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa and Oklahoma.

Worker-ownership, a plan whereby employees are direct shareholders in the business, is another idea which has always been a part of the Nash-Finch company, and today more than 65% of all employees own stock in the company. Mr. W. K. Nash, one of the original founders, is still active in the business, and, with Mr. Harry B. Finch, still determines the policies of the company.

Missouri Woman Winner of Prize for Writing Rural Correspondence

Who is the best country newspaper correspondent in the United States? The award, announced today, goes to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Mahnkey of Oasis, Missouri. She is the only newspaper correspondent in a village of 27 inhabitants, and she writes her news for the Weekly Republican of Forsythe, Missouri, which has a circulation of 875 among the farmers of the Ozark hills.

Mrs. Mahnkey was selected out of 1581 rural correspondents nominated for a prize given by Wheeler McMillen, editor of The Country Home, a national farm magazine published in New York. As winner, she receives a silver trophy, $50 in cash, and a trip to New York City. Out of fifteen prize winners, eleven are women.

"The quality of the 1581 clippings submitted was so high," says Mr. McMillen, "that at first reading we retained more than a third for further reading and judgment. Next year, and for many years to come, we hope, the Country Correspondents Awards will be continued."

Reckoning Longitude

At a conference held in Washington in 1884, at which 25 countries were represented, it was decided to adopt the present method of reckoning longitude east and west from the meridian of Greenwich, England.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

DRINKING, DRIVING AND CANADIAN LAWS

When Canada's Criminal Code was up recently for amendment, a law was written into it effecting the drinking driver—namely, that anyone convicted of driving a car while drunk will suffer imprisonment, without option of a fine. This decision, however, does not include a definite statement on what constitutes drunkenness. Accordingly, Canadian authorities have been asked their opinion on the interpretation of the law and the Christian Science Monitor summarizes some of these statements:

"Such members of Parliament as J. L. Brown of [illegible], Sask., who are 100 per cent 'dry', would like to make it a criminal offense to drive after taking one drink of alcohol beverage, claiming that it is a scientific fact that one drink incapacitates one for quick thinking, and regretting the habit of magistrates of considering a man sober as long as he can stand on his feet.

"Mr. Brown said he regarded a drunken driver as a potential criminal and that the fact that the courts had never determined when a man was drunk led to confusion.

"A. E. Ross, Conservative member for Kingston, Ont., suggested that a man, convicted of driving when drunk, should never be allowed to drive again.

"The Minister of Justice, Mr. Hugh Guthrie, said that magistrates who had thought they could impose fines or suspend sentence must now impose jail sentence and he hoped that they would carry out the new law without fear or favor."

Iowa-Illinois Residents to Picnic in Crookston

Program details for the annual Illinois-Iowa picnic to be held in Central Park Crookston July 28 are being completed by a committee of officers and members.

Miner Helgeson, Polk county representative in the state legislature, has been selected to give the principal address of the day.

Mayor W. J. Kirkwood will welcome the former Illinois and Iowa residents to the city and T. M. McCall of the Northwest school, former Iowa resident, will respond.

The program will begin at 11 a. m. with an old fiddlers' contest. Entries in the contest may be made by addressing C. P. Musselman, route 1, Crookston, president of the Iowa-Illinois association. Three prizes will be awarded in the contest.

[illegible] orchestra will provide music during the noon hour and free coffee will be provided for those who bring their picnic lunches.

History Lacking

History tells us little about the movements of commerce, which always advanced civilization; but much about movements for conquest, which often destroyed it.

BABY BURNED USING ACID AS HAIR TONIC

Hastings—Treating himself to an application of hair tonic before breakfast without his parent's knowledge, Gerald Tallman, 2-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bural Tallman, Hastings, suffered painful burns about the face and body when the "tonic" turned out to be carbolic acid. The child awakened before his parents and scampered downstairs, climbing on a chair to get the bottle of acid from the table. Having tried other liquids as hair tonic and finding them satisfactory, he apparently thot this preparation should also suit the purpose. But the acid, running down over his face and nearly naked body, burned him severely. Gerald is still in considerable pain, but is recovering.

"Oh, there was a guy back there who wouldn't dim his lights, so I thought I would let him have it," was the rather timid reply. "Well, I'm the guy, and my lights were dimmed all the time. I'm also the sheriff of Morrison county, and you're going to court." Judge Ran- [illegible] the offender $15 and costs.

PARDON ME, MADAM, BUT CAN YOU TELL ME WHAT COFFEE HAS THE RICHEST FLAVOR?
NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE, MY GOOD MAN. THE VAN CLEVE LABORATORIES REPORT THAT NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE CONTAINS 29.7% MORE FLAVOR THAN OTHER COMMERCIAL BRANDS.

The flavor of coffee comes from an aromatic oil known as caffeol. Scientists can actually determine the flavor of coffee by extracting this oil and weighing it on a scale—and tell you scientifically which brand possesses the most flavor.

The Van Cleve Laboratories, food chemists, recently analyzed seven popular brands of coffee. Nash's Toasted Coffee was found to contain 29.7% more flavor producing oil than the highest of the six other brands—straight proof of its richer, deeper flavor, a flavor that millions pronounce, "Every Drop Delicious."

Slayton.—A ball game that lasted 19 innings with one pitcher going the full route for each team and not a score tallied in the last 15 innings ended in a tie between Iona and Slayton recently. Bud Storderl, pitching for Iona, went the entire circuit and pitched super ball, with Pigras, for Slayton, finishing the 19 innings as fresh as at the end of the 9th. HANDCUFFS PRISONER CAN'T FIND THE KEYS

Breckenridge — When Bob Kemper, special policeman of Foxhome, handcuffs a prisoner, they stay handcuffed. This was proven when he arrived with Gene Sandera at the Wilkin county jail. Sandera and Milton Noyes had been arrested in that village for disturbing the peace Sheriff Fitzgerald asked Kemer to give him the key to the handcuffs so that he could unlock the prisoner's arms, which were fastened behind his back. Kemper had no keys. A call to Foxhome brought word that none knew where the keys were, as it had been a long time since they had been in use. Sheriff Fitzgerald was compelled to take matters into his own hands and use a little elbow grease and a back saw before Sandera was again able to see what his hands looked like.

N. W. SCHOOL AT CROOKSTON PAYS HONOR TO 3 MEN

Selvig, Hoverstad and A. D. Stephens Campus Guests Last Week

Three men who contributed much to the early growth and development of the Northwest School and Station were honored during the fortieth anniversary celebration which was held on the campus last week. This group included T. A. Hoverstad, the first superintendent of the station, who served from 1895 to 1905; C. G. Selvig, superintendent from 1910 to 1927; and A. D. Stephens, former state senator, who aided in securing necessary appropriations during the early period of growth. With the exception of Wm. Robertson, deceased, who served as superintendent of the station and newly organized school of agriculture from 1905 to 1910, all former superintendents were in attendance.

T. A. Hoverstad told of his impressions when he first walked over the swampy land on July 1, 1895. He added, "The Northwest School and Station is now one of the beauty spots of the state. Its growth and development has surpassed the high hopes we held forty years ago." Former Congressman Selvig emphasized the influence of both the school and station on the agricultural development of the Red River valley. It was during his administration that the Winter Shows were organized and developed. He said, "Minnesota, with its college of agriculture, schools of agriculture, and agricultural experiment stations, has the best organized system of agricultural education in the United States."

Former Senator A. D. Stephens said that former Governor Rice frequently asked him if the School of Agriculture would pay. "Today it would be easy to answer that question. It has returned rich dividends in dollars and cents as well as from a cultural standpoint."

Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent since 1927, briefly summarized the growth of the school from 31 students in 1906 to between 300 and 400 during recent years. Over 1100 young men and women have graduated from the regular courses while over 4000 have attended one or more years.

Dean W. C. Coffey spoke on "The Need for Experiment Stations" and mentioned many problems now pressing for solution.

During the annual meeting of the Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association, which was held during the day, Herman Skyberg, Fisher, was reelected president; Theodore Mellum, Ulen, vice president; R. S. Dunham, Crookston, secretary; and S. M. Sivertson, Crookston, treasurer, together with the following directors: Kittson, A. V. $15 Per Capita Payment to Red Lake Indians to be Distributed Shortly

Payment of $15 per capita to the Red Lake band of Chippewas in Minnesota will likely be made within three weeks' time, according to a letter received Wednesday of last week by H. Z. Mitchell, editor of The Bemidji Pioneer, from Congressman R. T. Buckler in Washington, representative from the Ninth district of Minnesota, who sponsored the legislation.

The measure was signed by Pres. Roosevelt July 2, Cong. Buckler states in his letter, adding that he has contacted the Bureau of Indian Affairs in order to speed up the payment to each enrolled member.

"The work of making up the list of eligible members and other details will perhaps require two weeks," Cong. Buckler states, "but I have been assured that the payment should be in the hands of the Indians within three weeks' time."

Annual Event Will Continue From August 31 Until September 7

Record exhibits and attendance are forecast for the Minnesota State Fair, August 31 to September 7, announces Raymond A. Lee, secretary. Although the opening of the exposition is still five weeks away, an avalanche of entries already has been received in the livestock, agricultural and horticultural divisions. With excellent crop prospects and a spirit of confidence and optimism prevailing, all indications point to the finest crop displays in years. More than 12,000 individual exhibits, an all-time record, are anticipated by the management.

Saturday, August 31, has been designated Key Day by special action of the board of managers. Preparations are being made for the largest opening day's attendance in history. Special Key Day coupon tickets will be sold for 60 cents. These tickets will be good for admittance at the outside gates, admission for an automobile or to the Indian Village, a seat for the afternoon auto races and two rides at the Royal American Shows. Value of the attractions is $1.20.

It will be the first time in the history of the fair that a combination ticket for admission and a number of attractions has been offered. Plans have been made to distribute the Key Day tickets through clubs, organizations and individuals in all parts of the state. A speaker's bureau has been formed by the booster's committee to extoll the virtues of this year's exposition, with John A. Norton of St. Paul named as chairman.

NORTH SHORE DRIVE BEING BEAUTIFIED

A beautification program along the internationally famous drive on Lake Superior from Duluth to Fort William and Port Arthur is well under way. The "face-lifting" process is being accomplished by a troop of CCC timber "monkeys" located in camp near the Little Sucker river.

Stupendous Scenic Revue to be Feature of Amusements at Fair Grounds

Probably the best and certainly the most pretentious attraction ever booked for presentation at the local Fair this year will be the coming of the musical Revue—Ernie Young's "Trip Around The World".

As a scenic production it is in a class by itself. Never before has such a wealth of elaborate mounting been seen on the Fair grounds. The electrical effects and general schemes for illumination surpass anything ever to be seen here and embellished as it is with every mechanical contrivance to properly stage the numerous numbers, it stands out as a unique and surprising production of the highest calibre.

The principals have been recruited from the ranks of the highest paid vaudeville talent and the chorus and ballet scintillate with beauty and charm. Elaborate and wonderful costumes make a kaleidoscopic picture in all colors of the rainbow and the ensembles are elaborately staged and faithfully rendered.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. Watkins

We resume today the study of geographical names in Marshall county. It will be noted that Upham finds the sources varied and sometimes indefinite:

"Boxville township, organized in 1884, was named for William N. Box, an early homesteader there, who removed to Northfield, Minn., and later to the pacific coast. Cedar township, organized in 1892, has groves of the arbor vitae, more often called white cedar. Como township, organized in 1900, received its name from Lake Como in St. Paul, as probably proposed by George P. Whitcomb, a land owner here who lived in that city. Seven states of the Union have villages of this name, derived from the Italian city and province and their mountain-bordered lake so named at the south side of the Alps.

"Comstock township, organized in 1881, was named in honor of Solomon G. Comstock, an attorney for the Great Northern railway company, who named the village of Argyle. He was born in Argyle, Maine, May 9, 1842; came to Minnesota in 1869, settling in Moorhead; was admitted to practice law in 1871; was a representative in the state legislature, 1876-7 and 1879-81; a state senator, 1883-7; and a representative in congress, 1889-91.

"Donnelly township, organized in 1895, commemorates Ignatius Donnelly, who was born in Philadelphia, Nov. 3, 1831, and died in Minneapolis, Jan. 1, 1901. He was admitted to practice law in his native city; came to Minnesota in 1857; was lieutenant governor, 1860-3, and a representative in congress, 1863-9; later served several terms in the state legislature, and was a national leader in the Farmers' Alliance movement, and in the Populist party; author of many published speeches and addresses and of numerous books. He lived many years at Nininger, a few miles west of Hastings, and was often called: 'the Sage of Nininger.'

"Eagle Point, organized in 1890, was named from an eagle's nest near the center of this township, at a point of the woods which reached eastward from the Red river. East Park, organized in 1899, is the second township east of Nelson Park, previously organized, when this name was suggested. East Valley township, organized in 1896, crossed by the Thief river, had settlers from the earlier West Valley township on the Middle river.

"Eckvoll township, organized in 1901, received this Norwegian name meaning 'Oak Vale,' in allusion to its abundant oak groves. It was proposed by Nels K. Nelson, previously a resident of Warren, being taken from a former Eckvoll post office in Oak Park township. Espelee township, organized in 1903, is likewise named from Norwegian words, meaning 'Popular Slope', for its many groves of poplars.

"Excel township, organized in 1884, was named from the village and township of Excelsior in Hennepin county, being shortened to avoid exact repetition of that name, which was taken from the well known poem entitled 'Excelsior,' written by Longfellow in 1841. Foldahl, organized in 1883, is named for a locality in Norway, the country from which most of the settlers in this township came.

"Fork township, organized in 1896, was so named because the Red river receives the Snake river at its west side. Boatmen ascending the Red river may here take either one of two routes, like prongs or tines of a fork. Grand Plain township, organized in 1898, is in the nearly level and plainlike east part of the county. Holt township, organized in 1890, and its railway village, were named in honor of a pioneer Norwegian settler. This is an ancient Anglo-Saxon and Scandinavian word, meaning a grove or a wooded hill.

"Huntley township, organized in 1902, having been a noted hunting ground for moose, was at first called Huntsville, which was changed because an earlier township in Polk county had received that name. Lincoln township, organized in 1892, was named in honor of the martyr president of the United States in the Civil war. Linsell, the most northeastern township of this county and one of the latest organized in 1908, was named by its Swedish people for the town of Linsell in central Sweden. McCrea township, organized in 1882, was named for Hon. Andrew McCrea, farmer and lumberman, who had land interests in this county, and whose sons were residents of Warren during many years, thence removing to the west. He was born in New Brunswick in 1831; came to St. Paul in 1854; afterward lived in Colorado and other states, but in 1870 settled in Perham, Minn., was a representative in the legislature in 1877, and a state senator in 1879."

The Dollar Saved is the Dollar at Work

When you and 199 other people each invest $5 in shares of this Association, we lend that $1,000 to a home owner, to build or modernize his house.

Most of the money pays local carpenters and other artisans for their labor. The rest goes to local merchants to buy building materials for the job.

The workers and merchants who receive that $1,000 spend nearly all of it here in this community. It keeps on working for the benefit of everyone.

The home owner pays back part of the $1,000 each month, together with interest on the unpaid balance, so that you and other thrifty shareholders may receive dividends as long as your money remains invested.

That is the way saved dollars should work for the community's profit. Don't let them stay idle.

Government of Alaska

Alaska became a territory by an act of August 24, 1912. It has a legislative assembly consisting of eight senators and sixteen representatives, elected by the Alaskans. The governor is appointed by the President of the United States. He is assisted by a surveyor general, who is ex-officio secretary of the territory, and by other officials.

Ernie Young's "Trip Around The World" Revue at Fair

Determined that no Fair in the State shall have a more pretentious amusement programme than the local event, the Fair directors have engaged the appearance of the latest musical and dance Revue—Ernie Young's "Trip Around the World" for production this year.

This is probably the most expensive and best attraction ever booked locally and should make Fair history at the Pennington County Fair Celebration.

Realizing that no matter how good the exhibits are, they must provide a well balanced amusement programme, the management have decided to give their patrons the highest type of amusement this year they have ever sponsored. As a head line feature they cannot go wrong with Ernie Young's "Trip Around The World".

Around fifty people take part in the mammoth production. It is not one of the ordinary Revues so common in the past, but a really up to date 1935 attraction, staged in a manner heretofore thought impossible on a Fair Grounds and carrying all its own scenic and electrical effects. The settings are on a mastodonic order and will transform the space in front of the Grandstand into a veritable fairyland of light and color.

Prominent beauties will form the corps de ballet and equal number comprise a talented chorus. Every word is plainly audible in the farthest seats and the costumes are elaborate, scintillating and beautiful.

Prominent artists will intersperse with their solo offerings and include a well known and popular prima donna, several talented dancing teams and other individual features.

On the closing night there will be a legal wedding performed between local parties on the stage, in which the entire company will take part. Amid these beautiful surroundings the happy pair, whose names will be announced later, will tie the knot which binds and be sent off on their wedding journey in a most auspicious manner.

"BLIND" MEN CHASE EACH OTHER WITH AUTO CRANK

Fergus Falls—Blind men, piously singing "The Old Rugged Cross", took in quite a bit of change in Fergus Falls, including an auto from the chief of police. That night the chief was called to an outlying tourist camp, where the "blind" men had driven their car. Both were heavily under the influence of liquor. Following an altercation over the division of the day's spoils, one of the "blind" men had chased the other one around the camp with an auto crank, and the second "blind" man had been able to see well enough to keep out of striking distance. They were given a chance to sober up and get out of the city.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

It is refreshing to listen to a liberal who does not fear to speak out bluntly and plainly. We refer to the talk made before the Younger Democrats in St. Paul by Senator Rush D. Holt of West Virginia, when he said: "American democracy is in more danger today from the American Liberty league than from Communism." Every thinking person will subscribe to that contention.

Eler Benson, commissioner of banks, scouted charges of critics of the bonus that it would result in dangerous inflation, in an address last week to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in their state encampment at St. Peter.

The commissioner, pinch hitting for Governor Olson, pointed out that the national administration has embarked this year upon a "spending" program of nearly five billion dollars for relief alone, and contended that payment of two billion dollars for a bonus "long overdue" would "do more toward restoring prosperity than twice that amount give to munitions racketeers."

Official regulations governing the expenditure of federal relief funds for grade crossing elimination and highway work bear out fully an early warning by Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg regarding the difficulty of accomplishing high type construction with this money. One important concession has been made by federal authorities. This is in the form of permission to add state funds to the relief money and thus pay for the materials and equipment necessary for efficient road construction and accomplishment, Commissioner Elsberg states that this can be done if the State Executive Council sells bonds authorized by the last Legislature for meeting federal financing contingencies. If such state funds are not made available the federal funds must go largely into "pick and Shovel" jobs. If state funds can be added to the federal appropriations, work will also be given unemployed men who are not on relief. Ninety per cent of all labor paid with the United States funds must come from the relief rolls.

A survey of the Twin Cities water systems and sources of supply will be undertaken by the state board of health as the result of an appropriation of $20,000 made by the state executive council. It is thought that a recent typhoid outbreak in Minneapolis was due to the water system of that city. In olden times, a typhoid outbreak would spread rapidly, leaving wholesale death in its wake. Thanks to modern science, however, epidemics are checked fairly quickly. Cooperation on the part of the public is essential.

Following a year's survey, the Federal Power Commission, in a report, urged standardization and simplification of the rate structure on domestic and residential electric current in Minnesota. Conditions in this state, the commission finds, "falls short of explaining the range of charges from minimum to maximum, which in many cases exceed 100 per cent."

Melvin C. Passolt, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, estimates that the nine additional operators allowed his department by the last Legislature will be put to work by August 1. These men will be selected according to right examinations recently taken. Edward J. Fitzgerald has been appointed assistant finger print expert. With his larger force, Chief Passolt will be able to demonstrate even more conclusively that "crime does not pay."

David R. Arundel, liquor control commissioner, has issued new rules and regulations governing conduct of the liquor trade. The most drastic change is that liquor of over 100 proof cannot be sold for beverage purposes.

Records in the office of S. Paul Skahen, Commissioner of Securities, disclose the fact that unscrupulous stock salesmen have a definite plan of procedure in disposing of their worthless wares. Invariably their start is made upon the prominent members of a community and especially doctors and ministers. Doctors, particularly, are so wrapped up in the work of their profession that they fail to keep themselves advised of day to day occurrences in the investment field and are easy prey for fly-by-night, high pressure swindlers.

After "making" the doctors of a community, the swindlers divert their attentions to the priests and ministers, usually with success. With their names on a subscription list, members of their church are then approached and little difficulty is encountered in disposing of securities having little or no value before a breath of it reaches the Securities Commission. It is only through complaint or inquiry that the Commission gains knowledge of the sales, and if made promptly the salesman is usually apprehended before he can get out of the state. Fake gold mine stocks, oil royalties and whiskey warehouse receipts are now being actively pushed by salesmen throughout the state.

The Word "Femme"

It is pronounced "fahmm" with the "a" having the same sound as in the English word "ham." It is French for "woman" and used once in awhile as a substitution for "spouse" (wife) or "femelle" (female). The oft heard expression "Cherchez la femme" has a literal English translation of "look (or search) for the woman."—Pathfinder Magazine.

C. & C. and Rotary Men Will Strive for Golfing Honors Here

Anything from flying divots to holes in one may be looked for on the local golf course one day next week following acceptance Tuesday by the Rotary club of a challenge to a golf tournament delivered by Kern Olson in behalf of the Civic and Commerce association. Dr. A. E. Jacobson, representing the Rotary club in making arrangements for what is expected to become an annual event, said the Rotarians may lose, but if they do their rivals will know they have been in a battle. Mr. Olson merely smiled confidently. Fairways and greens on the local course are in ideal condition for the stirring battle, the exact date of which has not been decided.

Townships, Villages and City Will Take Over Work of Administering Aid

Pennington county relief clients, effective today, must turn to their township, city and village administrations to provide for their needs, following the closing Wednesday of the county SERA relief office which has been operated under the direction of Miss Majorie Shaw.

The closing of the county office resulted from a decision reached last Friday evening by the county board not to contribute $11,400 this year and again in 1936 for the maintenance of the SERA office in this county.

The board took action following a session with the city council earlier in the evening, in which the latter body by a majority vote went on record against maintaining the SERA setup. The opinion was expressed by council members that the local communities should have more to say about the administration of relief than was permitted under the present system.

Area SERA Supervisor Roach of Crookston, who was present at the conference, voiced his opinion that the appropriation of $11,400 as requested for the maintenance of the present system would be advantageous to the county, citing that the county office had paid out a total of $29,008 for direct and work relief from January 1 to June 1. He also stated that there are 92 relief cases in the city of Thief River Falls, including 26 classed as unemployables.

Polk county commissioners, in a special session Monday evening, voted not to continue the SERA setup in that county, rescinding favorable action taken Wednesday evening of last week. Yesterday the board again reversed itself, voting to continue the SERA. Red Lake and Marshall counties have entered into contracts with the state agency for the coming year, Mr. Roach informed the meeting here Friday.

Minnesota counties desiring to handle their relief problems independently will be given the entire co-operation of the SERA in setting up their own relief agencies it was announced late Monday by L. P. Zimmerman, SERA administrator.

"It is neither the intent nor the desire of the SERA to compel participation in the Minnesota $10,000,000 relief measure," he said. "This bill was passed by the state legislature last winter under threat of government relief agency operatives to terminate all federal relief aid unless the state voted participation in the national relief program.

"As finally passed the bill gave the state executive council authority to compute the amount of county participation based on relief need and ability to pay. Fixing the state's share of $5,000,000 for the first year the local political units were given a similar amount. The SERA was named by the council as its agent to estimate the county quotas and to aid them in means of raising the funds.

"The quotas were arrived at, presented to the counties and a decision asked. In requesting recently that this question of participation be decided by July 31 no implication was made and no threat given to the counties which are considering plans for handling their own relief problems. If the state relief law is to be carried out it is imperative that the SERA know which counties intend to take advantage of its provisions.

"The SERA welcomes the opportunity to aid any county in handling its relief affairs independently. It will co-operate 100 per cent to assist any and all of these counties in reducing their relief loads and in getting back on their feet."

THREE INJURED AS WHEAT LINE TRAIN DERAILS IN N. D.

Transients Riding on Box Cars Hurt as Train Leaves Track

Three men were injured, two of them critically, when a westbound freight and passenger train of the Soo line was wrecked three miles west of Nekoma, N. D., at 4:35 p. m. Wednesday.

The injured were transients riding on two box cars which were thrown clear of the road bed. Seventeen other transients and the train crew escaped injury, although eight freight cars were partly or completely derailed in the accident.

The passenger coach, the mail and baggage car, and the private car of A. C. Peterson of Thief River Falls, division Soo line superintendent, were at the rear of the train and remained on the rails.

Approximately 100 yards of track and ties were demolished and the roadbed badly damaged. Breakdown of a truck of an oil tank car, placed three cars behind the locomotive, spread the tracks apart and the freight cars behind were plunged into the roadbed, crew members explained.

Most critically injured was Jess Calking, 63 years old, of Albert Lea, Minn., whose chest was crushed so severely that his ribs were fractured and his lungs punctured. Although he regained consciousness at the Langdon hospital, he was not expected to live through the night.

Howard Frost, 51 years old, of Redwood City, Calif., suffered a deep laceration across his back and severe cuts on his arms. Physicians gave him a fair chance to recover.

L. Arneson of McIntosh, Minn., suffered a badly bruised hip but his condition was not serious. Frost and Arneson also were patients in the Langdon hospital Wednesday night.

A "wrecker" was dispatched from Thief River Falls late Wednesday.

COUNCIL BUYS BUSCH-SULZER 1,000 H. P. UNIT

New Diesel Engine for Power Plant to be Completed in November

BIDS ALSO RECEIVED ON 750, 500 H. P. UNITS

Minneapolis Firm Awarded Contract for 16,000 Gallons Road Oil

As a result of action taken by the city council at an adjourned meeting Saturday afternoon the municipal power plant will be equipped with a new 1,000 horsepower Diesel unit late in November, in time to handle the peak load of the winter months.

The Busch-Sulzer Bros. Diesel Engine company of St. Louis was awarded the contract to furnish and install an eight-cylinder slow speed unit on its bid of $57,257, while the bid of the General Electric company of $2,386 covering switchboard equipment also was accepted, making the total cost of the installation $59,643, just within the limits of the $60,000 bond issue approved by the voters of the city earlier in the year.

Five other bids on a 1,000 horsepower unit were submitted by representatives of companies manufacturing the Nordberg, Worthington, McIntosh & Seymour, Fairbanks Morse and Fulton engines, bids ranging from $57,073 for the Fulton to $59,650 for a 1050 horsepower Fairbanks Morse unit. The successful bidder contracted to complete installation in not more than 120 days, while the switchboard equipment is to be installed within 90 days.

The Busch-Sulzer company is the manufacturer of the two small units in the old power plant, which have given reliable service since their installation in 1911.

Two alternative bids received on two 500 horsepower units were higher than the maximum fixed by the bond issue, being in the amounts of $64,585 and $67,370. Six bids were received on a 750 horsepower unit, ranging from $42,013 to $48,600, but an informal vote of the council revealed a unanimous sentiment in favor of the 1,000 horsepower size.

At its meeting Friday evening when the engine bids were opened, the council also awarded to the J. W. Craig company of Minneapolis the contract to supply approximately 16,000 gallons of road oil for oiling three streets in the city at a price of 7.85 cents a gallon. Only the one bid was received.

Other business transacted at the session included the voting of $100 and free electric lighting to the county fair, and authorization of the payment of a total of $2,050 to the owners of the block acquired for park purposes earlier in the year.

Pick Teams for Donkey Baseball Game Aug. 14

Civic and Commerce Group and Farm Clubs Select Strong Lineups

Donkey Baseball, the funniest sport ever invented, is coming to Thief River Falls the night of Wednesday, August 14. Without a doubt a new laugh record for this community will be set that night when members of the Civic and Commerce association and Pennington County farm clubs meet at the fair grounds to ride wild-eyed donkeys and play baseball at the same time.

The following local mule tamers and baseball stars have been selected to play:

Civic and Commerce association team: Paul Lundgren, catcher; W. H. Mann, pitcher; Andrew Anderson, first base; Haakon M. Olson, second; Frank Hinkel, shortstop, Hal Ekeren, third base; A. W. Mickelson, right field; John Batten, centerfield; and Roy Lamlett, left field; as well as the following replacements: W. L. Carlisle, H. E. Nelson, Ben Kiewel, A. M. Magnuson, C. W. Mattson, C. J. Gustafson, W. E. Dahlquist, E. F. Tunberg and G. S. Bergland.

Farm clubs, Rocksbury: Gordon Gunderson, Cal Toomey, Lawrence Best, Paul Engelstad, Ole Iverson. Steiner: Harvey Copp, Vernon Copp, Ernie Wetner, Gus Hillyer, Roy Murry, Dan Doebacter, Otto Saugen. Smiley: Bill McCrum, Adam Lendobeja, Walter Lendobeja, Jim McCrum, Fred Lohe. Wyandotte: Owen Weckwerth, Matt Gerardy, Otto Schroeder, Frank Bruggeman.

The names of the eminent baseball donkeys which compose the Bar X Ranch troupe are: "Mae West", "Moon Mullins", "Bungle", "Pop Eye", "Jesse James", "Huey Long", "Andy Gump", "Wimpy", "Pretty Boy", "Madame Queen", "Amos" and "Andy." The players will ride these donkeys without bridle or saddle.

Folks who have seen Donkey Baseball games in other cities say it is the funniest thing they have seen in years. They say the crowd is kept in a constant uproar by the antics of the players and donkeys.

Donkey Baseball is played on a regulation sized diamond with circles marked on the ground to be used as bases. The fielders and batters ride donkeys or try to. The pitcher and catcher are the only players not mounted on donkeys. They are not allowed to get out of a certain lane marked off between the box and the plate. A soft ball is used and the batter always gets a hit.

The Bar X Ranch donkeys are all trained and according to advance reports they are as liable to start toward third base as they are toward first. Sometimes they will not start at all.

CO. OFFICIALS MEET WITH WPA HEADS IN CITY

Works Program Outlined Wednesday to Officials of Four Counties

PURPOSE IS TO END STATE ERA RELIEF

Counties Are Urged to Submit Likely Projects for Consideration

Officials of four northwest counties met in the Auditorium Wednesday evening to participate in a discussion of the new Works Progress administration setup with Donald Whitmore, director in charge of the Thief River Falls district; S. F. Sharpless, district engineer; and C. W. Anderson, district engineer of the Detroit Lakes office. Counties represented included Pennington, Red Lake, Beltrami and Clearwater.

Mr. Whitmore urged the officials to submit plans for any likely projects to the district office, pointing out that the emergency relief administration will be terminated as quickly as persons on relief rolls are given employment on works projects. He said the state WPA is seeking $50,000,000 in projects for approval within the next 60 days.

Of this total Mr. Anderson, continuing the discussion, stated the four counties represented at the meeting were entitled to submit requests for projects aggregating $760,000, of which the Pennington county quota would be $58,000. If jobs are not provided here, he said, workers will have to be transferred to other communities.

He urged the local communities to take the initiative in proposing projects to the area engineers, stressing the fact that they must have the support of public sentiment and be properly planned and supervised while being carried to completion. Suggestions for useful work that can be carried on during the winter months are especially desirable, he said, pointing out that every effort will be made to avoid wasteful projects such as characterized the CWA two years ago. He added that $40 a month has been fixed as the maximum monthly wage scale for common labor on projects in this area, altho there is a possibility that this total might be slightly increased.

The explanatory talks were followed by an extended discussion in which various angles of relief and public works matters were brought out. J. M. Theige asked if the construction of a bridge in Smiley township across Red Lake river would be considered a suitable project to submit, and the WPA officials stated that it was.

Grandstand Show Makes Pleasing Impression in First Showings

EXHIBITS WELL UP TO FORMER STANDARD

Ernie Young's Revue to Furnish Setting for Public Wedding

With ideal weather prevailing Tuesday and Wednesday, the 34th annual Pennington county fair got off to a flying start, and crowds of nearly record proportions thronged the grounds, particularly yesterday, which was designated as Thief River Falls day.

Given fair weather, the biggest attendance of any day of the event is anticipated Friday, which will be featured by the award of a Ford car in the afternoon and a public wedding in front of the grandstand in the evening.

Fair patrons the first two nights agreed that the grandstand entertainment, Ernie Young's "Trip Around the World Revue", fully came up to advance claims, being equal to the show Mr. Young presented here three years ago.

Attractive scenery and costumes, unique lighting effects and a large and well drilled chorus created pleasing effects, in addition to which was presented a series of vaudeville acts above the usual standard, including dances, songs, jugglers, comedians, acrobats and tumblers. Pleasing spectacles in the revue were the gypsy, African, Mardi Gras and patriotic numbers. Two one-legged acrobats and an eight-foot tall dancer were unusual offerings.

The varied exhibits at the big exposition are up to the standard of former years with the exception of dairy cattle, particularly of the Guernsey breed, herds in this section having been depleted as a result of the Bang's disease test. However, more beef cattle are shown, and there is a representative display of poultry, sheep and hogs. Four-H boys and girls have nearly 300 entries in the various divisions. In the agricultural department displays of vegetables and fruits are above the average of past years, as well as forage crops, while there are fewer exhibits of sheaf grains.

Four H clubs sponsoring exhibit booths at the fair include the Bray-Polk Center, Silverton, Hazel, St. Hilaire, River Falls and Rocksbury clubs, showing the variety of activities in which the young people are engaged.

The woman's building houses the usual excellent displays of flowers, canned goods, fancy work and practical items, and city and rural school exhibits.

Favored by a track in fine condition, the horse races Wednesday afternoon were run off in snappy style. A feature of today's races will be the participation of two local horses owned by Roy Lambert and Bert Shaw.

The public wedding Friday evening will be presented in an elaborate setting provided by Ernie Young's revue. Six young couples of the community applied for the privilege of being married on this occasion, and the couple which will participate was selected in a drawing held earlier in the week. As was the case three years ago, a [illegible] expected to witness the novel ceremony.

Hennies Brothers shows, presenting [illegible] attractions on the midway, enjoyed a lively patronage both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The offerings include some thrilling rides as well as a wide variety of shows.

REEMPLOYMENT OFFICE TO ASSIGN MEN TO WPA JOBS

Details of Program Topic of Discussion at Bemidji Meeting

Personnel in the offices of the National Reemployment Service of District One and Two met at Bemidji last week to discuss the functions and responsibilities of the employment Service in the new Work Relief Program. They were instructed in their new duties and procedures by Dreng Bjornaraa, State Director, and Gordon M. Larson, State Statistical Supervisor, from St. Paul. Representatives of the local social service division of the emergency relief administration and of the works progress administration were present to discuss the various phases of their work. Original assignments for workers to the new PWA and WPA projects will be made by the National Reemployment Service on the basis of the ability to perform the work.

Original assignments for workers to the new PWA and WPA projects will be made by the National Reemployment service on the basis of the ability to perform the work.

It is required by the Emergency Relief Administration that all employable members of relief families register in the employment offices in order that they may be considered for jobs. The applications of all relief persons will remain in the active file while they are working on the new projects, and the employment offices will make a concerted effort to find openings in private employment.

The registration of relief persons is already well advanced, and the National Reemployment Service offices are ready to assign labor to projects as soon as certifications of eligibility are received from the relief offices and requisitions for workers are presented by contractors or officials in charge of WPA projects. Employable relief persons who have not already registered are urged to do so at once in order that they may be interviewed and appropriately classified according to occupational ability.

The National Reemployment Service, according to the State Director, will continue as at present to register new applicants looking for employment and refer them to available jobs. The additional duties to be assumed by the Service in the new works program will be along this same line in interviewing and classifying applicants and referring them to jobs for which they are best qualified.

Note Improvement in Tax Payments This Year

With about one half of the 88 counties reporting, indications are that tax collections in the state will show improvement over a year ago, when the average tax delinquency was 22 per cent for the state, according to a report now being compiled by the Minnesota Taxpayers Association. Collections for taxes delinquent for several years back also showed improvement. While in many cases the improvement is slight, some of the counties reported high percentage improvement, the report reveals.

CAR, DRIPPING GASLOINE, CHASED BY FIRE—CAUGHT

Sandstone—A car dripping with gasoline, chased by a flame of fire which licked up the trail, was caught near Sandstone recently, and the car came out second best. Herbert Bilstad, returning home after attending a dance, stopped at Pine Camp for lunch. A young man who accompanied him dirtied up the back of the car, and when water did not remove it all, he took the plug out of the gasoline tank to get gas for cleaning purposes. It was easy to take out the plug, but much more difficult to get it back in place. Meanwhile, considerable gasoline was still coming out of the tank and the car was followed by a strip of fire, which licked up the trail like a dog chasing a rabbit. A parked car in front caused Bilstad to stop, and the fire was upon him before he could get started again. The gas tank exploded, the flames shooting straight into the air on the still night, and causing no other damage than to the car.

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

Extremely hot weather and rust during the past two weeks have made material changes in the crop situation. Three weeks ago the northwest looked forward to a bumper wheat crop. Today wheat prospects are decidedly poor and wheat prices have gone up. Three weeks ago corn was a doubtful crop. At the present time corn prospects are good and the corn belt is happy. Such a radical change in crop conditions during such a short period of time justifies a reasonable doubt as to the possibility of success of any man made production control program.

Adequate power to meet the increased demand of the winter months now seems to be assured as a result of the purchase of another engine. It is fortunate that the decision to buy was not further delayed for even now the new equipment will not be installed and ready for operation until the middle of November, which may mean that we will go without street lights for a few weeks. It takes a long time to build and install a machine of that size and if immediate action had not been taken then we would have faced a very difficult problem during the month of December.

We don't know whether or not the council made a wise selection in the purchase of an engine last week. As far as we know it is possible that they accepted the wrong bid. But we doubt very much that there are other individuals in town better qualified than the council to decide which of the seven or ten engines offered is the best buy. Not that we think the councilmen are so smart either. The long and the short of it is that even if we were a community of engine specialists, and every citizen of the community had studied diesel engines till they had more degrees than a thermometer, we still wouldn't be able to agree on a question of this kind. In deciding to purchase another Busch engine the council probably was influenced to some extent by the fact that the city has received good service from the two Busch engines in operation here for many years. The manufacturer of these engines has an excellent reputation. These considerations, along with the fact that the price was in line, probably justified their selection.

Now that the problem of providing adequate power has been disposed of, city officials have indicated that they will give immediate consideration to the rate structure. And rate revision will be not only popular among consumers but should prove to be profitable for the city as well. Our per capita consumption of electricity in this community is comparatively low in spite of the fact that it has doubled during the past ten years. Because our city has not kept pace with the tendency thruout the country to lower rates, installation of electrical appliances has not been encouraged. According to the experience of both privately and publicly owned utilities, a scientific rate structure that encourages off-the-peak consumption, increases net income. Rate revision, however, is not a problem that a local committee can do justice to. It is a problem sufficiently technical and involved to merit the counsel of a rate specialist. Considering the importance of the power department revenue to the city, a series of moderate reductions probably would be more desirable than one radical reduction. But these are things for the city officials to worry about. The important thing is that our much needed rate revision is on the way and that there is good reason to believe that by the first of the year our electricity will cost us less.

Those who see nothing but good in the new trade agreement with Russia call attention to the thirty million dollars worth of American machinery that will be sold abroad, giving employment to American workers and all that sort of thing. They fail to mention however, that this thirty million dollars worth of American products will be paid for by thirty million dollars worth of Russian products. And most of these Russian products will be sold in this country in competition with products of American labor and agriculture. In other words this foreign trade is not an unmixed blessing. To a certain extent it merely means that one group of Americans is benefited at the expense of another group of Americans. And up to the present time American agriculture hasn't been the benefited party in any of these special trade agreements that our government is experimenting with.

Results of North Dakota's special referendum on the sales tax question do not add strength to the argument of those who opposed such a tax in this state. After several months of experience with the tax, it was the farmer vote of North Dakota that decided the tax was a pretty good thing. Which isn't difficult to explain. Farmers being the principal taxpayers of that state, the bulk of the burden falling on real estate, the farmers naturally welcomed the contributions that were being made by others through the sales tax to defray the expenses of government. The more the others contributed the less they would have to pay. And so North Dakota still has its sales tax.

Al Stenberg, chief of the local Scotland Yard, deserves a couple of cheers for the good work his organization has been doing in solving the community's crime problems. There have been several examples of effective sleuthing during the past few weeks and two or three bad messes have been cleaned up. As a rule the only time any police force is ever mentioned is when it is being panned for its shortcomings. Not often enough do the police receive recognition for the things they do right.

AMBITIOUS NATIONS
(Nicholas Murray Butler)

It has become clear that treaties count for nothing in the face of national ambition and of what the ruling statesmen regard as national security. Therefore Japan is moving steadily toward the extension of her control over a vast portion of Asia. Therefore Italy is feeling her way toward the acquisition of new territory and new economic opportunity in Africa, while Germany is so to speak, tossing in her bed, stirred with ambition to extend her authority toward the south and the southeast.

To deal with a complicated and very real situation such as this will tax the world's wisdom and the world's statesmanship to the utmost. These conditions, serious as they are, become more so when it is realized how closely they are bound up with the various revolutionary movements now actively going forward in the fields of economics, politics and the social order.

THE DANGER OF HASTE
(Carl W. Ackerman)

While the NRA is now largely historical, the example of what could be accomplished by the mobilization of emotion, hysteria, fear, hatred and revenge faces us still today. Taking advantage of the overwhelming sentiment of the American people for better social conditions, those whose object is a new social order based on governmental control tell us that we must make haste or all will be lost.

That is not true. All will be lost if we make haste. Haste precipitated the World War. Haste made communism, fascism and nazism possible in Russia, Italy, and Germany.

It makes every emergency acute because it chokes opinion, reason, justice and faith.

A SLICE OF GAS
(Columbia, So. Car. State)

With the announcement that a new, safe, solid gasoline may supersede the present liquid form, one can vision the filling station of the future as a bit different from the present institution with its tanks and pumps, its vapor-laden air and the orders by gallon or pint.

The filling station, one can imagine, might well come to look rather like a good modern grocery. Rows of shelves with packages of gas, neatly blocked off in pounds and in larger packages. Different brands in different colored containers.

"Five pounds of so-and-so" might become the usual order. The former pint-buyer might ask for a slice.

TAXES ON GASOLINE
(New York Times)

Figures recently compiled by the American Petroleum Institute show that the states and federal government collected no less than $735,000,000 last year in taxes on gasoline. This is more than the federal government received from existing taxes on all personal incomes.

Highly productive and easy to collect, the gasoline tax has come increasingly into vogue since the first experiment with it was made by Oregon in 1919. Since then, every state in the union has adopted it. The federal government followed suit in 1932, thereby invading a field previously regarded as exclusively the domain of the states. Against this invasion the petroleum institute has frequently protested, insisting that the cent-a-gallon federal tax was originally enacted as a "temporary" measure, to be repealed when new revenues were found, and that such revenues have been provided by the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the imposition of taxes on intoxicating liquors.

In the early days, state taxes on gasoline were more or less scrupulously set aside for the improvement of roads over which the tax-paying motorists traveled. This segregation has, however, long since broken down, and the gasoline tax now plays fairy godmother to a wide variety of state needs, from the support of schools in Louisiana to the propagation of oysters in Maryland.

ONE REASON FOR RELIEF
(St. Cloud Times)

The internal revenue to the government was 625 millions more in the year ending June 30, than the one previous. Internal revenue comes mostly from liquor, beer, tobacco in various forms, cosmetics, and other vanities that the pioneers never heard of, and the one cent tax on gasoline, and some of the nuisance taxes. Minnesota paid over 57 million to the government in internal revenue—and what a help that would be to the state government and the taxpayers. It goes to the government, from booze, smokes, and sneezes, that we could get along quite as well without. A lot of what money goes into these internal taxes—a spending and collecting circle.

MAKE IT THE MORE DANGEROUS
(Northfield News)

No one who has observed the tendency to centralize power in agencies and bureaus in Washington, or the spirit of self-abnegation in which Congress has until recently been steeped, can fail to see the grave implications in the trend of our government. It is perhaps too easy to dismiss the dangers on the pretext that the new order of government which now prevails is necessary in the upward struggle for economic justice. Yet coupled with happenings in Europe, the situation has brought home to every thinking American a realization that the institutions of representative democracy, as they have been developed in this country, must be preserved.

With all its shortcomings, our democracy is still the most stable and the most suitable government for the American people. Its deadly enemy is bureaucracy. We cannot afford to be blind or to fail to resist the insidious encroachments of that enemy. That it stalks behind a benevolent dictator whose purposes we may for the moment trust make it the more dangerous.

That this nation has more difficult problems to solve at present than at any time in its history will be admitted by every thoughtful person. But the most vital problem confronting it is to find some means to reduce the terrible slaughter of human beings by automobiles, trucks and buses. Picking up a daily paper after a Sunday or holiday, one is shocked at the casualty list, which is often larger than the daily lists of killed and wounded reported during the World War. The speed mania is admitted to be the main cause of the greater part of our casualties, and the man or woman who can devise some practical cure for it will merit the everlasting gratitude of our nation.—Waseca Herald.

LOCAL BASEBALL TEAM WINS FROM OSLO SUNDAY 12-8

Thief River Falls Gets 11 Hits Compared to 14 for Oslo

The Thief River Giants last Sunday handed the Oslo ball club a 12 to 8 drubbing for their eighth win in twelve starts. The locals got only eleven hits compared to Oslo's fourteen, but the Giants made every hit count. Oslo presented a hard hitting aggregation but too many errors spelled defeat for them.

Oslo opened the scoring in the third inning when Grenlin beat out an infield single and T. Michalski walked with E. Robinson reaching first on Hovden's error with Grenlin and Michalski scoring on J. Michalski's single to center. The next two men flied out. The Giants scored four runs in the third on singles by Haugen and Elg together with Nordby's walk and four errors on the part of Oslo to put the locals ahead 4 to 2.

Oslo scored four runs in the fourth to take the lead when Grenlin, T. Michalski, and E. Robinson singled and M. Robinson doubled to left. In the fifth inning the Giants decided to gather a few runs and did so when Haugen, Hovden Nordby, Langlie and Mandus Thordal got on base in succession and Heiberg singled to left to collect five runs. Oslo scored one run in the fifth and one in the ninth for a total of eight runs. The Giants scored one run in the seventh and two in the eighth for a total of twelve.

Oslo started to hit Lefty Heiberd hard at the start of the game and had to be relieved by Push-em-up Tony Elg in the fifth. Elg pitched nice ball giving but five hits in five innings. Heiberg said after the game that it made no difference where he threw the ball, Oslo would hit even if it was behind their backs. Some of the players seem to be getting back their batting eye as all but two men got hits. The game was the kind the fans like with both teams doing a lot of hitting and scoring. The Giants will meet the Dakota Millers here next Sunday for the championship of the Northwest.

State Officials Give Warning of Prevalence of the Poison Ivy Pest

Strange as it may seem, many people who frequent wooded areas are not familiar with poison ivy. The Minnesota department of conservation issued the following statement concerning this noxious plant:

"At this season of the year, poison ivy begins to appear in the climbing or creeping stage in many of Minnesota's state parks and other wooded regions.

"The plant, or shrub belongs to the sumac family. It grows about 18 inches high before beginning to creep or climb on other shrubs and trees and often along the ground.

"The first identification of the noxious poison shrub is the three leaves on one stem. There are other plants with three leaves but poison ivy leaves are neatly smooth edged. They are not definitely notched or toothed as others are. The color of the leaf above is light green and is not shining. The shrub produces a whitish green flower. In the fall white berries appear.

"Contact with the plant produces a burning eruption of the skin. A physician should be consulted as soon after contact has been made as possible. Application of extract of witch hazel, wrapping the inflamed parts with well saturated cloths, will bring relief."

Barley Needs Careful Treatment to Qualify for Malting Premium

The Federal grain grades stipulate that barley with more than four per cent weather damaged kernels cannot class a malting barley, according to M. J. Johnson, Federal grain supervisor at Minneapolis. The care and manner of shocking and capping determine to a considerable degree the amount of weather damaged grain.

"Shocking and capping", says Mr. Johnson, "are regarded by many farmers as unimportant details. A poorly set shock may blow down and the bundles become moldy or tainted with ground odor. The careful farmer lets the barley become well ripened so it will sprout uniformly in the malt house then shocks his grain well, and if necessary, later reset fallen bundles.

"Shock capping pays in areas of moderately heavy rainfall, providing the caps are firmly placed. Cap sheaves blown off should be replaced.

Latest Device in War on Traffic Mishaps

Highway and safety officials, engineers, police officers and others displayed keen interest in the new two gun "R. D" testing device when the Minnesota Public Safety Committee gave them tests on their "Reaction Distance" recently. Here is shown George Belden, well known automotive expert and civic personage, right, watching closely as Kenneth Andresen, engineer for the Safety Committee, loads the revolvers. The device measures the time it takes for the driver to take his foot from the gasoline feed pedal and begin to apply his brakes. This distance is known as Reaction Distance, or "R. D." The novel and educational device will be displayed at many county fairs throughout Minnesota this fall, including the Pennington county fair this week.

Milaca—Hearing what they at first thought was a sheep lost in the woods, Harold and Elvin Andrews, Milaca, followed the sound and finally saw a doe. She led them directly to a fence that enclosed the farm where they saw a fawn caught by both hind legs in the fence. The doe then dashed off into the woods. DRIVERS LICENSE CAMPAIGN TO GET UNDER WAY TODAY

Highway Patrol Will Check up on Infractions of State Law

A drive against the estimated 50,000 to 60,000 Minnesota motorists who have failed to take out drivers licenses will begin today, John P. Arnoldy, state highway patrol chief, asserted. The campaign also will be directed against persons who have license cards but fail to carry them.

"Squads of four patrol men will be sent to different districts in the state every day," Arnoldy said. "They will stop every motor vehicle at their station and ask the driver to produce his license.

"If the motorist cannot show a license he will be asked to pull over into a parking space near the road until a further investigation can be made.

"If he has a license, but has neglected to carry it, we will give him 72 hours to produce the card for us. If he has no license and has not made application for it, he will be taken into court. The maximum penalty for failure to take out a license is $100 fine or 90 days in jail or both."

PLANS COMPLETE FOR STATE LEGION, AUXILIARY MEET

Annual Convention Will be Held in Albert Lea August 11-14

Albert Lea will become the mecca for thousands of persons August 11 to 14 when the American Legion and auxiliary meet in annual convention. A large delegation from this section is planning to attend, including the Thief River Falls auxiliary drum corps.

Plenty of entertainment is being arranged for the visitors. In addition to the impromptu parades to be staged by the individual musical organizations, there will be dances, banquets, band concerts and organized parades. A huge pre-convention dance will be offered on Saturday night, August 10, on a floor constructed on one of the main streets of the city. Vaudeville attractions, a aerial circus, golf tournaments, boating and other amusements are provided.

Prominent speakers will appear before the Legionnaires and auxiliary. Monday afternoon Past National Commander Edward A. Hayes will address the convention. Governor Floyd B. Olson will appear before the convention Tuesday morning, as will John Kennelly, national vicecommander. Mrs. A. C. Carlson, Willmar, national auxiliary president, will address a joint session of the two organizations Monday morning. Others high in Legion and unit circles will appear before meetings of these organizations.

While the visitors will be entertained the official delegates to the convention will be faced with a heavy program of convention sessions, committee meetings and other activities connected with gatherings of this kind.

Several hundred dollars in cash prizes will be awarded to bands, drum corps, individuals, juvenile drum corps, glee clubs, parade units, both Legion and auxiliary, and for other events.

New Oil Stations on Trunk Highways Must Have Permits

A warning to all business men, particularly oil station proprietors, that no private entrance to a state trunk highway can be constructed without a permit was issued this week by the state highway department.

"In the interest of public safety it has been necessary to prescribe certain rules governing the construction of private entrances to trunk highways and the location of gasoline pumps", says a statement issued by N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

"In several instances recently oil stations have started construction without complying with the necessary regulations. Every person planning the establishment of a business requiring a private entrance to a trunk road should obtain his entrance permit before erecting any buildings, gas pumps or other equipment."

District maintenance offices of the highway department will issue permits in most instances. In larger towns and cities where there are regular municipal permit offices, these are authorized to issue the permits.

MAKES ACE ON 205 YARD HOLE

Brainerd—The tricky Brainerd Country club golf course, which has defied all candidates for "hole-in-one" honors in the many years of its existence, today had an ace chalked up against it by J. C. Stroud, St. Paul, who needed only a drive on 205-yard ninth hole. Stroud's drive hit the carpet of the green and rolled straight into the cup without the flag being lifted. George Trent, club manager, was standing at the clubhouse and witnessed the achievement. Stroud used a spoon for the drive. As far as is known, Trent states, it is the first ace carded on the Brainerd course.

Agronomist at N. W. School Cites Wheat Resistance to Rust

Rust-resistant varieties of small grains are outstanding this year according to R. S. Dunham, agronomist at the Northwest Experiment Station. In the past few years the full value of such varieties has not been apparent since rust infections have been comparatively light. The combination of hot and humid weather has been ideal for the rapid development of stem rust and has resulted in such a serious epidemic in the Valley this year that resistant varieties are particularly conspicuous. At present Thatcher wheat at the Experiment Station has only a trace of stem rust infection and all danger of injury from this disease is considered over. Likewise, Anthony, Rusota, and Minrus oats and peatland barley on the plots are virtually free from stem rust. Varieties such as Marquis, Ceres, and Reward wheat, Gopher and Victory oats, and Manchuria, Velvet, and Wis. 38 barley are badly rusted at the Experiment Station.

The damage to such varieties will depend largely on the weather for the next week or ten days and also on their stage of maturity when rust became heavy. Cool weather will favor kernel development and retard rust development while continued heat will be conducive to maximum loss. Early plantings and early varieties may escape serious damage. Much of the rust on oats is not the stem rust but the less injurious crown rust. Mindum wheat, unless well along, will probably develop more stem rust before harvest than it has at present. Ceres, a variety that has been an excellent yielder for ten years, is badly rusted at the Experiment Station. However, many pustules are small and with favorable weather the damage will probably be less than the amount of rust would indicate. Except to avoid loss by lodging, experimental trials have shown no benefit in cutting rusted grains green.

AAA Prefers Acreage Adjustments to Loans on Rye and Wheat Crops

Requests of northwestern and midwestern farmers for government loans on rye and wheat so far have failed to gain the favor of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, says Andrew Boss, University Farm, St. Paul, state director of AAA programs in Minnesota.

Rather, he asserts, this agency prefers to increase benefit payments of farmers who cooperate in holding down their acreages of these commodities, if the supply, because of abnormally high yields, should depress prices unduly.

This policy has already been adopted in the case of wheat, he points out, on which adjustment payments have been increased from 29 cents a bushel in 1934 to 33 cents a bushel this year. Adjustment payments will also be made on rye this year, for the first time.

Details of the new wheat and rye adjustment contracts are now being worked out by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, following conferences with representative producers of these commodities in Washington early this month. The wheat contract, which will follow the one now in effect but expiring when the 1935 crop is harvested, will probably be ready to offer farmers early in August and the rye contract later the same month. Present indications are that both contracts will run for four years, unless ended before that time by a referendum of the growers. The administrative work of the two programs in each county will probably be handled by one production control association.

$353,257.27 STATE TRUST FUND IRON ORE ROYALTIES

For the quarter ending July 1, there were shipped from state trust fund mines 1,313,129 tons of iron ore for which the operating companies paid into the state treasury on July 29 the sum of $353,257.27 for royalty and rentals, according to F. A. Wildes, Director of the Division of Lands and Minerals, Minnesota Department of Conservation.

U. S. APPROVES 700-MILE STATE ROAD PROGRAM

Letting of Jobs Awaits Action by State Executive Council

A year's program of nearly 700 miles of trunk highway construction, submitted to the United States Bureau of Public Roads recently by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner, has been approved by the federal authorities, according to an announcement by the highway department.

Approximately $6,300,000 will be required to carry out the approved projects, of which the national government will pay half in the form of regular, matched federal aid. A list of additional projects involving about $500,000 is awaiting federal approval and will complete the program.

The highway department will begin letting contracts for the work whenever the State Executive council authorizes the sale of highway bonds to meet the state's share of the cost, Mr. Elsberg stated. This method of financing was provided by the last Legislature, and is the only way in which the federal funds can be obtained, he explained. Another construction program of equal size can be carried on next year by the matching method, as Minnesota has been allotted nearly $7,000,000 of regular federal highway aid for 1935 and 1936.

Included in the program already approved by the federal roads bureau is 120 miles of concrete paving, 216 miles of grading with gravel lifts, 220 miles of heavy gravel surfacing, 22 miles of bituminous surfacing, 19 bridges and a quantity of miscellaneous work.

Further progress in closing gaps in important paved highways is provided in the 1935 paving program. On U. S. 16, across the state through the southern tier of counties the program includes five miles of concrete east of Fairmont, seven miles of concrete in Freeborn county beginning at the west county line and three miles in Fillmore county from Spring Valley east. Spring Valley also will have half a mile of paving in the village on No. 63. Nine miles of gravel lift will be placed on No. 16 between Wykoff and Fountain.

Among other important projects included in the program are the following:

On U. S. 75—sixteen miles of gravel lift between Wheaton and the south line of Traverse county; seven miles of concrete paving between Breckenridge and Doran; eleven miles of concrete paving from five miles south of Moorhead to five miles north of Hendrum, with a mile of concrete in Ada on U. S. 75 and No. 31; a gravel lift for 20 miles between Hallock and the north state line, with a mile of concrete in Hallock, Crookston will have nearly half a mile of concrete on the streets used by No. 2.

Senate Approves New Crookston Postmaster

President Roosevelt's nomination of Bernhard (Bert) Levins as Crookston postmaster was confirmed Friday by the United States senate according to dispatches from Washington.

No indication of the time when Mr. Levins will assume the postoffice position has been received here, but it is expected that it will be another 30 days for arrangement of other details preliminary to his installation as postmaster.

Mr. Levins will succeed N. A. Thorson as postmaster. Mr. Thorson has served in that capacity for 12 years, receiving his appointment during the administration of President Harding.

TURKEY FARM TO HAVE 4,000 BIRDS

Preston—The Rex Turkey farm at Carimona, operated by the Spies Milling company of Preston and Melvin Benson of Lanesboro, and under the supervision of I. W. Smith of Preston, now boasts 1,900 birds. A number of the turkeys weigh nine pounds, in spite of the fact that they are only eleven weeks old, and promise to be "some birds" by Thanksgiving. In the near future 2,000 more turkeys, which Mr. Benson has almost far enough along to let out, will be placed on the farm, increasing the total population to almost 4,000. It may seem a little early, but some one has got to remember that Thanksgiving comes every year!

Bell's First Telephone
Few people who looked at the first feeble little telephone in 1876 could foresee that it would grow into a nation-wide communication system that would be used millions of times every day. Those who did, formed an organization to "bring up" the baby telephone. That organization is the Bell System.
In this System, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and 24 Associated Companies, such as the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, are the operating units. Each of the Associated Companies serves a part of the United States.
The American Company, parent company of the System, coordinates their activities and operates the long distance lines that join the facilities of these companies to form a nation-wide network. The Bell Telephone Laboratories develop high-grade standardized equipment and the Western Electric Company manufactures it.
For more than 50 years, these various parts of the Bell System have been working together to make telephone service better and better. Today service is more dependable and extensive than ever before.

$5,000,000 WORTH OF WPA PROJECTS SENT TO CAPITAL

Many Projects Have Already Been Approved, Victor Christgau Says

More than $5,000,000 worth of projects have been approved and sent to Washington for acceptance and allocation of funds by the allotment board, according to Victor Christgau, Works Progress Administrator for Minnesota. To date, of the first group of 61 projects offered, totaling $2,121,207.27, of which the federal share is $1,761,772.32, $1,804,100 has been approved by Washington. The second group of 98 projects amounts to $2,919,267.27, of which the federal share is $2,591,899.56 and the sponsors' share is $327,367.71.

Approval of these projects does not necessarily mean that work will be started on them at once. Projects will be started as soon as possible in communities where the relief load is heavy and where public works will not interfere with harvest or other private activities. This procedure will give Minnesota a reservior of works to draw upon as relief loads increase in certain communities.

At a meeting of the county commissioners of 27 counties in St. Paul, Tuesday, July 30, Mr. Christgau reiterated the statement that all counties were eligible for WPA funds, whether or not they intended to cooperate with the State Emergency Relief Administration program. He urged the local authorities in all counties to submit their projects immediately so that they may be approved and federal funds allocated within the very near future.

Organization of the administrative staff is continuing rapidly, and announcemet was made this week of the appoitment of F. B. Andreen, prominent Minnesota educator, as director of education. His duties will be to coordinate the educational and recreational features of the Works Progress Administration program in Minnesota.

Oil Tank Cars Burn in Wreck Near Warroad

Inspectors explored the ruins of a Canadian National freight train fire, which had left burning oil still a menace, after Friday's derailment near Warroad upon which nearly 20 box cars were set ablaze.

Flames attracting nearly 6,000 spectators, who could see a smoke cloud from burning oil for 60 miles, caused more than $200,000 damage and destroyed oil, coal and box cars loaded with merchandise.

The fast freight, No. 406, running between Rainy River and Winnipeg, jumped the track late yesterday at Swift, six miles southeast of Warroad. Almost immediately three tank cars containing 28,000 gallons of oil burst into flame. Five more oil cars caught fire, which spread to three cars of hard coal and several box cars.

MEMORY EXPERT FORGETS, DRIVES BACK 100 MILES

Granite Falls.—Paul Sheak, representing a national farm magazine and employed by the Granite Falls business men to stage an entertainment in that city soon, is a memory expert. He is so listed in his advance advertising, and during the entertainment he imparts certain procedure which, if followed, will do away entirely with forgetfulness. Mr. Sheak was in the newspaper offices in Granite Falls recently, offering material for advance publicity. In the afternoon he drove back 100 miles to the same office. He had forgotten his book of recommendations.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT! SNAKE AT ALBERT LEA SWALLOWS OWN BODY

Albert Lea.—One of the strangest freaks in natural history was reported by Henry Wharton, farmer and former veterinarian living near Albert Lea. Noticing a movement in the grass while driving his cows home, Wharton investigated to find a large garter snake which had swallowed a good part of its tail. The body, he noticed, had a peculiar shape, and he decided to operate. Upon cutting the snake open, he found inside the entire body of a smaller snake, which had swallowed almost a foot of the larger one's tail. Wharton advanced the theory that the snakes were in a death struggle, and that snake No. 1, the smaller snake, had obtained the first advantage by swallowing the tail of his larger opponent. He apparently found that he had taken too big a chew, however, and from there on the struggle was reversed. Snake No. 2 took the advantage and completely swallowed the smaller snake. But in the swallowing he unfortunately had to swallow a part of his own body, which was inside the smaller snake, and which his opponent had tenaciously refused to let go! All of which caused the larger snake to end up by having swallowed a part of himself, which left him no where else to go except in a circle.

Dairy Farmers Will be Helped by Government Buying Dairy Products

Dairy farmers of Pennington county will be aided substantially by the plans of the Government to purchase approximately one million pounds of dry skim milk, says County Agent R. M. Douglass.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has asked for bids on these commodities which will be turned over to the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation for distribution to needy families. The buying will be done under the direction of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The AAA's decision to resume buying dairy products is a direct result of the increased production of milk this spring, which in turn is an outgrowth of improved pasture conditions. Milk production on June 1 this year was four per cent greater than on the same date a year ago, in spite of the fact that the number of milk cows on farms this year is about five per cent fewer than last year.

Previous purchases of dairy products by the federal government for distribution to the needy and improvement of market prices have totaled 67,748,225 pounds of butter and 17,803,224 pounds of cheese.

BORROWS TRACTOR, 50 GALLONS OF GAS

Ortonville.—The Monk brothers, farmers near Ortonville, wouldn't have minded some truck driver borrowing their tractor to pull his machine out of the ditch, but when he also "borrowed" 50 gallons of gasoline it wasn't such a swell idea. Returning to their home on a Sunday, the brothers discovered tractor tracks leading out to the road, and investigation revealed that apparently a large transportation truck had gone off the road, and the driver had borrowed their tractor to pull himself out. Evidently out of fuel, as evidenced by gas soaked ground on the roadside when the truck had apparently spilled its contents the party had returned to the barn and stolen 50 gallons of gasoline stored there. No trace of the thief has been discovered.

SEPT. 30 OPENING DAY OF NORTHWEST SCHOOL FALL TERM

Term to Last Six Months Period From October Until End of March

The Northwest School of Agriculture, which first opened its doors in 1906, will welcome its 30th freshman class on registration day, September 30. During this 30-year period over 1100 young men and women have graduated from the regular courses while over 4000 students have been in attendance one or more years.

As emphasized during the recent 40th anniversary station celebration by T. A. Hoverstad, superintendent 1895-1905; C. G. Selvig, superintendent, 1910-1927; and former Senator A. D. Stephens, who has been a lifelong friend and supporter of the school and station, the institution has exerted a profound influence on the agricultural development of the Red River Valley. Part of this influence has been brought about by the students who received practical training in agriculture and home economics and who are now located in every township of northwestern Minnesota. Untold value also has resulted from the work of the experiment station where new varieties of rust and wilt-resistant grains and earlier maturing varieties have been developed and extensive feeding trials carried on with livestock and poultry.

The six months school year, from early October through March, has been found to be the most convenient time for farm boys and girls to be in school. This leaves them available for work on the farm and in the homes throughout the crop growing season.

Those who have completed the regular three year course and who wish to continue their education may return for a fourth or preparatory year. Following this they are eligible to enter any of the colleges or universities in the state.

Students who are interested in the work of the school are invited to write Superintendent A. A. Dowell for further information.

COUNCIL WILL ACT FRIDAY ON JOB PROJECTS

Aims to Carry Out Projects Under New Works Progress Setup

WILL LOWER WATER ABOVE DAM 2 FEET

Purpose Is to Permit Dredging for River Bank Project

Following a conference with S. F. Sharpless of the district Works Progress administration office in this city, in which he suggested the advisability of the city submitting projects to be carried out with federal funds as a means of relieving the unemployment situation, the city council Tuesday evening agreed to meet again Friday to submit a group of proposals.

In the meantime prospective projects will be outlined by a committee including members of the council and park board and officers of the Civic and Commerce association. Among the suggestions made Tuesday evening were sidewalk construction, work in the city parks, cleaning up the block including the Auditorium, and construction of a road across the Horseshoe.

Much time was devoted at the meeting to consideration of a request from Contractor Harry Lund that the water level in the pool above the dam be lowered approximately two feet for a period of ten days to permit dredging along the river banks on the east side necessary in connection with the river bank beautification project sponsored by the state highway department.

Favorable action on the request was taken after W. H. Quist, who Tuesday made a trip to Red lake and Highlanding at the request of Mayor Frank Rinkel, reported that there was a fair flow of water thru the dam at the outlet, about 45 cubic feet of water a second leaving the lake. He estimated that the water level in the lake was six to eight inches higher than a year ago, altho others present at the meeting questioned this statement.

Supt. Ole Legvold reported that the head of water at the dam in this city is now at the 13.2 foot mark, while the low point last year was 9.55 feet. The action taken permits lowering of the level in the pool to the 11 foot mark for not to exceed ten days, Mr. Lund indicated that the work would get under way at once.

The council granted a request presented by Dr. A. E. Jacobson, president of the park board, to use park funds to hire four or five men for a week to do necessary work in the city parks, it being agreed that men on relief should be given a chance to work out their allotments.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to a consideration of the relief situation in the city, the administration of relief now being in the hands of the city council following the withdrawal of the state ERA August 1. It was agreed that each of the four ward aldermen should be in charge of relief cases in his own ward, and that each recipient of aid will be required to fill out a formal application with City Clerk P. G. Pederson giving all necessary information.

MUNICIPALITIES LEAGUE SPONSORS MEET HERE TODAY

Officials to Discuss Federal Public Works and Relief Problems

The new state and federal program of public works and relief will be explained to municipal and other local officials by official representatives of the various agencies established to administer the program at a series of conferences just scheduled by the League of Minnesota Municipalities. Officials from this section of the state will meet in Thief River Falls this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Officials of municipal, county, township and school district governments are expected to attend. All persons interested in any phase of the work and relief program or any project eligible under the new program are also urged to be present.

The meeting will be in the nature of an open forum and an opportunity will be given any one in attendance to inquire as to the various steps in carrying out the program. It is also anticipated that an opportunity will be given to discuss individual projects and to consider specific plans for participation in the state and or federal aids.

Plans for the conferences have been approved by William N. Carey, acting state administrator of P. W. A., and Victor Christgau, state director of W. P. A. These departments will be officially represented.

Returns From Europe

RASMUS OEN

Who returned Tuesday from a six week's tour of Europe, his first ocean journey since coming to this country from Norway 55 years ago.

RASMUS OEN BACK FROM SIX WEEKS TOUR OF EUROPE

Finds Business Conditions There Similar to This Country

Returning Tuesday from a six weeks European tour, his first trip abroad since leaving Norway 55 years ago, Rasmus Oen, pioneer local merchant, said he had a wonderful time but that he was "mighty glad to be back home." He was accompanied on the journey by his son Robert.

Sailing from New York in July on the new liner Normandie, they reached Havre, France, in five days. After visiting historic spots in Paris, Alsace-Lorraine and Berlin, they went to Malmo, Sweden, and from there to Oslo, Norway, spending three weeks in that country where Mr. Oen has a brother and four sisters. On their way home they visited in Scotland, England and Ireland, making the return ocean trip on a smaller boat in nine days.

Mr. Oen said that from what he observed business conditions in the European countries appear to be about the same as in the United States, adding that many people were on relief. He said that in Norway few well-to-do families own automobiles, bicycles being the chief mode of transportation.

ATTENDANCE AT FAIR REACHES NEW HIGH MARK

Secretary R. J. Lund Says 44,000 Persons Saw Annual Event

RALPH HUNT WINNER OF FREE FORD COACH

Total Receipts Approximately $1,000 More Than a Year Ago

Favored by four days of nearly ideal weather, the annual Pennington county fair came to a close last Friday night after smashing all former attendance records in the 34-year history of the event.

Secretary Robert J. Lund of the fair board announced this week that as nearly as can be determined, fully 44,000 persons passed thru the gates while the fair was in progress, compared to an estimated attendance of 40,000 last year, the previous high mark. Total receipts, he said, are almost $1,000 more than a year ago, while expenses also are slightly higher.

The number of entries in the various departments, Mr. Lund stated, was equal to the mark set last year, while premiums were slightly more in the aggregate. Most of the premium checks were ready for distribution on the closing day of the fair, and those which were not called for at that time will be sent out earlier than in the past.

Mr. Lund expressed the fair board's appreciation of the cooperation of local merchants who gave prize tickets, pointing out that the distribution of tickets was considerably wider than in recent years. Ralph Hunt was awarded the Ford coach Friday afternoon in the presence of a packed grandstand, while winners of cash prizes the two preceding days included Paul Lundell, Dr. A. M. Smith, D. M. Conners, Mrs. Barney Davidson, M. Bothun and Sam Hanson.

No less than 2,500 persons crowded the grandstand, bleachers and surrounding area to witness the public wedding, for which Ernie Young's "Round the World Revue" provided the setting, attendants and musical accompaniment. The two participants, whose names had been kept secret up to the time of the ceremony, were revealed as Carl Frederickson, employed in a local store, and Pearl E. Hanson, formerly of the Middle River community. The ceremony was performed in fitting style by Probate Judge Andrew Bottelson, and the young couple were presented with a large number of gifts by local merchants, as well as a cash gift from the sponsors of the fair.

Eating places and other concessions on the fair grounds enjoyed the biggest business in their history in most cases. The only rain that fell during fair week was a hard shower at 3 o'clock Friday morning, coming at a time when it interfered in no way with the scheduled program.

Donkey Baseball Tilt is Set for Wednesday

Farm Club Experts Will Vie with C. & C. Riders at Fair Grounds

The game of donkey baseball will be introduced here next Wednesday August 14, at 6:30 when the players of the Civic and Commerce association and the farm club teams meet on board the donkeys at the fair grounds ball park.

The following local mule tamers and baseball stars have been selected to play:

Civic and Commerce Team—
Paul Lundgren
Haakon M. Olson
A. W. Mickelson
Hal Ekeren
Frank Rinkel
Roy Lambert
John Barzen
Andrew Anderson
W. H. Mann

Farm Club Team—
Owen Weckwerth
Pete Werner
[illegible]
Vernon Copp
Otto Sargen
Lawrence Best
Walter Tendeland
Cal Toomey
Jim McCrum

In addition a large list of reserves will be available.

The following information on the game is offered for the convenience of the folks who will be on hand for the introduction of the comical sport:

A regulation sized diamond is used for donkey baseball and the game is played much like regular baseball. There is one big difference, however, and that is the donkey baseball players must all ride donkeys during the game. That is a big difference.

The pitcher and catcher are the only players that are not mounted, but they are not allowed to move outside of a chalk-marked line extending from the home plate to the pitchers box.

The batter bats from the ground. As soon as they hit a ball they must get on a donkey—or try to—and ride to first base or as far around the diamond as the hit will allow. Sometimes the batter's donkey will not care to go to first base. Again he may decide to get rid of the batter on his back and then is when the batter's riding skill—if he has any—comes in mighty handy.

A runner, mounted on a donkey of course, is safe at a base if the donkey places one foot inside of a circle drawn around the base before the runner is tagged out. All basemen and outfielders are mounted on donkeys and when a ball is hit they must ride to the ball to pick it up. The infielders can throw the ball from the ground but the infielders must get back on their donkeys to tag the ball. There is big excitement sometimes when the fielders are urging their mounts to go to the ball and the batter is battling a long eared outlaw trying to ride to first base.

A baseman does not have to follow the baselines. If a baseman is trying to tag him out the base runner can ride any place he chooses to avoid being touched with the ball and put out. Sometimes an exciting chase ensues with the baseman and pursuing it from riding to various parts of the park while the audience cheers and laughs at the fun.

The Bar X Ranch donkeys which will appear here are trained to do the part of added considerably to the embarrassment of their riders, as anything unexpected may happen. The trainer of the donkeys and the animals seem to realize they are the stars of the performance and are always doing something new to keep the fans laughing.

Seen and Heard at the County Fair Last Week

Following the close of the fair here Ernie Young's "Trip Around the World" revue and Hennies Brothers shows left for Mankato where they appeared at the Blue Earth county fair early this week.

Probate Judge Andrew Bottelson, who officiated at the public wedding Friday evening, said he has performed 17 ceremonies since assuming office, but that there is no question as to which was witnessed by the largest number of people. The audience Friday was estimated to number 2,500 persons.

Unlike at past fairs, some of the horse race prize money stayed at home this year. Harry Lund's horse, Wallace Dillon, won the 2:12 event Friday afternoon, finishing the three heats 4-1-1, the time being 2:15¼. Roy Lambert's horse came in third Thursday afternoon.

Three extra police were on duty to see that the large crowds behaved in orderly fashion. Six drunks were arrested, two men paid $20 in fines for operating a gambling device, and two pickpocket suspects were picked up, later being released for lack of evidence. The police reports of pockets having been picked for a total of approximately $175.

Due to fast work on the part of Secretary Robert J. Lund and his staff of assistants, most of the premium checks were ready for distribution Friday afternoon, the last day of the fair.

The Thief River Falls auxiliary drum corps performed in snappy style in front of the grandstand Thursday afternoon, while that evening the St. Hilaire band presented a brief concert preceding the showing of the revue.

Directors of the North Dakota fair at Grand Forks, as well as of the Norman county fair at Ada and the Marshall county fair at Warren, witnessed the grandstand show Friday evening. S. E. Olson of Ada, a director of the Minnesota state fair board, also was present.

Warren residents responded heartily to an invitation to visit the fair, a delegation of 40 cars filled with residents of the Marshall county seat forming a cavalcade that arrived Friday evening.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES WITH SHOW TRUCK EARLY SATURDAY

Two Carnival Workers Hurt in Accident Near Plummer

Bound for Mankato after the close of the fair in this city, a heavily loaded truck of the Hennies Brothers carnival fleet suffered considerable damage when a steel bridge over which it was passing five miles south of Plummer on Highway 59 collapsed Saturday morning at 5 o'clock, the vehicle dropping a distance of 12 feet.

John Bean, the driver, sustained a broken nose and cuts on his face, while Mrs. Bean was cut on the forehead. They were taken to a local hospital for treatment. A helper, Charleston Winters, also riding in the truck, escaped unhurt.

The gross weight of the truck, which was carrying merry-go-round equipment, was reported to have been about 15,000 pounds. Two lighter trucks had previously passed safely over the bridge, while the remainder of the caravan was rerouted and continued on its way.

"Les Miserables," a motion picture version of the immortal classic of Victor Hugo and acclaimed as one of the best films of the year, will come to the Avalon screen Sunday and Monday. Fredric March is the hero of the fugitive who escapes from prison, and Charles Laughton plays the part of his persistent pursuer. The flavor of coffee comes from an aromatic oil known as caffeol. Scientists can actually determine the flavor of coffee by extracting this oil and weighing it on a scale—and tell you scientifically which brand possesses the most flavor.

The Van Cleve Laboratories, food chemists, recently analyzed seven popular brands of coffee. Nash's Toasted Coffee was found to contain 35.7% more flavor producing oil than the highest of the six other brands—scientific proof of its richer, deeper flavor, a flavor that millions pronounce, "Every Drop Delicious."

Belief in Fairies

The belief in and fear of fairies, the supposed race of small, supernatural beings who meddle in human affairs, has existed from earliest times and formed a part of the superstition of nearly all peoples, says a writer in Collier's Weekly. Even up to a few years ago, many Scottish and Irish peasants raised their hats and said, "God speed you, gentlemen," when seeing an eddy of dust believed to be caused by a crowd of fairies passing by on a journey.

In Memoriam

The sun is sinking, slowly sinking
Twilight once again is near,
All our hearts are longing, longing
Maybelle, our sister, daughter dear
The years are passing, slowly passing
Life leads on through toil and woe
While you slumber on so sweetly
No sorrow, cares, or troubles know.
God's own hand has tolled your numbers
Jesus rang your summons bell
Then the Angels in their glory
Carried one we loved so well.
Rest in heaven, yes in heaven
Slumber long in holy love
And when our lowly prayers are answered
May we be with you there above
Years may come in greater numbers,
Time will press its straining hand
We will forget our cares and troubles
Maybelle our love, you'll always stand.
We pray the one who guards you dearly
In your place of rest so dear
May guide us onward, always onward,
Maybelle our darling, await be there.

In sad memory of our beloved daughter and sister Maybelle Ione, who passed away August 8th, 1932.

ALCOHOL EDUCATION PART OF STUDY COURSE IN SOUTH CAROLINA SCHOOLS

The announcement of the inclusion of alcohol education in South Carolina's general course of study was recently carried in the Columbia (S. C.) State. The statement, as made by James H. Pope, state superintendent of education, was:

"At the time of the elementary adoption last September by the state board of education, 'A Syllabus on Alcohol Education' was approved for inclusion in the new general course of study made necessary by the new adoption.

"For the past two months, or ever since the close of their field work, the state supervisors have been working on courses in character education, alcohol and narcotics education, and safety education, to be included in our new general course of study."

The State editor adds to the announcement the comment:

"For two months 'state supervisors have been working on courses in character education, alcohol and narcotic education and safety education' for use in South Carolina's public schools. A notable and cheering fact.

"And here are courses which might be studied with profit by adults, by adults who have passed through college; by adults who are sincere advocates of 'temperance'; by those who know as well as by those who do not know the meaning of temperance—'temperance in all things.'

"Character building cannot be overestimated."

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

No convention could be more welcome in Thief River Falls than that of the postal workers who this week are holding their state meeting here. The American people are properly proud of the organization that handles its mail, appreciate its efficiency and respect its personnel. We join with other citizens in greeting these visitors to our city and trust that they will enjoy themselves while here.

Now that the approach to the new bridge is nearing completion and the East Side is gaining prestige as a residence section of the city, the next important development along this beautiful boulevard probably will be the establishment of a few passenger car refreshment stands and a tourist cabin camp or two. The proper time to stop such things is before they get started. Right now isn't any too soon to start building up a defense against them.

A new attendance record was established at the Pennington County Fair last week. And besides testifying to the popularity of the fair, the large crowds proved conclusively that the facilities to handle crowds are quite inadequate. Either the fair must go back to its previous status as a one-county show or it must be prepared to provide accommodations as a sectional exposition. More land must be acquired to provide the needed room for automobile parking. And adequate grand stands and bleachers must be erected to provide comfortable seating for those who come to enjoy the entertainment. To go forward or backward is the question.

Two rather unusual baseball games are scheduled for the entertainment of local fans during the coming week. On Saturday evening the regular Thief River team will meet the House of David nine in an exhibition game. From the standpoint of good baseball this should be a game worth seeing. The whiskered boys play nice ball and add enough foolishness to the contest to keep it from growing wearisome. But on Wednesday evening, when the local business men meet the farmers in Donkey baseball, the game is going to be all foolishness. In this case the mules will play the game and the farmers and business men will be the goats. Reports from other towns where this thing has been presented are very favorable. Those who have seen Donkey baseball played tell us it is a show worth seeing.

A DIFFICULT TASK

City officials are now confronted with the difficult task of selecting work relief projects that will meet the requirements of federal regulations and at the same time prove to be of some value to the community. And providing worth while projects that will give employment during the months of severe winter weather is no easy thing to do. The outside work that can be done efficiently in cold weather is limited. And inside jobs that qualify as useful are not easily created.

One suggestion that does seem to have much merit is the proposal that the city should arrange for the moulding of cement squares during the winter months for sidewalk construction during the spring. If there is any one thing we need a lot of in the city it is new sidewalks. In all parts of the city our present walks are in bad condition. A large portion of them should be re-built and if relief labor could be employed efficiently in a program of this kind then this is one project that should be adopted.

Along this same line, another piece of work that could be done to advantage during the cold months would be the manufacture of suitable signs to designate the names of our streets and avenues. To those of us who know our way around, the absence of street markers is not noticeable but strangers have difficulty in finding their way.

A NEW THRILL

J. R. Landy, veteran editor of the Olivia Times and poet laureate of the seventh district, finds a new thrill in his work as Collector of Internal Revenue, an office to which he was recently appointed. In a recent issue of his good paper he confided to his readers as follows:

> The writer, after spending ten days as an employe of the government in the department of Internal Revenue, has been impressed with the magnitude and importance of this department of the government. On our first day in the office the receipts from the various sources amounted to almost a million dollars. Imagine, if you can, the feeling of a country editor at seeing a million dollars come into his office in one day. We remember one occasion some years ago of being paid several thousand dollars on newspaper subscriptions. It happened that more than a thousand subscribers came into the office at the same time and each one placed two silver dollars on our table. We sat there smiling and in ecstacy until the last of the number had made his deposit on the table and then, just as we were in the act of reaching for the money, the slat broke in the bed.

If any of the old pioneers who bucked the prairies in a prairie schooner for days and weeks in search of a new home could hear the Alaskan pioneers complain about their situation they would be inclined to snort. There is a difference it seems between pioneers and colonists. Pioneers expect to find things hard and unpleasant and uncomfortable. Colonists it seems expect the convenience of civilization on the frontier.—Monticello Times.

TOO SLOW, MR. PRESIDENT

(Business Week)

Today, Mr. President, we respond to the invitation you addressed to every American citizen in your radio speech on Apr. 28, when, in discussing the public works program, you said:

"Feel free to criticize. Tell me of instances where work can be done better, or where improper practices prevail. Neither you nor I want criticism conceived in a purely faultfinding or partisan spirit, but I am jealous of the right of every citizen to call to the attention of his or her government examples of how the public money can be more effectively spent for the benefit of the American people."

The effective spending of this money must have engaged your attention at least a few days before you addressed the joint session of the new Congress on Jan. 4 and suggested "a single new and greatly enlarged plan" for giving "employment to all of these 3,500,000 employable people now on relief." Indeed, when you made your radio speech on Apr. 28, you said, "For many months preparations have been under way for undertaking this work." And the fruit of these many months of preparations was indicated in your confident words, "We have every every reason to believe that it should be in full swing by autumn."

Autumn is almost here, Mr. President, and there is as yet no faintest sign that the great work-relief program, to cost $4 billions, will be in full swing when autumn comes. For events have proved that there was no definite plan in your own mind when you came before Congress on Jan. 4 and pronounced your cheering message. There was no definite plan in your mind four months ago, when Congress put $4 billions into your hands and authorized you to do the job in your own way. Since then there have been plans and plans, old plans and new plans, bright improvisations and embarrassing changes of mind; and today there is still no definite and fundamental plan on which your subordinates can rely.

Today there is confusion. Every observer in Washington knows it. The great $4-billion program has produced almost no new employment. The 3,500,000 unemployable persons on federal relief have not been transferred to the local relief agencies, as you confidently predicted 7 months ago. There is a persistent conflict between relief aims and work aims. Government agencies wrangle with each other.

There are not enough projects ready to be undertaken at once. There are workable plans that have been stuck into somebody's pigeonhole and allowed to gather dust, or even been forgotten. There is ineffective teamwork in your three-ply organization. Every plan is stopped completely unless you authorize it. It cannot pass from one of your principal lieutenants to another without your signature. And frequently it does not pass at all, and nobody can discover why.

These are the facts, Mr. President, as observed continually in Washington. The "instances where work can be done better" are in Washington, above all. "Improper practices prevail" in Washington, more than anywhere else. "The public money can be more effectively spent for the benefit of the American people" by improving the methods or unmethodical characteristics that plague your program in Washington. And strict fairness requires the observation, Mr. President, that the central fault is not in your lieutenants, but that these men are bound by conditions beyond their control—but not beyond yours.

WHEN WALKERS LOSE RIGHTS

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Minnesota's Supreme Court has just ruled that culpable negligence on the part of a pedestrian may prevent him from collecting damages from the motorist who hits him. In this particular case, the victim walked around the end of his parked car into the path of the approaching vehicle without looking down the street. No new law is involved in the decision, but it serves to emphasize the fact that traffic safety is a matter which vitally concerns every person using the thoroughfares in walking or driving. Likewise, the decision by inference indicates that the degree of responsibility for accident varies directly with the degree of care displayed by the persons affected whether afoot or awheel. It is to be noted that the reaffirmation of this established principle re-emphasizes and in no way modifies the heavy obligation resting upon motorists. As the operators of speedy conveyances of large relative weight, the presumption is likely to run against them. A decision that a pedestrian may sacrifice his rights under certain conditions tends to strengthen his rights under other conditions. Discourteous drivers who hurry in a speeding line from a block away to intercept a motorist already in the center of an open intersection have something more to think about. Discourtesy is only another form of recklessness and increases legal liability for either the pedestrian or motorists who displays it.

Home Owners' Loan Corporation (HOLC) reports that about forty foreclosures per week are being made against persons who borrowed from the government to "save" their homes. They find it no easier to meet the payments of money borrowed from the government than it was when the loan was carried otherwise. Soon the federal government will find itself the fee owner of properties in great number all over the nation and wondering how to make them pay and what to do with them. Uncle Sam is rapidly getting deep into all branches of the real estate business.—Fairmont Sentinel.

While the weather was at its hottest last week, the Gazette was visited by a man from Kansas who thought the climate was just right. "Down in Kansas we call 95 degrees cool weather in the summer time. Most of the time the temperature is well over 100. Of all the country I've seen, and I have traveled over most of the United States, the climate of northern Minnesota suits me the best and I'd like to live up here." Small wonder Minnesota is so attractive to people of the states to the south of us, when our hot weather seems cool in comparison to their own.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

The people of Montevideo can point to the fact that no other town in the state is so far from one of the ten thousand lakes. This land-locked condition each summer brings expression of the community urge that "something" be done about it. For instance, build a swimming pool. There is comfort, although meager, in learning that even lakeside towns are clamoring for swimming places. The Ortonville Independent makes a fervent plea, with detailed specifications, for bathing facilities for the people of that community.—Montevideo News.

The promptness with which little Finland has met the installments due on its debt to the United States has prompted genuine friendliness for that country in America. The senate showed its gratitude for the latest payment of $166,538, by passing a bill to appropriate $300,000 for the erection of a diplomatic and consular building in Helsingfors.—Northfield News.

Some people object to the conviction of criminals on circumstantial evidence. Well supported circumstantial evidence often brings criminals to justice. Lying "eye witnesses" often help those guilty of crime to escape. Many people have suffered from mistaken identity. Sets of circumstances, in logical sequence, are hard to "juggle."—Willmar Gazette.

Operated by Mouse Power

In the Nineteenth century, a man in Scotland perfected a machine that was operated by mouse power. Running in revolving cages the mice manufactured sewing thread, twisting and reeling 20 feet a day, writes W. T. Hogue, Denton, Texas, in Collier's Weekly. The inventor was building a mill to use 10,000 mice when he died. Apparently he never realized the work involved in putting them in and taking them out of 10,000 cages each day.

DAKOTA MILLERS MAKE IT 2 OUT OF 3 AGAINST LOCALS

Grand Forks Team Wins Third Game of Series Sunday by 8-6 Score

The Dakota Millers last Sunday defeated the Thief River Giants by an 8 to 6 score to take the last two games of a three game series. The Giants won the first game 2 to 1, and the Millers took the second by a 2 to 0 count in an eleven inning struggle. The Millers were leading in last Sunday's game by a 6 to 0 score, when the Giants came to bat at the end of the first inning to bring in two runs and make the game a bit more interesting. The Millers tallied one run in the second inning, when Larson reached first on Nordby's error and came home on Dunn's double to right. They scored one more run in the third, and two in fourth when Westby beat out an infield hit, with Russ Bach getting a pass and Westby scoring on Flan's hit which he beat out Bach scoring on Billow's fly to left.

In the fifth inning Schwarzrock singled to Center and scored on Dunn's second double of the day to left field. Dunn then scored on Bach's infield single. The Giants scored two runs this inning, when H. Thordal, Haugen, Nordby and Helberg all reached first on errors with Thordal and Helberg scoring. The Millers made five errors in the fifth inning. Billows scored again in the sixth, when he reached first on a high infield fly which nobody took and States second scoring on Schwarzrock ground ball to the short stop.

The Giants drove in three runs in the sixth, when Bob Bell, first man up, walked with Carlson singled to left and Helberg reached first on Dunn's error. Bell then scored on a wild pitch and Carlson scored on H. Thordahl's single to center with Helberg scoring on Brevick's single to left. The Millers scored their final run in the seventh inning when Westby singled and scored on singles by Bach and Baumgartner. The Giants final run came in the ninth, Haugen was hit by a pitcher ball and scored on Langlie's third hit of the day to end the game.

The game was a comedy of errors, with a total of twenty including wild throws. Neither team could field the ball with any degree of perfection, the players throwing it away almost every time a play was made. Carlson was receiving end of the battery for the Giants, while Grunningen was still nursing his wrenched back. Langlie was the only local player to hit with any degree of consistency, getting three line singles in his five trips to the plate. Westby and Bach each got three hits to lead the Miller attack.

The Giants will meet the famed House of David day baseball team here next Saturday evening at 6:30 p. m. This promises to be the best game of the season as every baseball fan in the Northwest knows what kind of a ball club the whiskered men will present.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE STOPS FAILURE OF BANKS

Only 19 Insured Banks Are Liquidated in Past 18 Months

Cost-free insurance of $18 billion of deposits in 18 months; virtually stoppage of bank failures; reduced operating expenses and an income of $9 million are reflected in the report of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to its insured banks, made public this week.

Only nineteen insured banks have had to be liquidated, the report implying that this is at least partially accounted for by the rigid FDIC examination program coupled with successful efforts to rehabilitate capital structures.

Over 26,000 depositors in the closed insured banks were 99% fully protected and the FDIC estimates that its payments will be conducted with a net loss of only $2,500,000. Total deposits in the banks amounted to $4,068,000.

Estimated operating expenditures for the current year will require $2,500,000, 14-1000 of one per cent of insured deposits, compared with expenses of $2,932,000 in the year just closed and with $2,815,000 for the first ten months of deposit insurance. Drastic reductions in personnel from 2,622 on December 31, 1933, to 955 on June 30, 1934, and to 742 this year are contributing factors in the successive cuts in operating expenses.

FDIC's total income for the year ended June 30, 1935, was $9,057,105. It had cash on deposit with the U. S. Treasury amounting to $17,407,381 and a net of $315,080,000 invested in Government securities on the same date.

Potato Insects Taking Heavy Toll from Fields, Say N. W. School Men

Potato insects are taking a heavy toll from the potato crop this season according to T. M. McCall, horticulturist at the Northwest School and Station, Crookston. Mr. McCall states that unless the potato flea beetle and potato leaf hoppers are controlled at once the leaves on many fields will be dead by August 15th. While potatoes in general have made luxuriant growth this year, the lack of reserve subsoil moisture in most sections make it imperative that the full crop of leaves be kept alive for the setting of the tubers.

In many fields the leaves are riddled with the tiny holes eaten by the flea beetle and some burning is now apparent from punctures of the potato leaf hopers. Insect traps in the Red River Valley are now catching large numbers of leaf hoppers. Insect traps in the Red River Valley are now catching large numbers of leaf hoppers which indicate that a heavy infestation will appear soon.

Bordeaux mixture (either home made or commercially mixed) and other copper spray compounds repel and kill the flea beetle and leaf hopper and give added vigor to the plant. The leaves must remain covered with the spray and even though vines may be damaged slightly by the sprayer wheels, the gain in yield and the prevention of spread of virus diseases through insect control will make the effort required to spray the crop well worth while.

The bordeaux sprays may be applied in either liquid or dust form. The high pressure liquid sprayers and the power dusters uniformly coat and protect both sides of the leaves of the potato plants. Additional information on potato spraying may be secured from the Northwest School and Station or from the county agricultural extension agents.

Strathcona Man Shot From Ambush Wednesday While at Work on Farm

Lawrence Wolfgram of Strathcona, 27 years old, lay critically wounded in a Greenbush hospital Wednesday night, victim of a mysterious shot that pierced his body as he was mowing hay on his farm four miles northwest of Strathcona shortly before noon.

While Sheriff O. A. Rice of Roseau was conducting an investigation of the attack, surgeons removed a 22-calibre rifle bullet from Wolfgram's abdomen. The shot, entering his back just above the right hip, had penetrated his body and lodged in his left side near the outer skin.

The sheriff's investigation revealed that Wolfgram was riding a mower on a hayfield when he was shot by an assailant who was hidde in a thicket of bushes slightly more than 100 feet distant.

Wolfgram then unhitched his team and drove it to a field camp more than 200 yards away before he staggered and fell. Henry Ladd, working in the same field a quarter mile distant, went to help him, discovered his condition and rode horseback to a farm a mile away to call assistance.

CITY CHECK SIGNER BREAKS RIGHT ARM—NO PAY CHECK!

Chisholm—City employees were wondering how they were going to get their pay checks of late, with City Treasurer Frank Paskvan's right arm in a sling with broken bones. Paskvan is the only one authorized to sign checks for the city, and the only official bonded to do so. As a result of a motorboat accident on Lake Leander, his right fist is swathed in bandages and braces, with some broken bones. There have been several helpful hints, such as Paskvan signing checks with a pen held in his teeth, or between his toes, but the city treasurer lays no claim to being a gymnast, nor is he especially ambidextrous. After a few days he was able to make some kind of a scrawl with his bandaged fist, but for a time it looked pretty dark for the pay checks!

MOTHER CAT FEEDS TWO BLACK FOX PUPS

Winnebago City—Confronted with the necessity of raising two black fox pups on bottles or find a better substitute not long ago, Floyd Fagenrud, owner of a fox farm near Winnebago City, tossed the two pups into a pen with a mother cat which had lost two of her three kittens the day before. If the mother cat knew the difference, she was too lady-like to show it and a place was made at the family table for the foxes. The mixed family thrived so much that the foxes outgrew the kittens, and one fox had to be removed. The one which remained is now larger than the mother cat, and apparently has no sense of gratitude to the foster mother or her little yellow kitten. In fact, it hogs the food and keeps the mother cat sitting on top the shelter house most of the time.

Experienced Teachers to Present Courses at Northwest School

Three thoroughly trained and experienced agriculturalists will present the class and laboratory work in horticulture, agronomy, and beekeeping at the Northwest School of Agriculture during the coming year.

T. M. McCall, who joined the school and station staff in 1911, is now rounding out a quarter of a century of service to the students and farmers and townspeople of the Red River Valley. A few years ago Professor McCall returned to the Iowa State College where he was granted a Masters degree. He will present the work in horticulture, forestry, shrubs and flowers, garden vegetables, potatoes, sugar beets, and beekeeping.

For more than a decade R. S. Dunham agronomist and E. R. Clark, pure seed specialist, have had charge of the work in crops and soils. Mr. Dunham is a graduate of the University of Illinois and earned the degree of Master of Science following a year's study at the University of Minnesota. E. R. Clark graduated from the University of Wisconsin and also took his Masters degree at the University of Minnesota. As a result of their long service with the school and station both Professor Dunham and Professor Clark are recognized as authorities in their respective fields.

Students interested in attending this fall should write the Northwest School, Crookston, for further information.

He pointed out that there is a much bigger relief load in Becker county and the south end of the district than in this section. Donald Whitmore, district director, recently stated that the office will employ a staff of approximately 30 persons.

FISH TURNS ON WOMAN INFLICTS CUTS ON TOES

Baudette. A fish which is evidently getting tired of having pesky humans try to snare him with a sharp hook was found in Baudette recently, and this particular fish isn't the kind to take things lying down. In fact, it did a little rough work on its own part. Mrs. Percy Williams sat on the dock at Cozy Camp at Sabaskong Bay, fishing her bare feet hanging in the water below. Along came a big fish which had decided objections to anyone with Mrs. Williams' intentions, and took several bites at her toes, inflicting nasty cuts. The fish, probably a big jackfish, not only bit her toes, but inflicted a cut farther up on the foot. Others laughed at Mrs. Williams when she said she had been bitten by a fish, but changed their minds when they saw the cuts on her foot.

DUCK HUNTING TO BE PERMITTED 30 DAYS NEXT FALL

Hunters Will be Subjected to Drastic Regulations During Season

Thirty days of wild duck shooting from Monday, October 21, to Tuesday, November 19, is in prospect for Minnesota hunters, according to regulations of the U. S. bureau of biological survey adopted last week. Season's regulations are the "most drastic in the history of American wildfowling" including:

Shooting over baited water or land is prohibited.

Use of live decoys at any time or place is banned.

Shooting hours daily will be from 7 a. m. to 4 a. m.

Daily bag limit was reduced from 12 to 10 birds with possession limit of one day's bag.

Three-shell limit placed on automatic and repeating shotguns.

Nation divided into two zones for shooting purposes.

Included in the northern zone are the following states which will have uniform opening and closing dates with Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Montana.

"Although I have held out for an absolute closed season this year, the new regulations are a big improvement over those of the past few years," Erling Swenson, director of the division of game and fish, commented.

"The stopping of the baiting evil, banning of the use of live decoys, continuous shooting each day rather than the staggered seasons of last year, and reduced bag and possession limits are commendable rulings to save our diminishing wild migratory waterfowl. It is hoped that the new regulations will save at least 50 per cent of the increase in wild ducks as planned."

Visitors From World Over Praise Minnesota

Tourists from every state in the Union, from all parts of Canada, and from England, Hawaii, India and China are included in the thousands of visitors to Minnesota who have answered a postcard questionnaire prepared by the state highway department and state tourist bureau. The questionnaire is being used in connection with a census of tourist travel being conducted by the two departments with relief labor.

As visitors enter the state they are handed a state highway map and postcard on which the tourist may supply answers to certain travel questions if he desires.

The replies carry the highest indorsements of Minnesota as a vacation state, and in a great many cases the visitors take particular pains to praise the hospitality and courtesy shown them by Minnesota citizens, according to highway department officials.

They talk about American enterprise and yet nobody has suggested a floating stadium for the naval games.—Greenville (S. C.) Piedmont.

Wind Driven Apparatus for Farm Power Plants Exhibited at State Fair

Eight different methods of producing electricity for the farm through the use of wind-driven apparatus will be featured in the machinery show at the Minnesota State Fair, August 31 to September 7, it was announced today by Lee M. Shell, superintendent.

An entire section of machinery will be devoted to farm electric plants, all of which derive their power from the wind. All of the exhibits will be in actual operation so that visitors will be able to see and obtain first hand information about the newest developments in power. In addition, there will be a number of other types of power-producing units displayed.

The largest windmill ever built will be shown. A wheel 22 feet in diameter will be erected on a 60-foot tower and introduces a new type of roller bearing for the first time.

Of special interest to visitors will be the twine-making display to be installed by one of the nation's leading farm equipment concerns. Every operation in the manufacture of twine will be shown.

Corporate Excess Tax Law Enforcement Hit by State Organization

Hundreds of small business firms as well as large companies will be subjected to a staggering new tax burden if the long obsolete Minnesota corporate excess tax law is resurrected and enforced, officials of the Minnesota Association of Commercial Organizations pointed out in a statement today warning of the perils that await any attempt to apply such a tax in Minnesota.

The organization is composed of commercial clubs and chambers of commerce throughout the state. F. H. Klemer of Faribault is president.

The statement declared that efforts of the tax commission to impose this tax on Minnesota firms not only will force many of the larger companies doing a nationwide business to move out of the state or curtail their activities but will place a confiscatory tax burden upon innumerable smaller firms in all parts of the state.

"The belief has been general that only the larger companies are concerned in the attempts to apply this old law," the statement said. "This is not true. It applies to the smaller companies as well."

CATCHER BREAKS JAW ON FIRST BASEMAN'S HEAD

Mountain Lake—Two kittenball players, with a single purpose, came to grief at Comfrey in a game between teams from Mountain Lake and that village. Fritz Anderson, catching for the Mountain Lake team, went after a foul fly between home plate and first base, as did also Bruce Johnson, first baseman and manager of the team. The two players collided with terrific force just as they were about to catch the ball. Anderson went down, and it took several minutes to revive him. An X-ray examination showed that his jaw was broken in two places. Who named this game called "kitten" ball?

WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION MAKING HEADWAY

$7,500,000 in Projects Are Sent in to Washington for Approval

With the cessation of work relief projects under the SERA, which was due to the reduction in federal funds available in Minnesota for direct relief, the Works Progress Administration is bending every effort to fill the breach with WPA projects, according to Victor Christgau, administrator for Minnesota. To date, 260 projects totaling $7,596,470.56, have been sent to Washington for approval and allocation of funds. Last week projects amounting to $2,555,815.05 were sent to Washington. Of the total, more than $5,000,000 in projects are from the St. Paul district alone.

In order to shift the people from relief to work projects and lighten the relief load, Mr. Christgau urged all communities to prepare their projects rapidly. In meeting this emergency, A. C. Godward, chief engineer, has taken over the engineering staff of the SERA office and its engineers over the state. This force, facing the needs of the hour, will work day and night aiding the communities in the preparation of their projects for speedy approval.

Mr. Christgau voiced the desire to continue and complete all worthy SERA projects in order to put as many people to work as possible. "In case SERA work relief projects are shut down," he said, "they cannot be taken over directly or resumed by the Works Progress Administration until they are re-submitted as such with a regular sponsor and forwarded to the WPA offices. Therefore, all communities with incomplete SERA projects must submit them at once for the approval of the WPA."

The organization of the Works Progress Administration is rapidly taking shape. Nine district directors have been named, the last position to be filled being in the Rochester district, where H. C. Theopold, prominent business and civic leader of Faribault, was appointed.

In view of the great interest with reference to the Works Progress Administration program, Mr. Christgau issued the following statement outlining in detail the situation:

"I have been informed by a representative of Hopkins' office that the reduction in federal funds for direct relief in accordance with the President's announced policy to get out of the business of direct relief just as soon as possible, the program is to reduce the federal allotments further in September and still further in October and to get out of direct relief completely in November.

"It is the intention of the federal government to take care of the employables by providing work projects which will be carried on under the works Progress Administration. The work relief projects carried on under SERA were financed, in a large part, by the federal funds which were given to the state in the form of grants, which funds were used in part for direct relief and in part for the works division program.

"The discontinuation of work on SERA work relief projects resulted from the lack of federal funds. In the past, these state work projects were financed with grants from Washington. The federal government now is interested in getting out of the business of relief and is shifting the works program to the WPA to be carried on in the states by the Works Progress Administration."

HOTEL CLERK HOPES JOB MAY BE PERMANENT YET!

Appleton—Charles Dillon, night clerk at the St. James hotel in Appleton, was promised a steady job some time ago. It may yet turn out to be permanent. For 13 years and two months Dillon has appeared nightly behind the desk without a skip, a hop or a jump. There has not been a vacation, time out for illness, or even a Saturday or Sunday evening off. The hotel guests come and go, but Charley stays on, keeps the furnace going, watches for suspicious characters, views the approach of storms, sweeps out, and plays the fiddle. He recently started on his 4,800th consecutive night's work in the same spot, figuring on a basis of 365 days in the year and a few extra for leap years, with another two months added on. Even considering the uncertainty of the times Charley is beginning to think his job may be permanent yet.

BIG BEE SWARM HOLDS UP TRAFFIC

Red Wing—Another swarm of bees, some 20,000 more or less in number, led by their queen and seeking a new home, found its way into the business section of Red Wing recently. The swarm buzzed down Main street in a cloud and hung awhile in the middle of the street, apparently awaiting for the queen to make up her mind about the itinerary. Meanwhile, cars driving through the "cloud" increased the frenzy of the bees, and drivers were forced to roll up their car windows in a hurry. After awhile the queen decided that downtown was no place for a queen to set up a new palace, so the buzzing horde moved on.

I am Jean Valjean!
I am Javert!

Doomed to a ceaseless flight from a fiend who knows no pity! Why won't he let me alone! Why does he deny me love, peace ... the right to salvage my bitter heart? What have I done?!

For me there is only the law! My heart is closed to all but justice! What is justice? It is not my duty to let emotions rule my decisions. I am Javert!

Red River Valley History

By Wm. F. Weching

We continue in this article Warren Upham's study of geographic nomenclature in Marshall county:

"Marsh Grove township, organized in 1884, formerly had numerous mahshes and poplar groves, now mostly changed to well cultivated farms. Middle River township, the earliest organized in this county, Oct. 14, 1879, and the railway village of this name, in Spruce Valley township, are on the stream so named, which flows through the central and western part of this county, being tributary to the Snake river near its mouth.

"Moose River township, organized in 1904, took the name of its river, flowing into Thief lake. Moylan township, organized in 1902, was named for Patrick Moylan, an Irish settler, who removed to Oregon or Washington. Mud Lake township, organized in 1914, includes the east half of the area of Mud lake, tributary to Thief river, now mainly drained. Nelson Park township, organized in 1884, was named for James Nelson, a Yankee hunter and trapper, who was its earliest homesteader, and for several other settlers named Nelson, 'mmigrants from Sweden and Norway.

"Newfolden township, organized in 1884, and its railway village, received their name from a seaport in northern Norway, on the south branch of the Folden fjord. New Maine township, organized in 1900, was named in compliment to settlers from the state of Maine. New Solum township organized in 1884, is named for a district in Norway. Oak Park township, organized in 1883, has many oaks in its woods bordering the Red river. The name of a discontinued post office of this township, Eckvoll, meaning 'Oak Vale', was transferred, as before noted, to a township in the east part of this county.

"Oslo, the railway village of Oak Park, bears the name of a large medieval city which occupied the site of Christiania, Norway. The old city was mostly burned in 1547 and again in 1624, and the new city was founded and named at the later date by Christian IV, king of Denmark and Norway. Parker township, organized in 1884, was named for George L. Parker, a pioneer settler there, who after several years moved away.

"Radium is a small village of the Soo railway in Comstock township, named for the very wonderful metallic element, radium, discovered in 1902; and Rosewood is another station of the Soo railway, in New Solum. Rollis, organized in 1899, was named for Otto Rollis, formerly of Warren, who became a storekeeper in this township, but later removed to Colorado. Sinnott township, organized in 1883, had two settlers of this name, J. P. Sinnott in section 8 and P. J. Sinnott in section 20.

"Spruce Valley township, organized in 1888, is named for its spruce trees along the Middle river, which are common or abundant throughout northeastern Minnesota but here reach their southwestern limit. Stephen, a village of the Great Northern railway in Tamarac township and close north of Tamarac river, was named in honor of George Stephen, a prominent financial associate of James J. Hill in the building of this railway system. He was born at Dufftown, in Banffshire, Scotland, June 5, 1829; came to Canada in 1850, settling in Montreal, and engaged in dry goods business and manufacturing cloth; was president of the Bank of Montreal, 1876-81, and president of the Canadian Pacific railway company, 1881-87; was knighted by Queen Victoria in 1886; was a founder in 1887, with Sir Donald Smith, of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal; removed to England in 1888, and has since resided in London. In 1891 he received the title of Baron Mount Stephen, referring to a peak of the Rocky mountains named for him during the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway.

"Strandquist, a Soo railway village in Lincoln township, was named in honor of J. E. Strandquist, a merchant there, who was born in Sweden in 1870 and settled in this county in 1892. Tamarac township, organized in 1879, received its name from the Tamarac river, here crossed by the Great Northern railway.

"Thief Lake township, organized in 1896, is named for its large lake, the source of the Thief river. The origin of these names, related by Warren in the 'History of the Ojibways,' is given in the chapter for Pennington county, which has its county seat at Thief River Falls. Valley township, organized in 1900, is crossed by Mud river or creek, tributary to Mud lake by a valley scarcely below the general level. Vega township, organized in 1883, bears the name of the ship in which Baron Nordenskjold, the Swedish explorer, in 1878-9 traversed the Arctic ocean along the north coast of Russia and Siberia, passed through Bering strait to the Pacific, and returned around Asia and through the Suez canal.—Northwestern Feature Service.

SHERIFF NIPS LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM IN BUD

Redwood Falls.—Love's young dream was nipped in the bud by the cold, heartless hand of the law recently when Sheriff George L. Nelson of Murray county stopped a pair of elopers at the request of the girl's parents. The girl was missed from her home, and the sheriff notified. When he found her she was in the company of a South American day laborer who had been working in the vicinity of her home. She was somewhat defiant and insisted that she wanted to go away with her lover. The young man had no visible means of support and was advised that the best thing he could do was to get out of the county and if at the end of a year he was in a position to support a wife he might communicate with the girl and if she still wanted him it might be arranged.

229 Delegates Attend Sessions of Three State Associations

MR. AND MRS. PROTZ NAMED DELEGATES

Gathering of 325 Present at Banquet in Trinity Lutheran Church

The highly successful tenth annual convention of Minnesota postal workers ended in this city Saturday following a two-day session. A total of 229 delegates from thruout the state were registered, according to T. S. Brekke, chairman of the registration committee.

The convention opened Thursday evening with an informal get-together and Dutch lunch in the Sons of Norway hall. Kern Olson led the gathering in community singing, and Dr. C. M. Haug presented feats of magic, followed by dancing.

Friday was devoted largely to business sessions, the day ending with an attractively appointed banquet served in the evening to 325 guests in the Trinity church basement by members of the ladies aid. Clarence Knudsen, chairman of the banquet committee, was in charge of arrangements.

Representatives of the various organizations spoke briefly at the banquet, the principal address being given by William J. Dixon of Washington, superintendent of the division of postmasters. He took occasion to praise the clerks and carriers as the backbone of the postal service. W. E. Dahlquist officiated as toastmaster.

Seventy members of the three auxiliary units attended a bridge luncheon Saturday noon at the Evelyn hotel, and enjoyed a brief program including a piano solo by Ruby Anderson Stone, tap dancing by Helen June Warner accompanied by Alice Protz; and songs by a trio consisting of Justus Larson, Gordon Overland and Alv Vistaunet. Four prizes were awarded in the bridge game that followed.

Large gatherings of delegates attended dances in the Auditorium Friday and Saturday evenings, and also witnessed the cornerstone unveiling ceremonies Saturday afternoon.

Officers elected by the Minnesota State Association of Letter Carriers are W. C. Cleary of St. Paul, president; W. W. Simonds of Mankato, vice president; Arthur S. Stromwall of Hibbing, secretary; and Owen Johnson of Albert Lea, treasurer. H. B. Haug of Duluth was named on the executive board. Fred F. CITY TO OFFER ENGINE BONDS TO THE PUBLIC

Tentative Plans Made to Dispose of $60,000 Issue Locally

$10,870 IN BUILDING PERMITS APPROVED

Council Awards Contracts for Extensive Repairs to Fire Hall

The $60,000 city bond issue recently authorized by the voters to finance the purchase of an additional Diesel unit for the municipal power plant will be offered to local investors on a four per cent basis, according to tentative plans made at a meeting of the city council Tuesday. The bonds will mature serially in from three to twelve years, and those interested in buying them may make application to City Clerk P. G. Pederson.

At the same meeting building permits in the aggregate amount of $10,870 were approved, this total including the construction of three new residences on the east side. Those receiving permits included A. F. Holzknecht for a residence and attached garage, $2,000; Clare O'Hara, residence and garage, $2,000; Harry Lund, residence, $3,000; and Dr. H. B. Newell, rebuilding residence, $2,000.

Other permits were granted to A. Gunderson for residence alterations, $300; N. C. Lindberg, garage addition, $50; Mrs. Carrie Nyberg, improvements to residence, $90; Olaf Solheim, remodeling residence, $650; O. C. Peterson, repairs to Model Creamery, $600; and Hansine Halseth, garage, $120.

Albert Larson, the lowest of two bidders, was awarded the contract to remodel the city fire hall on his bid of $3,385. Ed Lee was awarded the heating plant contract on his bid of $382 and the plumbing contract on his bid of $195, while the bid of Lloyd Alnes on the electric wiring also was accepted in the amount of $180, making the total cost of the improvement $4,148.75.

After discussing the proposed enclosed skating rink, it was decided to take no action on the appointment of an architect to prepare detailed plans until word has been received from Washington as to whether or not the project has a chance of being approved.

The council authorized Alderman Carl Christofferson to represent the body at a meeting in Mankato Wednesday called to discuss the relief situation in such counties as did not sign contracts with the state emergency relief administration. Mr. Christofferson also was designated to represent the county board at the meeting.

Cornerstone of P. O. is Unveiled Saturday

Large Gathering Hears Address by Washington Official

In the presence of a large gathering of local citizens and delegates to the joint postal workers' convention in this city, the cornerstone of the new federal postoffice building under construction here was unveiled in formal exercises Saturday afternoon, a feature of the program being the dedicatory address delivered by William J. Dixon of Washington, D. C., superintendent of the division of postmasters.

Introduced by Postmaster Andrew Anderson, who presided as chairman, Mr. Dixon said, in part, "It is a real pleasure and an honor to be able to participate with you citizens of Thief River Falls and those attending the joint postal convention in the laying of the cornerstone for your new federal building.

"The Public Works administration allotted $47,000 for this building on December 7, 1933, which amount was later increased by $4,486, making a total of $51,486 available. The site was acquired in January, 1933, at a cost of $8,250, and A. F. and Ray R. Gauger were selected as the architects. Bids for construction were opened February 11, 1935, and the contract was awarded by the treasury department on April 18 to the Carl G. Steen company of Grand Forks. The building is to be a one-story and basement structure of modernistic style architecture, of brick and stone trim. It will face 78 feet on LaBree av. and 65 feet on Second st.

"Your postoffice here has the distinction of having had two different names and having been located in three counties. It was established under the name Rockstad on August 23, 1881, and on March 27, 1891, the name was changed to Thief River Falls. It has been successively located in Polk, Red Lake and Pennington counties. Charles A. Johnson served as your first postmaster and you have had 14 postmasters since the office was established. Rural delivery service was established here September 17, 1906, and city delivery service on June 15, 1911.

"There will come a time, and I hope it is not too far in the future, when we shall see this building inadequate to meet the postal needs of your community. We hope this structure will be a source will be a source of pride to all of you, and I am expressing the wishes of the officials of the postoffice department in Washington that it will be another monument of progress in your community."

The program opened with selections by the municipal band, following which Rev. E. A. Cooke delivered the invocation. Mayor Frank Rinkel, the first speaker, declared that the new building marked the attainment of a goal that has been in the minds of local residents for the past thirty years, and that it serves to carry out plans made for the establishment of a civic center.

Gorman Thompson, president of the Junior Civic and Commerce association which had arranged the program for the occasion, pledged the cooperation of his group in any movement looking to the welfare of the community. The Land O'Lakes quartet sang a group of selections, after which Paul Lundgren, secretary of the Civic and Commerce association, told of his organization's efforts to secure a new federal building, and expressed appreciation to the postoffice department in behalf of the business and professional men of the community.

R. O. Norby of the local Boy Scout committee introduced three Scouts who had been selected to journey to Washington for the national Boy Scout Jamboree, and the trio, including Gordon Neset, Jack Booren and Gordon Holte recited the Scout oath.

Declaring that the new structure promises to be one of which the community may be proud, Senator E. L. Tungseth, who gave the unveiling address, drew an analogy between the cornerstone and foundation of the building and that of a man's life and character, and also compared it to the bulwark supplied by the federal constitution.

Postmaster Anderson then unveiled the cornerstone, which was shown to bear the names of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., secretary of the treasury; James A. Farley, postmaster general; Louis A. Simon, supervising architect; Neal A. Melick, supervising engineer; A. F. and Ray R. Gauger, architects; and the date, 1935.

The program closed with the benediction by Rev. H. L. Sjogren and a selection by the band. In the course of the exercises Mr. Anderson also read a letter from R. T. Buckler of Crookston, Ninth district congressman, expressing his regret at being unable to be present and congratulating the community on its acquisition of the new building.

HARRY FOWLER SHORTAGE NOW FIXED AT $13,755

Former Auditor Jailed Sunday; Release is Expected Today

STATE COMPTROLLER REPORTS ON AUDIT

Charges Taking Funds From Attached Rents, Tax Certificate Sales

H. L. Fowler, former county auditor, who recently resigned from office following discovery of a shortage in his accounts, is expected to be released from the county jail on $3,000 bonds supplied by a group of local men today. He was arrested Sunday morning following his return from the West Coast with his family.

Arrested on warrants charging specifically the unlawful issuance of an interest warrant in the amount of approximately $80, and charging the embezzlement of $273.01 realized from tax certificate sales, Mr. Fowler will be called on to face additional charges, County Attorney H. O. Berve indicated this week. Brought before District Judge M. A. Brattland for a preliminary hearing Tuesday noon, the accused man waived a preliminary examination and bonds were set at $3,000.

County Attorney Berve Tuesday received from Edward J. Pearlove, state comptroller, a report on the recently completed audit of the county auditor's records in which the total shortage is fixed at $13,755.79 instead of the amount of approximately $1,800 originally discovered.

Comptroller Pearlove's report reveals shortages of $8,499.65 in attached rents on tax-delinquent properties; $3,419.02 realized from tax certificates; $1,487.50 covering a duplicate warrant; and $349.62 representing interest on the warrant.

The trial of Mr. Fowler is scheduled for the October term of Pennington county district court.

Janitors and Bus Drivers Appointed; Times Named Official Paper

Three new teachers were appointed and janitors and bus drivers were designated for the coming year at the August meeting of the board of education Monday evening. The new faculty members make a total of nine changes since last spring, including the position of assistant kindergarten teacher, the only one remaining unfilled.

Following acceptance of the resignation of Miss Grace Craik as third grade teacher in Washington school, Miss Viola Bredeson of this city was appointed to fill the vacancy. She is a graduate of the advanced course at Bemidji state teacher's college and taught three years at Brooks.

Gabriel S. Hauge of Hawley was named to succeed Arnold E. Carlson, whose resignation also was accepted. Mr. Hauge who will teach English IV, public speaking and debate, is a graduate of Concordia college. While a student there he served on the debate team four years, and won fourth place among 73 contestants in the national oratorical contest at Lexington, Kentucky, in 1934.

Miss Rosine Dahlen of this city was appointed to succeed Miss Ruth Fletcher, whose resignation as home economics and general science teacher was accepted earlier in the month. Miss Dahlen was graduated from North Dakota agricultural college in 1934 and taught the past year in Hinsdale, Montana, attending this year the summer session of the University of Montana at Missoula.

Janitors reappointed include Anton Carlson, Central school; Otto Geske, Knox; Peter Sater, Northrop; and Obert Lindland, August Hortland and Werner Rasmussen, Lincoln-Washington. Bus drivers named were Albert Poppenhagen, Route 1; George M. Gunderson, Routes 2 and 3; J. H. Sande, Route 4; and Neary Louse, Route 5. At the same time the board voted to call for bids on a second school bus, the bids to be opened Friday evening, August 23.

The Times was designated official paper of the district on its bid of 15 cents per folio for the first insertion and ten cents a folio for subsequent insertions. The Forum bid was 30 cents per folio and ten cents a folio additional for tabular matter and 15 cents a folio for subsequent insertions. The Union State bank and Northern State bank were designated as official depositories for school district funds.

William J. Douville appeared before the board to protest the appointment to the board of Mrs. Frances H. Larsen, contending that someone other than the two tying candidates in the recent election should have been appointed. No action was taken on the protest.

COUNTY SCHOOLS ALLOTTED $9,230 FROM INCOME TAX

To Receive $5 Each for 1,846 Pupils Between Ages of 8 and 16

Pennington county school districts will receive $9,230 in the distribution of $2,020,270 from the income tax school fund in state aid to all school districts in Minnesota, it was announced in St. Paul last Thursday by Dr. John G. Rockwell, state commissioner of education.

Distribution is based on a rate of $5 for every child in the county of compulsory school age, between the ages of 8 and 16. There are 1,846 children of school age in Pennington county.

This is the third distribution to the schools from income tax payments under the 1933 law, which requires each district receiving an allotment to apply it on the retirement of bonded indebtedness, after which the money may be used for current expenses.

Payments to be received by neighboring counties, include Marshall, $15,290; Clearwater, $8,615; Beltrami, $20,125; and Polk, $28,080.

Quarters will be provided for a display room and offices.

BARGAIN SALE OF TAXES OPENS IN COUNTY MONDAY

Numerous Residents Taking Advantage of Discounts Now Offered

Beginning Monday of this week, numerous Pennington county residents are taking advantage of what may be the final opportunity to pay delinquent taxes at bargain rates. Lands delinquent since 1930 and prior years are being offered for redemption and sale at discount figures.

The sale, authorized by the last legislature, will perhaps be the last of its kind to be offered because by the time another legislature meets most of the tax delinquent land will have become the property of the state and there will be no basis for any further bargain sales.

Emphasis is being placed on redemption of property by present owners rather than purchases by non-owners. Purchasers will not be able to acquire title to the lands they buy for a year and the present owners may redeem their property any time during the year. The bargain rates do not apply to taxes delinquent only since 1930 or subsequent years.

COUNCIL SUBMITS LIST OF PROJECTS TO DISTRICT WPA

Asks Inception of Variety of Projects to Create Employment

In an effort to supply employment to local residents under the works progress administration, the city council at an adjourned meeting Friday evening approved a group of projects for submission to the district office of the WPA in this city. If approved by the agency the projects will be financed largely by federal funds.

Included in the proposals were park projects estimated to cost approximately $7,000. Among them are the construction of a wading pool in the new park west of the business district and installation of sidewalks on two sides of the block; erection of a bath house in Tindolph park; additional bracing on the toboggan slide; improvements at the swimming pool; and a concrete tennis court and kittenball diamond on the city-owned block on the east side.

Other suggested projects included the construction of sidewalks and curbing, the building of a road across the mill yard from Bridge st. to the Horseshoe. Before proceeding with the latter project the council street committee was to make preparations to acquire the right-of-way, and to get an estimate of costs from the county engineer.

A request also was made for the establishment in the old Methodist church on the east side of a community service center to provide quarters for various women's projects. The request was made following the appearance before the council of a group of members of the Woman's club.

REFUSES LIQUOR ADS

"Among those present and accounted for" as refusing to accept liquor advertising in his newspaper columns is the editor of the Washington County Post of Cambridge, New York, Charles John Stevenson. To the enquirer, Mr. Stevenson gave the following four reasons for his attitude on this matter:

Opposition to the sale of intoxicants; Unwillingness to advertise anything which will harm the users; Belief that the subscribers would not approve; Conviction that in the long run it is poor business policy.

And to a friend he significantly added the following as a fifth reason: "My son!"

HOME PLANTER'S NOOK

The What, When and How of flowers, lawns, and shrubbery, by L. Sando and L. E. Longley, Division of Horticulture, University Farm, St. Paul.

Pruning Shrubbery

By now, most of our early shrubs have finished blooming or are nearly through. So this is a good time to prune these shrubs to facilitate another season's growth. The reasons for pruning at this time are two-fold (1) To get rid of seed clusters that might develop seed and thus be a drain on the plants; (2) to remove old wood that has outlived its usefulness, so new wood can take its place.

Plants like the lilac (except the Chinese type), philadelphus, ninebark, and many spireas, develop a great deal of seed. Often, as with the lilac, most of the pruning necessary will consist in removing these seed clusters before they develop. Certain early blooming plants that produce attractive fruit should not be pruned now as this would remove much of this fruit. The tatarian honeysuckle is one; others are the silver buffalo berry, and the scarlet elder, as well as all of the viburnums. These should be pruned in the early spring. The same might apply to ninebark as the pods are rather beautiful as they form, becoming at first pink and then brown.

Concerning removal of old wood, the quicker this is done after blooming the more new growth will result. Usually, the best procedure is to thin out a few of the old canes, four years old or older, cutting them at the ground line. Of course, in the case of some shrubs, such as the lilac and honeysuckle, we often build up more or less of a trunk. In these cases our pruning will consist in thinning out a part of the older branches. Sometimes, as with spirea vanhoutte, we may not cut the old cane clear to the ground but rather cut it back to a point where a very vigorous branch has come out, allowing this branch to become the main cane. Plants like flowering almond, flowering plum and Nanking cherry (Prunus tomentosa) produce their bloom on the branches that grew the year before. What is necessary with these is to cut back the whole plant heavily each year so that new strong branches will result. Often it is well to head at least some of these back nearly to the main trunk. Also watch out for sprouts from the roots of these plants. Wild plums are used for stocks for them and the sprouts from the root will soon overgrow and destroy the original plant, so each year cut out all the suckers around the plant.

The pruning of hedges differs somewhat from that of other shrubs. If the hedge is to be left to take its natural shape little pruning is necessary except to head back branches that are over growing and once in a while to thin out some of the very old canes. If the hedge is to be kept close clipped it should be cut back very heavily when planted. Then it should be cut back quite severely the next spring to shape it up. After that one or two prunings a year will usually keep it in shape. The best time for the heaviest pruning will be just after the first heavy growth of early summer is finished.

Much Misinformation Circulating Relative to Canning, Says Report

Women who do home canning should beware of misinformation about canning methods, warns Miss Inez M. Hobart, foods specialist of the home demonstration staff, agricultural extension service, University Farm, St. Paul.

In a letter to County Agent R. M. Douglass, Miss Hobart says much of bad advice, sure to bring disappointment if taken, is poured out upon housewives every day through misguided neighbors, and through radio talks and printed circulars from unreliable sources.

Leaving out the why and wherefores, the following pointers may be relied upon as a safe guide in canning or in sizing up the authenticity of what one hears:

1. The canning of non-acid vegetables and meats should be done with pressure cooker, if at all possible. The water bath method is not recommended. Oven canning should absolutely be avoided for non-acid vegetables and meat.

2. If lack of pressure cooker makes it necessary to use the water bath, be sure to follow very carefully the essential steps in this method, allowing the full time for processing. Have the water really boiling and bubbling vigorously before starting to count processing time. A good thermometer is desirable.

3. The hot pack is the only method recommended for placing products like jam or cans.

4. Use only fresh, sound products for canning and do not allow them to stand around before canning longer than absolutely necessary.

5. When opening canned non-acid vegetables and meats for use, remove the product from the can and boil for 15 minutes in an open vessel before tasting, or heat until the center of the food is at a boiling temperature.

For a more detailed guide in canning, every Minnesota homemaker should have a copy of Special Bulletin 159, on "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables." This is obtainable free from county extension agents, or on written request to the Bulletin Office, University Farm.

COW TRIES TO SWIM LAKE TO REJOIN YOUNG CALF

Browerville.—A cow recently separated from its calf tried to swim across Pelican Lake to get back to its offspring, being rescued when exhausted in the middle of the lake. Dr. T. S. Soine, a resident of the lake, noticed the cow in the middle of the lake, and rowed out to investigate. Nearing the object which they could not identify from the shore, they found it to be a cow, lying on its side nearly exhausted. Putting the anchor rope around her head, they towed the animal back to shore, where she soon revived and was claimed the following day by the owner. It developed that the cow had just been purchased by the present owner and had been separated from a young calf. The cow had traveled for some distance before reaching the lake, and when she was rescued, was going into a direct line toward her former home. The cow had been in the water seven hours, as she had been seen to go in the lake at 8 in the morning and was rescued at 3 in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and Mr. Smith returned here Sunday evening. Miss Audrey remained to accompany her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sitz to Grand Rapids to visit there this week.

Tells Ways to Control Cracking of Tomatoes

Having fruits crack open in the field is one of the troubles that tomato growers can overcome to a large extent, though the causes and cures for this disorder are not yet fully understood, says Dr. T. M. Currence, division of horticulture, University Farm, St. Paul.

Recent investigations by the Ohio and Maryland experiment stations indicate that cracking can be at least partially avoided by not watering tomato plants after ripening begins, harvest ... ripening begins, by harvesting fruits as soon as the color begins to turn, by not pruning the plants, and by shading plants or fruits when practicable.

Irrigation, especially late in the season when the fruits are full-sized, appears to cause them to swell and burst. Picking fruits as soon as they start turning red will help, but will not be desirable when the very highest quality is demanded. Growers who practice staking and pruning of plants can derive most of the benefits of this system from staking without pruning and will have less trouble not only from cracking but also from blossom end rot, Dr. Currence points out.

Age of Rattlesnakes

The common idea that you can tell the age of a rattlesnake by the number of his rattles is a mistake. A rattle is formed every time the snake sheds his skin—which may be one and may be two times a year, depending on the climate.

St. Therese Studio to Re-open

The public will be glad to hear that at the beginning of the school year the Sisters of St. Benedict will again open their music studio. A resident music teacher will be in charge of the class.

Classes will be conducted in piano, violin, cello and harmony. Class piano instruction, in which as many as ten or twelve children are taught at one time will also be offered.

Students are asked to register soon. They may either phone or call at the Studio.

The music studio is a unit of Mount St. Benedict, Conservatory, Crookston. The teachers have the power of carrying pupils through the certificate and diploma stages with recognition towards a degree at the DePaul University, Chicago. During the past two summers, courses have been held at the Mount under the auspices of an artist teacher from the University.

Minnesota Makes Big Gain in 4-H Members

Minnesota not only made a big gain in 4-H club membership in 1934, but it made a bigger gain than any other state. That fact was announced at the annual 4-H club camp in Washington, D. C., when the leaders of the various states got together for a conference, says T. A. Erickson, state leader for Minnesota. The announcement was made by the United States Department of Agriculture. The announcement, says Mr. Erickson, should be a source of satisfaction to county extension agents and local leaders, and should spur them on to still greater efforts, in order that every rural boy and every rural girl may have an opportunity for a 4-H club experience.

The membership of 4-H clubs in the United States is now not far short of 1,000,000. Minnesota has a membership of about 48,000.

FINDER OF $35 CAN KEEP MONEY, GET REWARD

Minnesota Lake—Usually when a matter of over $25 is involved in a lost billfold, the owner would just as soon have the finder return the money and keep the pocketbook, but not so with A. O. Farstad, general superintendent of a road construction crew at Minnesota Lake. Finding his wallet with nearly $36 missing, Farstad reported his loss to the newspaper office, stating that he wanted very much to have the bill-fold returned, but that he "didn't give a hoot" about the money it contained. He stated that he values the billfold as a keepsake, as it was made by a very close friend of his who is ill. Not only may the finder keep the money it contained, but he will receive a liberal reward for the return of the empty billfold, and Farstad states that positively no questions will be asked. The wallet was ... intrinsically valuable. It contained the initials A. O. F. on one side and 100F on the other.

Elsberg Discusses Plans for More Stop Signs on Trunk Roads

Speeding motorists on trunk highways usually can be brought to a complete stop in built-up districts and other danger zones easier than they can be slowed down to a safe gait, it is indicated by experiments conducted by the Minnesota highway department.

Some engineers who have been studying the reactions of drivers to various types of warning signs believe that the future may see much trunk highway traffic brought to a complete stop at the edge of populated districts, and then permitted to proceed at a reasonable speed, says a highway department bulletin.

The department is also considering bringing traffic to a full stop when entering zones where crews are at work on the roads. Failure of drivers to slow down sufficiently when warned to do so has resulted in death and injury to several road workers this season.

"Our experiment shows that if a motorist driving at high speed on the open road slows down 10 miles an hour he has the sensation of going quite slowly, although he still may be making 50 or 60 miles an hour," said N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

"However, if he comes to a complete stop and then starts up again, by the time he reaches 25 or 30 miles an hour he has a sensation of considerable speed.

"Therefore, in several towns where 'slow' signs on trunk routes have failed to stop accidents, we have tried bringing all traffic to a full stop. It then proceeds at a reasonable speed. Our experience indicates that in many cases this method will prove successful where others fail."

Music Courses Will Feature N. W. School Courses This Winter

Three full-time instructors will offer work in music at the Northwest School of Agriculture during the coming year. Miss Katherine Hennig will serve as instructor of voice, Miss Constance Lane, piano, and Miss Grace Warne, violin.

Miss Grace Warne, violin.

The Misses Hennig and Lane have been taking a prominent part in music circles in the Twin Cities during the vacation period. On June 14 they presented, under the direction of Professor Carlyle Scott, chief of the music department, University of Minnesota, the music program in connection with the banquet which featured the 50th anniversary celebration of the establishment of the Central Experiment Station. More recently they presented a recital in the summer session series of programs at the University of Minnesota. Their performances were praised highly by Victor Nilsson, one of the leading music critics of the Northwest.

Miss Warne has been enrolled as a graduate student at the University of Minnesota during the summer session. In addition to the opportunity of taking private lessons under these accomplished musicians, students are encouraged to participate in the school orchestra, glee clubs and choruses while Miss Lane directs the school orchestra. Students interested in attending the Northwest School this fall should write promptly for additional information.

In Memoriam

In memory of Edward A. Stoughton, who passed away one year ago on August 12, 1934.

In memory of a loving husband,
A father kind and dear
Who passed from out this world of pain
And left our lives so drear.

We miss you no less as time passes on, than we did on the day of your going. For absence can never close the door of our hearts, and the lamp of our love for you is still glowing.

Your smile was the sweetest in all the wide world
Your voice the best to recall.
For no one on earth could take your place.

Sadly missed by us all.

Distinguish Between "Growing Pains" and Rheumatic Ailments

When your child persistently complains of "growing pains" be sure rheumatic fever can be ruled out as a cause of the trouble. This is the warning issued in today's weekly bulletin of the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association.

A number of ways to distinguish between the pains which appear to be unimportant and the rheumatic pains which need the immediate attention of the family physician were listed as a part of an interesting exhibit on the history of childhood rheumatism in Minnesota at the recent annual meeting of the association.

Time and location of the pain are methods of determining this difference. "Growing pains", so called, appear soon after going to bed and will be gone in the morning. There is no pain caused by motion. Joint pains are worse on arising and exaggerated on motion, sometimes to the extent that there is difficulty in walking. The pains appear during the day and disappear on getting warm in bed.

Growing pains are usually located in the muscles of the thighs and legs and the child is vague in pointing out the exact site of the trouble while the child with joint pains will point directly to knees or ankles. These pains often appear in the joints of the upper extremities also. Rheumatic pains may also be present only in the muscles.

General health is usually good if only growing pains are present while if there are joint pains, the general health may be poor. Other signs of rheumatic activity will usually be absent in growing pains, while they are common if joint pains are present. The child may have frequent nose bleeds, fever, pallor, abdominal cramps, will appear undernourished or give evidence of heart disease.

There will be no outward sign of trouble in the joints if the child has growing pains, while in joint pains, the joints are often slightly swollen or hot. Family history of juvenile rheumatism is also important. Such history will be uncommon in the child with mere growing pains while it is very common in the child with joint pains.

CANNING PLANT SETS NEW RECORD ON PEAS

Blue Earth—One of the heaviest pea crops in history has made new records in the Blue Earth Canning Co. On the first day of the canning season, the factory packed more than 11,000 cases, or 363,000 cans of peas, to set a new high mark. Previous to that time the record had been 8,000 cases a day. In the first week this year, 70,000 cases were packed, and it is expected that this one canning factory will turn out 300,000 cases alone this year. The factory works on a 20-hour day one shift starting at 6 in the morning and working until noon, to return at 7 p. m. and work until 2 a. m., while the other shift fills in between. The following day the shifts are reversed. The quality of the 1935 peas is considerably above average, with very little of the shriveled peas of 1934 with which to contend.

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

Work now being done to improve the east shore line on both sides of the new bridge is important not only because of what it will add to the view from the highway but also because it serves as an experiment of what can be done on a larger scale if the city should decide later on to beautify the shores of the entire river at this point. And beauty is not the only thing to be considered. The river being the city's water source, the question of sanitation certainly is important. Weed flavor does not add to the popularity of our water as a beverage and if by deepening the channel the quality of our drinking water can be improved then that consideration alone would justify a substantial expenditure. The results of the work now being done should be carefully observed with the view of possible future development on a larger scale by the city.

Only those who have had experience in preparing for a convention can appreciate how good a job was done by the committee that arranged for the postal employees convention held here last week. There wasn't a hitch in the entire procedure. All of the details were taken care of and things moved along just as smoothly as a pint of oil. In bringing this gathering to Thief River Falls and in providing for it as they did, the gang at the post office performed a very worth while service to the community.

In winning first honors in its class at Albert Lea, the drum corps did as well as could be hoped for. You can't be better than best. And if there is such a thing as a law of compensation which provides a just reward for industry and effort and all that sort of thing then it might properly be said that justice has prevailed. Night after night through the hot summer months the organization has practiced. Certainly the recognition they received at the state convention was well deserved.

Donkey baseball proved to be a good natured game after all. While practically all of the players probably got a little sore, no one would accuse them of being soreheads.

A COMMENDABLE MOVE
(Bemidji Sentinel)

State officials are to be commended on their decision to make an immediate check of the drivers licenses now in force in the state and to compel those who have been negligent in the matter to immediately secure the necessary permit.

It is estimated that there are between 50,000 and 60,000 unlicensed drivers in the state. This would indicate considerable disrespect for an important statute.

The department is an important one and while it was made somewhat of a political football at the last session resulting in failure to provide for proper financing the work that it has started and prepared to continue is well worthwhile.

The Duluth Herald in commenting on the situation says:

The drivers' license law is admittedly a great annoyance to thousands of careful drivers, but one of the prices we have to pay for civilization is endurance of small annoyances by the many in order that the few dangerous ones among us may be curbed.

When a law is disregarded as freely as this one is said to be it becomes a not very funny joke, played upon the careful, law-abiding driver. It is such things, not so very great in themselves, but immense in the aggregate, that destroy that trust in the fundamental intelligence and fairness of the government that every democratic nation needs.

Because of this it is welcome news that the sheriff's office will join with the state highway patrol to enforce the drivers' license law and to discourage the flouting of that important statute.

JOHNSON MIGHT HAVE BEEN PRESIDENT
(Morris Tribune)

The sickness of Governor Olson started one of the Old Timers to reminiscing about Governor Johnson the other day and that only his untimely death prevented his certain advancement to the presidency in 1912. It's a story that should be written by those who know for the interest which it holds for every Minnesotan. There was a little boom started for Johnson at the Denver convention of the democratic party, but it started late and Byran already had the leaders pledged to give him one more trial at the presidency. But Johnson was enough in the limelight to have attracted the attention of national leaders, and they interested themselves in gathering groups which would be favorable to his nomination in 1912. There was one such group composed of states nearby to Minnesota, another in the southwest comprising Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas and Texas, another on the Pacific coast and still another in the east including New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. These groups were all quietly and effectively lining up leaders for the nomination of Johnson, when their efforts were frustrated by his untimely death in 1909. If Johnson had been nominated at the next national democratic convention, he undoubtedly would have been elected in 1912, as that was the year in which Theodore Roosevelt bolted the republican party, split the republican vote and elected Wilson. Johnson would thus have been the war president—or perhaps his statesmanship might have been able to avert that calamity so far as this country was concerned.

HELP FOR THE DUCKS
(Grand Rapids Herald Review)

Speculation as to what the duck season will be is all over.

The ducks will get a break this year. This will be particularly true up here as the normal shooting season for local ducks is usually pretty well over by the middle of October. There will be some killing on the northern flight, but that all depends upon conditions and whether or not there is a flight.

The duck hunter will no longer be an early bird and there will be no more paddling through the rice beds after dark.

The question was whether there should be what we may now expect or a completely closed season. Which would be best is still a matter of opinion and always will be.

MORATORIUM LAWS
(Long Prairie Leader)

Moratorium legislation to aid debtors has not worked out as intended. These laws have postponed or prevented foreclosures and collections in some cases but in the great majority of cases the "protection" has not been needed or wanted.

The evidence of this is the comparatively small number who sought to use the moratorium laws to delay payments. There are thousands of mortgagors who have made no effort to use the law to each one who has. The effect, however, of the presence of the law, has been to wreck credit and interfere with the orderly conduct of business, thus injuring everybody whether farmer or business man.

A Little Sauk farmer in the office Monday called this to our attention. "In ordinary times I occasionally have loaned a little something or other to neighbors. Not a great deal because my savings are not large, but I usually have one or two and maybe three small mortgages. I have hesitated, though, the past couple of years to lend anything because you never can tell what new law is likely to wipe out the investment or at least involve it in unnecessary loss," he said.

Foreclosures are rare as a usual thing and in proportion to loans made by all agencies are trifling in number. Moratorium laws put the accent on the wrong thing. What is needed in the revival of business is to promote the use of credit—not scare it away and make it unduly hard to get. Eight or ten years hence when we look back at this crazy period through which we are now passing to study what it was all about and why it continued so much longer than was necessary, we will see more clearly than we now do how some of our efforts to meet the situation and aid in recovery did more harm than good.

COOPERATION AND INDIVIDUALISM
(Montevideo News)

Much is heard about the Scandinavian countries as lands where well-being is said to prevail because they have the true co-operative commonwealth. Other testimony does not emphasize social legislation only.

Waldemar Ager, editor of "Reform", returns to his home in Wisconsin from a trip to Norway reporting there are several factors to be considered. As quoted, he puts more stress on individual recovery and (if the word may be used) ruggedness, than he does on socialized commonwealth measures. People in Norway told Mr. Ager that they "believe Americans will discover that there isn't any substitute for the old truth that each individual must work for his own salvation, that Grover Cleveland was right when he said that it is the duty of the individual to support the state and not the duty of the state to support the individual."

To illustrate this belief he tells of a community that has knitted its way out of the depression. The special product of that community is woolen mittens for sports wear. It is said that everybody there knits—young and old, men and women, boys and girls. "They knit as they walk down the streets, they knit at lectures, they even knit at church." As a result, says the Wisconsin editor, "they are the most solvent community in the entire country". He thinks they offer an object-lesson in selfreliance.

WAY UP IN THE CLOUDS
(Rock County Herald)

The action of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration in abruptly cancelling all federal allotments for work-relief projects in Minnesota, throwing out of work 60,000 persons on SERA jobs, gives a striking illustration of the sad muddle into which the federal relief program has drifted. Plans are announced and abandoned, orders are issued and rescinded, and no one apparently knows anything about when, where or how anything is to be done.

Just what position the order closing down all SERA work-relief projects leaves the state nobody seems to know, nor can definite information be obtained from federal regional directors. It is intimated that the action is a move to force communities to submit projects under the new WPA set-up, as many communities have failed to do. On the other hand, WPA is not ready to function, and will not be, according to reports, for some time.

CANADIAN LARD
(The Republic Bulletin)

With all the talk about increasing our foreign trade to help the farmers, on the one hand, and the decrease of production in America with an increase of the cost of production tending to curtail our farm exports, on the other hand, the most significant fact now is that the AAA program of farm scarcity seems to be working faster than the big foreign trade idea. The result of the program of costliness and scarcity has been to take former alien markets for agricultural produce away from us and to encourage the importation of foreign farm produce to the United States.

Imports of grains, meat products and other farm produce have been jumping by leaps and bounds during the past few months, due to our own shortage and the fact costs are so high here and so low abroad that the aliens can scale our tariff walls and still come in. The proof of the pudding is the eating thereof. In the first quarter of 1935 the increase in our importation of general farm products over the similar period of 1931 is disconcerting to say the least.

For example: The United States Chamber of Commerce figures show that our importation of farm commodities for the first three months of 1935 amounted to $196,000,000. This was the heaviest in a long time. It certainly is going to be difficult to find foreign markets for our farm goods when the alien producers can pay our tariff and then undersell us in our own market.

Take the case of lard for instance. According to the Labor Digest, an American labor paper which believes in protecting the job and living standard of the working man in the United States, packers in Chicago are killing only one-fifth as many hogs as a year ago and thousands of workers have been thrown out of jobs.

In addition to this, scarcity and the processing tax have enabled American chain stores and packers to import lard from Canada, paying the tariff duty of three cents a pound and still saving four cents on the American product because of the processing tax. Fine work on the part of the AAA. Unfortunately, Mr. Wallace, or somebody, forgot to levy a processing tax on foreign lard.

Two chain store systems are reported to have imported thirty-one carloads of Canadian lard and one important packer, not in Chicago, is said to have imported thirteen cars. And the fun has only begun.

Of course it is a new collegiate system. American farmers are paid to kill young pigs, and to refrain from raising hogs. The consumer is taxed to pay the farmer. Then the cost of the American product is so high that the big dealers buy Canadian lard and the money goes out of the country. The sum of $196,000,000 which American farmers should have, went out during the first three months of this year.

In the meantime our statesmen are negotiating to bring in the cheap produce of other nations and sell them our farm product—at a time when some are already selling us their farm produce. Maybe a little time could be profitably spent making a sensible survey of the situation and looking after our tariff.

One of the questions that will not stay down is that dealing with importation of farm products into this country, in greater amount than before, while American farmers follow an official policy of reduced production. It is a contradiction not easily explained. Figures from the federal Department of Commerce in Washington show an increase in farm imports this year over last year. They were $89,000,000 for the three months ending with March, and that was 22 per cent higher than for the same period in 1934.—Montevideo News.

North Dakota Farmers Favor Sales Tax Plan, Taxpayers Group Says

Approval of the two per cent sales tax in the special referendum election in North Dakota through support given by the farming communities should prove a lesson to Minnesota political leaders who have been trying to block relief for general property taxpayers, officials of the Minnesota Federation of Associations for Tax Reform pointed out in a communication received here today.

Opponents of the tax replacement program in the recent Minnesota legislature based their fight against the measure partly on the assumption that the farmers were against the sales tax, which was one feature of the program. This contention now has been disposed of by the North Dakota election, Constant Larson of Alexandria, president of the federation, said.

With virtually all precincts complete, opponents of the sales tax in North Dakota have been able to muster only 53,318 votes, while supporters of the measure polled 61,225. Collection of the tax already is under way, and funds obtained will be used to meet school aid and relief costs, thus relieving general property taxpayers of this burden.

"The people of North Dakota rejected the sales tax two years ago," Mr. Larson recalled. "An organized effort was made to defeat the present tax, and it developed considerable support in Fargo and a few other cities, Governor Walter Welford, a farmer and an old Non-Partisan League man, came out actively in support of the tax."

Capitol News Review
By A. I. Harris

A report made public by Elmer A. Benson, state commissioner of banks, indicates an expansion in credit in Minnesota. Figures for nearly 500 banking institutions under the jurisdiction of the state banking division show that loans and discounts of the reporting banks increased from $70,635,868, as of the bank call of December 31, 1934, to $75,464,828, as of the call of June 29, 1935—a total gain of $4,828,960. This rising trend of credit contrasts sharply with the tendency of the similar six-months' period of last year, when loans and discounts of the reporting banks decreased by $8,881,119.

Banking division officials see a hopeful sign in the tendency toward expanding credit—an indication that private business, home and farm financing and the like are now more attractive to bankers, who feel that the economic outlook has improved sufficiently to justify increased credits in these fields.

A decrease of more than $100,000 in the holdings of government bonds by the reporting banks in the first six months of this year as compared to an increase in the same period last year is seen as another indication that private loan fields are becoming more attractive.

The state-wide check-up on drivers' licenses now being made by the state highway patrol is a reminder that the drivers license law is in full force and effect. Every driver must have his license with him whenever he is behind the wheel of a car. It won't keep one out of trouble to have a license at home or in the other suit of clothes. It must be in the possession of the driver on the highway so that it can be shown to any officer who requests to see it. Incidentally, these licenses have proved themselves invaluable as a means of personal identification.

Several years ago the politicians were pointing to the Rural Credits bureau as evidence of government inefficiency in business. Because of poor crops and prices below cost of production, the bureau's situation portended a loss to the state in its farm investments. Part of this loss, it was agreed by all, however, could be laid to unwise investments due to political favorites during the first few years of the bureau's existence. Now, however, the outlook for the bureau's investments has been changed. Good crops and better prices have increased the demand for land to a point never reached in the department's history. Back rents are being paid and back interest is coming in. Theodore Arens, Conservator, predicts that 1935 will be a banner year for the bureau, despite the fact that rust has hurt the crops on a few western and northern farms. It appears that land, the basis of all value, might again someday be regarded as an asset rather than a liability.

Work on the crime bureau radio station to be located at Redwood Falls is being rushed to completion now that the contract for its construction has been let, according to Melvin C. Passolt, chief of the bureau. The station will not supply its own power but will take it from the Redwood Falls plant. At present power transmission equipment is being installed. Mr. Passolt predicts that the bureau station will be in use by the middle of September.

The hot days of July apparently drove Minnesotans to the foamy mug in record-breaking numbers if the malt beverages and liquor revenue of David R. Arundel's office for that month is any indication. The liquor control office broke all previous records when it turned over $352,197.74 to the state treasurer in tax collections. Of this total, beer supplied $238,141.60 and hard liquor $98,176.13. More beer stamps were sold in July than in any previous month in the control office's history.

Every day evidence in abundance is furnished substantiating Barnum's practical philosophy. Last week in Minneapolis two oil royalty salesmen were arrested charged with selling unregistered oil royalties. These men, according to the securities division, have been operating about two years in Minnesota and the Dakotas, the clients being mainly widows and aged people. Many of the sales were made by exchanging stocks and bonds owned by their clients for oil royalties, the selling talk being that the monthly income from the oil royalties was greater than the return on the stocks and bonds. Of course, it was only a selling talk, the representations, to put it mildly, being "greatly exaggerated".

Attorney General Harry H. Peterson is personally preparing the projected court action which will determine whether Governor Olson or the Legislature has the power to appoint members of the university board of regents. Upon the outcome of this case hinges the question of whether liberal or reactionary educational policies will control the state institution. In an opinion rendered a few weeks ago, Mr. Peterson held that the appointive power lies with the Governor, which power has been usurped by the legislative body.

Figures on the last state bank call, just made public by Elmer A. Benson, state commissioner of banking, indicate increased profits by banks operating under state charters. The commissioner's report reveals a total gain of $107,293 in the net undivided profits of these institutions since the last report, as of April 18, 1935. The present report deals with the conditions of the banks as of June 29, 1935. The reserve of the reporting banks totalled $38,369,718, or more than three times the reserve required by law on the date of the call.

A new service which the state department of education is able to render, in cooperation with the federal relief administration, is furnishing of artificial limbs and appliances to handicapped persons in need. Hitherto, men who were unemployed because they could not walk on an old imperfect peg remained unemployed. Now by applying to the state department of education he may receive enough money from relief funds to purchase a new artificial limb or have the old one repaired. As a result of this service, many persons who were permanently on the relief rolls have been restored to employment. This is all part of a larger plan to expand the services of the rehabilitation department in the state.

With the co-operation of federal agents, operatives of the office of state liquor control commissioner are now directing their enforcement efforts in the Twin City area, to date a number of arrests have been made and hundreds of gallons of tax unpaid moonshine destroyed. The two weeks before, Duluth was the center of the enforcement campaign. Experts estimate that every dollar spent for enforcement means ten dollars in the state treasury via the liquor tax source.

Melvin C. Passolt, director of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, was recently in Washington studying the methods of the U. S. department of justice. Mr. Passolt was particularly interested in the finger print division of that department, which he examined closely. He hopes in the near future to give Minnesota a similar setup.

Four meetings have been held between Charles Munn, Railroad and Warehouse commissioner, and the packing interests in matters relating to the new weighing and grading bill. The purpose of the meetings were to arrive at rates and procedure satisfactory to all concerned and to thus avoid litigation which might tie up the operation of the act for an indefinite period.

WHEAT CONTRACTS ASK 15 PER CENT REDUCTION IN '36

New Agreements to be Offered Shortly to Growers of Spring Wheat

Farmers signing the new wheat allotment contract will be asked to reduce their 1936 wheat acreage 15 per cent from their 1930-32 base.

Announcement of this decision has been made by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to enable winter wheat growers to make their fall seeding plans. The contract will be offered both to winter and spring wheat growers soon. Other provisions which are almost certain to be included in the new contract were announced by the AAA as follows:

1. The contract will run from 1936 to 1939, but with provision whereby the individual may cancel his contract at the end of 1937, if he has met all of the requirements of the contract up to that time. The Secretary of Agriculture also may terminate the contract at the end of any contract year by proclamation before July 1 of such year.

2. The highest reduction the producer may be asked to make in any one year (after 1936) will be 25 per cent of his base acreage. The producer must plant at least 54 per cent of his base acreage to qualify for his full allotment payment.

3. Land retired from wheat production must be planted, in general, to soil-building and erosion-preventing crops.

4. The exact rate of allotment payment will not be determined until the end of the contract year. It will then be set high enough to increase the producer's return, for 54 per cent of his base production, exact to the "parity" or "fair exchange" level. In the past, the rate has been set at the beginning of the contract year, and hence has been only approximately the difference between the market price and "parity." The payment will be made in two installments, as under the present contract.

5. County allotment committees will be given more authority in determining growers' allotments and in approving or disapproving the changing of farm leases, a procedure used by a few unscrupulous land owners and tenants to gain an unfair share of the allotment payments. The AAA believes that the allotment committeemen, having an intimate knowledge of local circumstances, are best qualified to determine the merits of each proposed leasing arrangement.

F. R. CALLS OFF SCOUT JAMBOREE IN WASHINGTON

Prevalence of Infantile Paralysis in Capital Given as Reason

Cancellation of the National Boy Scout Jamboree planned in Washington, D. C., August 21 was announced by President Roosevelt Thursday because of the prevalence infantile paralysis in that section.

A White House statement said the number of infantile paralysis cases "was not considered to be unduly alarming" but it was decided "it would be to the best interests of the scouts and all concerned to cancel the jamboree."

Lake Agassiz council, comprising 15 counties in North Dakota and Minnesota with headquarters in Grand Forks, planned to send 36 Scouts to the national jamboree, according to Peter S. DeJong, council executive.

Arrangements had been made for the contigent to leave August 18. DeJong expressed the belief that sectional jamborees for the midwest would be held in place of the national event, and expected notification of plans for these events from the national headquarters immediately. Three Thief River Falls Scouts had been scheduled to make the trip to the national Capital.

ARE YOU A SAFE DRIVER?
. . . ask yourself these questions

1. Which requires greater caution—a curve to the right or a curve to the left—and why?
2. What is the safest way to handle your car on a highway curve—when do you use the brakes—when do you throw out the clutch—when do you accelerate?
3. In rounding a curve at high speed, is it safer to hold the steering wheel steady or "jiggle" it?
4. In passing another car on the road, is it safer to make a short, quick swing around, or a longer, more gradual one—and why?
5. On a slippery or icy road, your rear wheels suddenly start skidding. What is the way to bring the car out of the skid?
6. When is it safe to pass another car on a hill?

Even the most experienced drivers seldom know the correct answers to these questions. And there are several additional safety questions that every driver should be able to answer. Get them all, and get the right answers, from the nearest Hudson and Terraplane dealer. Come in today.

Tells Proper Method of Cutworm Control

This is the time of year when the gardener is mourning over the ravages of the cutworm and wishing he knew how to keep the pests under control. Well, H. L. Parten, entomologist —insect specialist— of the extension division, University Farm, St. Paul, advises the use of poison bait. This bait is made of the following:

- Bran, 1 quart
- Paris green, 1 heaping teaspoonful
- Molasses, ½ teacup
- Water to moisten.

If you need larger quantities, follow the same proportions.

The mixture should be broadcast in the garden or around the plants in the evening after sundown, as the cutworms come out at night to feed.

Mr. Parten suggests that gardeners who come upon insects with which they are unfamiliar should bottle or box specimens of such insects and send them to the Division of Entomology, University Farm, St. Paul, for identification and for instructions as to how to control them.

Nation Free of Debt

The United States was born with a heavy debt, as a result of the War of Independence. For the first time the youthful nation was free of debt and had a surplus in the treasury in 1836, of $30,000,000. Not knowing exactly what to do with this, and even the politicians afraid to put their fingers in the pie, the government distributed it to the states according to population.

LIFER ASKS PAROLE TO DIG TREASURE

Grand Rapids.—If the story of a life prisoner in a Michigan state prison is to be believed, there is $15,000 in buried treasure on a lonely island in Turtle lake, near Marcell, and residents of Grand Rapids are getting out shovels and picks and closing up business shops. Convicted of murder in 1929, Hugh C. Burnette, now a life prisoner in Michigan, has asked for an application for temporary release for the purpose of recovering a treasure he buried in the earth on the island. In his plea, Brunette states that the treasure was buried in 1926 to escape having the $15,000 taken by a civil court judgment which has not been outlawed. He asks that he be accompanied by state police in his search for the treasure, which consists of gold and securities. Brunette attempted to escape from Marquette prison in 1933 by hiding himself in a bale of overalls, but was discovered and returned to his cell. There are a number of islands in Turtle lake. The small fortune buried by Brunette is embedded in a concrete block and buried in the ground.

Madison's War

ASKS FARMERS TO SEEK U. S. AID FOR ELECTRIFICATION

Program to be Maintained on Self-Sustaining Basis, Says Official

The Federal Government is now ready to assist farmers in setting up co-operative power lines and the next move must come from farmers, says Morris L. Cooke, Rural Electrification Administrator, Washington, D. C., in a communication to the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. Cooke says that neither state nor regional organizations would be established to head up the rural electrification program, and that approval of all projects must come from Washington.

Municipal plants and farmers co-operatives can with profit to themselves study the possibilities offered by the federal government Mr. Cooke says. Private utilities, also, will find this program an excellent opportunity to extend their services to areas not now served.

It is obvious the administrator declares, that the federal electrification plan can be of most service when a group, rather than an individual, takes action. Consequently those who want electricity in their farm homes should get together with their neighbors in the creation of a program. In developing a plan, representatives of nearby sources of power, municipal, co-operative or private, should be consulted for information, Mr. Cooke said.

The rural electrification program is to be kept on a self-sustaining basis, the projects must pay for themselves, the administrator declares. The government will help by loaning money at a low rate of interest and long-time amortization.

It requires no experts to set forth the data required by the administration before consideration can be given for federal help. A one-page data sheet has been issued by Mr. Cooke, copies of which can be obtained from him or by writing the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, St. Paul.

CAT ADOPTS SIX SMALL SKUNKS

Grand Rapids.—Skunks may have a personality that only a mother could love, but one set of striped infants found someone else that could love them when a cat adopted a family of six orphan skunks at the home of Farmer C. A. Swanson, near Bigfork. Two weeks ago Swanson trapped a skunk, finding the six little ones nearby in a hollow stump. He gathered them up carefully and took them home, introducing them to the family cat, which had a family of her own of five small kittens. The more the merrier was the motto of the cat, but Swanson thought not, and got rid of three kittens, which the cat seemed to miss not at all. But Swanson could not touch the skunks without danger of having his face scratched to ribbons. The incident is one of the strangest in the history of the animal world, according to experts. Just what will happen to the mixed octette cannot be predicted. They may grow up to be somewhat of a joy to the Swanson household, but if they revert to type, Swanson states he will have no hesitation in cutting off their tails somewhere back of their ears.

Browerville.—Lightning, the most prankish force of nature, had a little fun with the family of James McDonald, near Browerville, when it raced from room to room, knocking plaster off in each, and then tore a newspaper lying on the floor into ribbons without burning it in the least. The bolt struck a chimney while the family were sitting at the dinner table, demolishing it and another chimney, and tore a hole through the siding at the front of the house. Mr. McDonald, who had started out of doors and had his hand against a screen door, received a severe shock, affecting his right arm; Mrs. McDonald felt the shock in her neck; and the daughter was momentarily blinded by the bolt. All recovered quickly.

Those who represented the farm clubs were: Owen Weckwerth, Enock Notum, Renie Werner, Cal Toomey, V. Mallberg, Ole Engelstad, A. Backe, Lawrence Best, Otto Saugen, Roy Mussy and Bob Toomey. HORSE DISEASE IS DETECTED IN N. W. COUNTIES

Animals Can be Saved From Infectious Disease by Prompt Action

Spread of an infectious brain disease — encephalomyelitis — among horses in Northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota this summer prompted a warning by Dr. L. R. Twete, local veterinarian, who stated that ten cases have been discovered in this section of the state.

When afflicted with the disease the animals fall down and are unable to get up or roll over. They lie on their sides, convulsively pawing the air and ground. In the advanced stages the horses are relatively quiet.

Recognition of the first symptoms is held to be important. Unwillingness to be led, lack of spirit, slightly wobbly gait, and failure to come when called are indications. In an affected area about one horse out of every ten develops the disease and approximately 50 per cent of these may be saved if given proper care in time.

LOCALS DEFEAT HOUSE OF DAVID SATURDAY 3 TO 1

Lefty Heiberg Holds Whiskered Men to Three Scattered Hits

The House of David ball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Thief River Giants last Saturday evening by a 3 to 1 count. The Giants hit into Rothbun, the whiskered catcher, for five hits in the sixth inning to account for their three runs. The visitors had won 16 straight victories up to the game here. The Giants almost got a run in the first inning when Brevick walked and Phillips singled to put Brevick on third with two out. Nordby then hit a grounder to the pitcher to cut the run. Neither team was in a position to score until the fourth inning, when Lipsk walked and Liffre got in on a fielders choice, with Lipsk out on third. Heckman then walked to put a man on first and second but Cato flied out to Thordal at short to end the inning.

The Davids scored their lone run in the fifth when Deal walked and Dewhirst singled to put a man on first and one on third. Rothbun then hit at Haugen at second but Haugen made a wild throw to first to let Deal score. The Giants came to life in the sixth inning with two out when Haugen and Phillips singled and scored on Nordby's single followed by a single by Hovden and one by Langlie to score Nordby. Manden Thordahl struck out to retire the side.

The Giants managed to hold their lead for the balance of the game to emerge victorious. Lefty Heiberg held the whiskered men to three scattered hits while his team mates collected ten off Rothbun. The visitors pulled a pair of neat double plays in the third and fourth inning to cut off possible runs. Both teams played clean ball and hit hard but the Giants were the only ones to hit in open territory. Heiberg was in top form and was deprived of a shut out when Haugen overthrew at first in the fifth inning. This was the last game this season for the Giants.

HOW TO REMOVE OIL FROM YOUR CAR

The state highway department gives the following directions for removing bituminous material from automobiles which have been spattered while going over freshly treated roads:

"Apply a mixture of one part lubricating oil to four parts of gasoline. Allow this to remain on the spattered surface about five minutes, then wash off with soap and water. This should be done before the bitumen has hardened."

SENT TO ASYLUM AFTER SHOOTING STRATHCONA MAN

Neighbor Admits Firing Rifle Shot That Wounds Wolfgram

Forman Lukason, 24-year-old Roseau county farmer who Thursday admitted he fired a rifle shot from ambush Wednesday and dangerously wounded Lawrence Wolfgram of Strathcona, Friday was committed to the state hospital for the dangerous insane.

Lukason was arrested late Thursday while mowing hay at his father's farm near where Wolfgram was at work in a hay field when a rifle bullet pierced his abdomen.

Lukason, arrested by Sheriff O. A. Rice, had little to say regarding the shooting except that he mistook Wolfgram for another neighbor who he charged allowed his cattle to trespass on a brother-in-law's land. After admitting the shooting he offered to take authorities to the place he lay in waiting for the victim.

Wolfgram, in a Greenbush hospital where an operation was performed to remove the bullet, was said to be improving. He has a good chance of recovering unless infection sets in, his doctor said.

DRIVE IN—SEE IT WORK

Leading lubrication engineers and car builders predict that the Moto-Sway method of lubricating will revolutionize automobile lubrication because it is the ONLY correct way. When a car is stationary, with dead weight on springs and shackles, it is practically impossible to lubricate the points of greatest friction. HIGH PRESSURE GUNS ALONE WON'T DO IT. You can readily visualize how easy the job becomes when the car is being swayed up and down, taking the complete weight off the springs and shackles while in motion, permitting the lubricant to easily reach every point.

If you have frozen shackles, squeaks or rattles come in and have your car lubricated on the Moto-Sway and we will guarantee to have your car so lubricated that it will positively drive like a new car. Any loose bolt, nut, spring, shackle, battery box or anything that may be loose on the chassis of your car can be detected and fixed while in motion on the Moto-Sway.

FARM INCOME IN N. W. SHOWS GAIN, ESTIMATES SHOW

$222,000,000 Gain Seen in Farm Income in Four Northwest States

Estimates of 1935 farm cash income in the four northwest states, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana, including federal cornhog and wheat benefits last week placed the figure at $695,000,000.

This estimate of the 1935 crop income followed the release by the bureau of agricultural economics of a preliminary study of farm cash incomes for 1934 and prior years, which placed the 1934 farm income in the four states, including benefit payments for co-operating in the AAA wheat and corn-hog program at $473,661,000.

The increase for 1935 of approximately $222,000,000 is hailed as the predominating factor in the very evident revival of business in the north-west.

The estimate, based on surveys, was arrived at after making deductions for rust damage to wheat. It included marketings of livestock and dairy products, oats, corn, barley, rye, flax, potatoes, eggs, poultry, fruit and canned vegetables. Lumicsey ..

The income is aided in large part by the excellence of the feed crops, reported in most sections of the four states to be the largest in years. Hay, particularly alfalfa and clover, is showing an unusual yield, and this, together with the grain feeds, insures cheap raw material throughout the fall and winter for the production of beef, butter and hogs.

The 1934 income was an increase of $50,980,000 over the income of 1933 and $122,472,000 over the 1932 income.

The bureau's study reveals the important part government benefits to the wheat and corn-hog farmers played in northwest farmers' cash income in 1934 and 1933. An indication of the healthy revival of northwest farm business in 1935 is that, notwithstanding these benefits will be less, the income is greater, showing that agriculture has passed through the period of drought and low prices.

SIDE OF CAR KICKED IN BY HORSE ON ROAD

Blackduck.—A horse with violent objections to the machine age in general, and automobiles in particular, rose up on its hind hoofs to batter in the side of a car traveling along the road near Blackduck and force the driver to beat a hasty retreat in another vehicle. Miss Mabel Johnson, Red Cross tuberculosis nurse from Grand Rapids, was the owner of the car, and her Red Cross sign on the side meant nothing to the warring hoofs of the horse. As she was passing a number of horses grazing along the road, one of them kicked up his heels and struck the car several times. The right door was smashed in and both front and rear fenders were bent. There were hoof marks on the car as high as above the door. Miss Johnson was compelled to abandon her car on the highway, driving into town and later coming back to pick it up.

Drivers License Must be Carried, Says Eklund

Adolf Eklund, clerk of court, issued a reminder today to vacationists and others that driving a car while wearing a bathing suit or sports clothes does not excuse one for not having his driver's license in his or her possession as required by the driver's license law. Keeping this in mind and never getting back of the wheel of a car unless one can produce his driver's license, immediately, if necessary, may save annoyance and inconvenience. He also calls attention to the fact that a resident of another state holding a visitor's permit and driving a car bearing the license plates of another state is not obliged to have a Minnesota Driver's license. However, that visitor must have a Minnesota driver's license should he drive any car bearing Minnesota license plates.

FIRST WPA JOBS IN STATE GIVEN WASHINGTON O. K.

$1,645,000 in Projects to Get Under Way Without Delay

Into state headquarters of the Works Progress Administration, from all parts of the state this week, poured scores of requests for new work projects as word came from Washington of the first authorization of funds to provide jobs and permanently end direct relief for all employable persons.

The fifty-six projects for which a total of $1,645,105 was allocated will get under way without delay, Christgau stated. The administrator qualified his statement, however, in saying that "of course no projects will be launched in rural areas where farmers need all available labor for harvesting."

For purposes of expediting the works projects, Minnesota has been divided into nine districts with district directors in general charge and district engineers supervising the work plans. Pennington county is in the seventh district. C. W. Anderson is district engineer for this district and Fred R. Frederickson is assistant area engineer for this community.

To date, state headquarters has submitted to Washington 378 projects which will cost approximately $12,512,072. Of these, 118 to cost $4,915,593.31 were given Christgau's endorsement and rushed to Washington by air mail during the last week.

BUSINESSMEN SHOCK NEIGHBOR'S GRAIN

Heron Lake.—The "help a neighbor" spirit was demonstrated in Heron Lake last week when 32 business men doffed their silk shirts for overalls and went out after dinner to shock 30 acres of grain for a farmer incapacited by rheumatism. The group included almost every business and professional man in town, some of whom had never set up a shock of grain before. They were recruited during the afternoon when it was learned that Charles Rasche was unable to care for his ripe grain because of treatments for rheumatism. The work in shocking the 20 acres of barley and nine acres of oats required only an hours time, because of the large number of men participating.

Woodticks, Flies Likely Carriers of Tularemia, Medical Group Asserts

Among the diseases that are spread by animals to man in Minnesota, tularemia is assuming a new importance this year. Members of the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association call especial attention to the prevalence of the disease among rabbits and squirrels, and the consequent danger to humans in a bulletin issued today.

"It is now established beyond any doubt that the disease can be spread to humans by the insect route as well as by actual contact with sick animals", the bulletin warns.

The wood tick is known to have acted as carrier in the case of a Minnesota Physician who is seriously ill at the present time with the disease. Deer flies and horse flies are under grave suspicion as possible carriers, also.

An epidemic among the small animals in this section of the country was predicted some time ago by experts in the State Department of Health who have made a special study of the disease in recent years. The danger of transference by insects may therefore be expected to increase, according to the physicians.

The more usual source of infection, contact through a break in the skin with diseased dead animals, is easily avoided by use of gloves. Hunters should never handle dead rabbits or squirrels bare handed, the bulletin declares.

Avoiding infection by the insect route is more difficult. But a careful watch to see that wood ticks do not remain on the skin anywhere long enough to burrough and introduce the germs into the blood stream will help.

Tularemia is characterized by high fever and prostration. It is often mistaken for something else in the absence of laboratory tests.

The Three R's

The origin of the expression the three R's is accredited to Sir William Curtis, then Lord Mayor of London, in 1795. At a dinner given by the board of education, Sir William jestingly proposed the toast to "the three R's—reading, riting, and rithmetic."—Literary Digest.

What Good Is a Pup?

A pup is cute...and mischievous. But you can't tell just by looking at him now what services he will perform for his master when he grows up. He may be as useful as Barry, the St. Bernard of the Alps, who saved 40 lives.

When the telephone was a baby in 1876, few people could foresee how serviceable it would become. Now it saves life and property every day. Millions of times a day it brings folks together.

Telephone service, as we know it, has been developed by the Bell System, which for more than 50 years has had the same form of organization. There are 24 Associated Companies, like this company, each serving a part of the United States.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, parent company of the Bell System, coordinates the operations of the Associated Companies, furnishes them a general staff service and operates the long distance lines, connecting them into a nation-wide network. The Bell Telephone Laboratories contribute research and engineering. The Western Electric Company does the manufacturing and purchasing.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

"Evangelical Herald" Pays Tribute To W. C. T. U. And its National President

"That the friends of reform, and especially those who would abolish the liquor traffic, with all the sorrow and misery, wickedness and corruption that goes with it, are not discouraged, is evident from the comprehensive program which is being launched by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union," says a recent issue of the Evangelical Herald. "This renewed activity is very largely due to the energy and enthusiasm of Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, president of the organization, who is one of the outstanding women of America."

The Herald briefly outlines some of Mrs. Smith's activities, notes the honors paid her by governors of Iowa, and quotes her words when she spoke recently on the purpose and significance of the organization which she now leads:

"Mrs. Smith described the W. C. T. U., as "a Christian adventure in teaching personal and national righteousness. We are concerned that the political life of our nation be clean, that justice, peace and tranquility may be our social position. It is for that reason that the National W. C. T. U. fearlessly carries on its far-flung program of constructive endeavor on related issues, unitedly supporting every worth-while move for peace between nations, seeking protection of the home against radio invasion by liquor and other evil interests; promoting better movies for the cultivating of American ideals, and the exclusion of vicious gambling and lottery schemes and the ghastly return of protected social evil, which have reappeared in the trail of the relegalized traffic in beverage alcohol.' ".

SUES TO COMPEL CLERK TO ISSUE MARRIAGE LICENSE

Duluth.—A suit to enforce the issuance of a marriage license, the first case of its kind in St. Louis county, has been filed in district court. In his petition against Clerk of Court Jennie Moodie, Russell Anderson, 33, alleges that neither he nor Miss Genevive Belfy, 26, are related by blood, that they are not epileptic, feebleminded or insane, or have any disqualifications which would bar them from a marriage license under Minnesota law. Miss Moodie, in answering the petition, alleges that Anderson for more than two years lived with another woman as man and wife. She was supplied with the information by the mother of the prospective bride, who is seeking to prevent the marriage.

PARDON ME, SIR, BUT CAN YOU TELL ME WHAT COFFEE HAS THE RICHEST FLAVOR?
NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE, MY MAN. THE VAN CLEVE LABORATORIES REPORT THAT NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE CONTAINS 35.7% MORE FLAVOR THAN OTHER COMMERCIAL BRANDS.

The flavor of coffee comes from an aromatic oil known as caffeol. Scientists can actually determine the flavor of coffee by extracting this oil and weighing it on a scale—and tell you scientifically which brand possesses the most flavor.

The Van Cleve Laboratories, food chemists, recently analyzed seven popular brands of coffee. Nash's Toasted Coffee was found to contain 35.7% more flavor producing oil than the highest of the six other brands—scientific proof of its richer, deeper flavor, a flavor that millions pronounce, "Every Drop Delicious."

Plastic Surgery Able to Improve Appearance by Eliminating Defects

Plastic surgery, brought sharply to public attention during the World War, has become an exact and legitimate science. It is used nowadays, not alone for relief, but also to improve appearance.

Modern plastic surgeons, according to a bulletin received today from the public Health Education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association, are now giving greater recognition to the fact that a patient who suffers mental distress because of a deformity is entitled to just as serious consideration as the patient who suffers actual physical discomfort. The aim of plastic surgery is to correct or improve distressing deformities of the face.

There is nothing mysterious in the procedure of the plastic surgeon. The specialist in this field works much as a sculptor does. He uses a plastic model before operation to determine just what can be done. With the aid of advanced methods of scientific surgery, furthermore, likelihood of leaving scars has been largely eliminated.

The legitimate, responsible surgeon does not paint enthusiastic pictures of miraculous transformations to be made, however, because he does not pretend to deal in miracles. He knows that a slight alteration on a nose will not achieve great beauty by itself and says so. In this way he may be distinguished in advance from the quack who will promise anything and who thereby lures many persons to place themselves in his hands—only to come to grief.

Isle.—Lakeflies by the millions hatched out at Mille Lacs last week and filled the air in swarms that resembled giant clouds of locusts. The next day the bodies were shoveled up and carried away. Lakeflies at Mille Lacs are an annual occurrence. These gauzy creatures, whose life span is only a day ordinarily cause little inconvenience. They cannot sting, or bite, and do not venture far from the water. Infantile Paralysis Cases May be Expected During Coming Month

Although there are very few cases of poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis in the state at the present time, this week's bulletin of the committee on public health Education of the Minnesota State Medical Association, urges parents to remember that the season for the disease is approaching and a watchful eye should be kept on sick children.

No epidemic of the disease is looked for in the state this year, but there are always a few cases and these appear mostly in August and September. Early care may save the child major trouble and will certainly aid in the prevention of spread of the disease.

Any sick child in late summer should be watched carefully. Early symptoms of the disease vary greatly. Often the stomach appears to be upset or there may be sore throat or cold. In any case the child should be put to bed and kept away from others until the trouble has been definitely determined and the child has completely recovered.

An interesting chart exhibited at the recent annual meeting of doctors of the state showed that in many cases the first symptoms practically disappear, often for a day or two, before any paralysis sets in. Stiffness of the neck warrants immediate attention.

In any case, the sick child should have special care in these critical months. If the trouble is only an upset stomach or diarrhea or a cold, he will be none the worse for a rest in bed and a thorough examination.

GYPSIES FOOL SHERIFF

Fergus Falls.—A band of gypsies which swept down on Fergus Falls managed to pick up a few dollars, and like good gypsies, managed to retain several of them. Fortune-telling and petty thievery constituted most of their work, but after the caravan had left the village, a check-up showed that the till in a drug store had been rifled. Deputy sheriff John Howe followed the band, and after threatening to take the "king" of the tribe into custody, collected $40 which he thought stolen, and $5 for expenses, after the gypsies had passed the hat among themselves. After Howe had let them depart, and when it was too late to overtake them again, it was found that the amount stolen was $69 instead of $40.

HIDES IN GRAIN, IS CUT BY GRAIN BINDER

Morris.—The child-like fear of receiving a reprimand from her father brought trouble to the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Pillen when she narrowly escaped death and received severe wounds from a grain binder. Pillen was cutting grain on his farm and the little girl was warned to stay out of the field. But child-like, when she saw her father coming around the field, she ran to meet him and then possibly fearing a reprimand, hid in the grain as he approached. Pillen failed to see her as she crouched down, and the platform of the binder failed to quite clear the little girl. A sickle guard caught her arm, inflicting a severe cut, and a cord in one leg was severed by the sickle. She is recovering nicely.

Recently a "Use-No-Slang Week" was put in force at one of our colleges—and the result was that none of the students were able to talk.

WIDER TAX BASE NEEDED IN STATE, REPORT REVEALS

Income Tax Held Insufficient to Replace Property Taxes

Granting the urgent need for a reduction in the excessive burden of taxes carried by general property, the Minnesota Institute of Governmental Research in a report issued today reviewed the various proposals that were considered by the 1935 Legislature for relieving this situation.

The report, entitled "The Property Tax Problem and The 1935 Legislative Session, issued today by The Institute, analyzes and compares the various tax plans, and how they would have compared with tax laws in the other states. Estimates of revenue yield from each tax source were prepared and the data is presented graphically in many charts and tables. The Institute as a research organization takes no position favorable or unfavorable as to the various proposals.

The report said that it is obvious that Minnesota cannot obtain any sizeable sum from any single tax source or from the net income tax. "Those interested in property tax relief must look to some other source of revenue in addition to the income tax," it added.

The usual practice of high exemptions, the opportunity for investors under present laws to put their money into tax exempt securities and the absence in the state of any considerable number of large incomes militate against the state getting any large sum from the net income tax, the report pointed out.

The report said that state net income tax rates even if raised as high as the 15 per cent maximum which Governor Olson advocated would produce only $7,000,000 in Minnesota, or only $4,500,000 more than the present state income tax, which is far short of the amount necessary to relieve general property taxpayers in Minnesota. The general property tax in Minnesota for 1934 was $109,000,000.

Study of inheritance and gift taxes also shows that they cannot contribute in any large measure to the solution of the tax problem, the report said. The legislature found it necessary as a consequence to look to a number of sources of revenue, including sources based on commercial activity such as sales, gross income or payrolls.

The report also reviewed provisions of the Omnibus Tax Bill, which provided for 19 new taxes or increases in old taxes.

Farm School Students Can Obtain State Aid, Announcement Reveals

Hundreds of Minnesota rural boys and girls may now obtain state aid in attending one of the Schools of Agriculture, located at University Farm, St. Paul; Crookston; Morris, and Grand Rapids. For many years, the state has offered tuition to young folks wishing to attend high school, but whose local school districts have no accredited high school. Through a new law passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Olson last winter, this same aid is now extended to young people who prefer to attend one of the Schools of Agriculture where they can get specialized training in farming, homemaking and rural community affairs.

"The Schools of Agriculture," says Dean W. C. Coffey, "are neither high schools nor colleges, but rather great vocational school for the training of young men and women in the business of farming and homemaking. These schools are open to anyone 17 years of age and over. For any boy or girl up to the age of 21 who has completed the eight grade but is not a high school graduate, and who comes from a local school district not maintaining an accredited high school, the state will pay tuition, laboratory and equipment fees at one of the Schools of Agriculture."

Dean Coffey believes that this offers much encouragement to many youths who might otherwise not be able to attend these agricultural schools.

Anyone wanting further information should write to the Superintendent of the particular School of Agriculture in which he in interested, says Dean Coffey.

Road Sign Vandals Endanger Motorists, Says N. W. Elsberg

A wave of sign vandalism resulting in destruction of public property and danger to motorists is reported by the state highway department. In nearly all sections of the state maintenance crews on the trunk highways are finding an unusual number of road signs defaced.

In some instances the vandals even have used wrenches to unbolt heavy warning signs, and in other cases they have spent much labor in pulling sign posts out of the ground bodily. Hunters also destroy many markers by using them for shot-gun targets.

"Signs warning motorists of dangerous turns and curves and giving load limits on small bridges are among those which have been defaced," said N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner. "If the persons who seem to enjoy this type of vandalism could visualize the automobile accidents and human suffering which are likely to result, they would turn their energies to other channels."

CHERRY TREE BLOSSOMS IN AUGUST

Sanborn.—Whether or not trees just "can't take it" this hot weather, a cherry tree belonging to J. H. W. Yaeger, Sanborn, is getting its second crop of blossoms the early part of August. The tree blossomed normally in the spring and is now bearing black cherries from its first blossoms. But Yaeger has brought in a few of the newly blossoming sprigs to prove the tree is blossoming again. The blossoms are small but have the unmistakeable scent of cherry blossoms. Yaeger stated that he had been told a tree will die when this phenomenon takes place. It will be interesting to note what the tree will do with its new blossoms.

Send Changes of Address Promptly

Times' subscribers are asked to notify the subscription department promptly of any changes in their addresses. Under the postal laws, newspapers and periodicals must pay postage due for notices of any changes in address furnished by the postoffice itself. In addition there is also the problem of delay in delivery or failure to get the paper. The best plan is to send the change of address in advance.

Red River Valley History

By Wm V. Working

Marshall County Names

"Veldt township, organized in 1902, was at first called Roosevelt, for the president of the United States. Because that name had been earlier given to another township of Minnesota, it was changed to this Dutch word, used in South Africa meaning 'a prairie or a thinly wooded tract.' Viking township, organized in 1884, was named by Rev. Hans P. Hansen, a Norwegian Lutheran pastor in Warren. This Scandinavian word, often translated as a sea king, more correctly denoted any member of the early medieval pirate crews of Northmen who during several centuries ravaged the coasts of western and southern Europe.

Wanger township, organized in 1882, was named for a German hunter and trapper who lived there before the coming of agricultural settlers. Warren, the county seat, platted in 1879-80, corporated as a village in 1883, and as a city April 3, 1891, was named in honor of Charles H. Warren, general passenger agent of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railway company, which in 1890 was renamed the Great Northern company. The railway was built to the site of Warren in the summer of 1878, and in November of that year trains ran through to Winnipeg.

"Warrenton township, organized in 1879, has a name of the same origin as the city of Warren, which is at its southeast corner. West Valley township, organized in 1884 is named from the Middle river, which here is inclosed by low bluffs. Whiteford township, organized in 1910, has a name that is borne also by small villages in Maryland and Michigan. Wright township, organized in 1884, probably received this name in honor of one of its first settlers."

The article then goes on to tell of the origin of the names of streams and lakes in the county:

"Middle river was named by the fur traders, whose trains of Red river carts crossed it on the old Pembina trail about halfway between Pembina and their crossing of the Red Lake river. Snake river is translated from its Ojibway name, written by Gilfillan as Ginebigo zibi. Tamarac river is also noted by him as a similar translation, from Gamushkigwatigoka Zibi. Tamarack is elsewhere the common spelling for the tree and geographic names derived from it.

"In the place of these three streams, only one is found on the map of Long's expedition of 1823, named Swamp creek, where the present Tamarac ditch in Donnelly and Eagle Point townships carries to the Red river the drainage of a large swamp area, in which Tamarac river was formerly lost, thence emerging northward and joining the Red river in the southwest part of Kittson county. Swamp creek, translated from the Ojibway name of Tamarac river, was copied on Nicollet's map in 1843 and on the map of Minnesota Territory in 1850; but the state map of 1860 has the present Tamarac, Middle and Snake rivers, although their courses are erroneously drawn.

"Preceding pages have noticed Mooseriver, Thief lake and river, and Mud river and lake, whence three townships are named. Green Stump lake and Elm lake, each shallow and drained for use as farm lands, were respectively about one mile and three miles southwest of Mud lake, which, as before noted, is also mainly drained. Whiteford has two little lakes, about midway between Thief and Mud lakes, of which the eastern one is named Olson lake. Marshall county is wholly in the area of the Glacial Lake Agassiz."

Next we present Upham's record of the sources of geographical names in Red Lake county:

"Established Dec. 24, 1896, this county received its name from the Red Lake river, which flows through it, giving also its name to Red Lake Falls the county seat. the river derives its name, in turn, from Red lake, these both being translations of their Ojibway names.

"Why these Indians originally so designated the lake was uncertain until it was ascertained by the late Rev. Joseph A. Gilfillan. It had been affirmed, with poetic license by Beltrami, who traveled here in 1823, publishing in 1824 and 1824, that the aboriginal names of Red lake and its outflowing river, the latter translated by him Bloody river, refer to the 'blood of the slain,' in the wars between the Ojibway and Dakotas."

We shall continue this sketch of the sources of Red Lake county names next week.—Northwestern Feature Service.

SPORTSMEN OF DISTRICT FORM GROUP TUESDAY

Gathering of 100 From Thruout Northwest Present at Meeting

A. A. TROST, WARREN, NAMED PRESIDENT

Association on Record as Favoring Open Deer Season

Approximately 100 sportsmen representing the seventh conservation district, comprising the northwestern corner of the state, met in the Civic and Commerce association rooms in the Auditorium Tuesday evening and perfected a new organization, as yet unnamed.

A. A. Trost of Warren was named first president of the group, while F. A. Brown of Grygla was elected vice president and Paul Lundgren of this city secretary-treasurer. Elected to the board of directors were Dr. N. M. Leitch, Warroad; Sam Vagle, Bronson; William Zauche, Baudette; Hans Olson, Viking; H. J. Enderle, Plummer; P. S. Sass, Crookston; and C. H. Jung of this city. Dr. Edward Bratrud presided over the early part of the meeting as temporary chairman.

The meeting, which had been called by Game Warden W. H. Quist, was thoroly representative of sportsmen in this section, delegations being present from Crookston, Warren, Red Lake Falls, Grygla, Plummer, Roseau, Warroad, Hallock and Badger.

It was decided to include in the membership of the association all members of affiliating groups such as local sportsmen's clubs, and Legion posts, the details to be worked out by the board of directors. A collection was taken up to care for incidental expenses, the Grygla Sportsmen's club contributing $5 to the fund.

The association instructed its officers to draw up resolutions condemning the action of the federal bureau of biological survey and the state department of conservation in setting the opening of the duck season in this section as late as October 21, it being pointed out that by that date the lakes along the northern border of the state are frequenly frozen over.

Another resolution called on state authorities to establish a five day deer hunting season in northern Minnesota, speakers from various communities stating that deer are more plentiful this year than in a number of years past.

The next meeting of the group will be held at the call of the officers, Mayor J. S. Roy of Red Lake Falls extending an invitation to hold it in that city.

COUNCIL ACTS TO SELL $60 000 ENGINE BONDS

To Open Bids on All or Part of Issue Evening of September 10

LOCAL PEOPLE SIGN FOR $45,000 BONDS

Council Takes Steps to Oil LaBree, Atlantic and Horace avs.

The city council at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening made definite arrangements to call for bids to be opened September 10 on all or part of the $60,000 bond issue to be sold to finance the purchase of a new 1,000-horsepower Diesel unit for the municipal power plant.

It was indicated that local investors would be given the preference in disposing of the issue, a total of $45,000 in bonds having already been asked for by residents of the community, according to a report by City Clerk P. G. Pederson.

The bonds will draw interest at the rate of four per cent a year, payable semiannually, and will be retired at the rate of $6,000 a year beginning in October, 1938, and continuing thru October, 1947. The resolution ordering the sale stipulates that each application must be accompanied by a certified check for two per cent of the amount of the bid.

At the same meeting W. W. Prichard, Jr., presented a petition signed by residents along Atlantic av. calling attention to the heavy traffic on that street and requesting that it be given an oil treatment. A similar petition was submitted by 20 residents asking the oiling of LaBree av.

After a brief discussion a motion was adopted to proceed with the oiling of the two streets as well as Horace av. this fall if the streets can be put into proper condition to receive an application of oil. At the same time the council voted to advertise for bids on the amount of oil that will be required.

They called attention to the important part the office will play in the new WPA setup, under which it will have the duty of assigning men to work. 'Indian Life' Pageant at Smiley Hall Sunday

Cast of Forty to Appear Under Auspices of Smiley Community Club

"Indian Life", a colorful and dramatic pageant in six acts, written and directed by Mrs. H. Holte of Crookston, will be presented at the Smiley hall next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Smiley Community club.

A group of 25 Smiley residents will be in the cast, in which also will appear fifteen Indians from the Red Lake reservation. In the afternoon preceding the pageant the Indians will present a traditional powwow, sponsors of the program announced this week.

Depicting the period before the arrival of the white man, the pageant reveals that, while life differed among the various tribes, they were alike in their conception of natural laws, music, arts, ceremonials and dances. It shows the Indian's racial type as one of nature's aristocrats who was called a savage, altho centuries ago the story of his culture was written on pottery and stone and would class him among the civilized people.

The warriors, courageous and efficient, will be seen dancing the war dance and going to battle while the women sing their death song. The pageant will show the chief, as the leader of his tribe, presiding at ceremonials and council fires, while the medicine men in pagan attire will depict his position and rites.

The Chippewas and Sioux, traditional enemies and the only tribes now claiming Minneda as their home, are shown terminating their feud with the burying of the tomahawk and war club and the smoking of the peace pipe. Also shown are the marriages of Winona and Opratonna, Indian girls.

The pageant will begin with the call of the tomtoms, and will be interspersed with songs and dances by the group of Indians, among whom are some widely known dancers.

SCIENCE SPEAKS

Science in recent years has dragged out into the open the havoc wrought by beer and wine quantities of alcohol.

Kraeplin found that a small quantity impaired perception and judgment in signal men, engineers, auto drivers, machinists, etc., etc.

Tottenham found that a small quantity markedly reduced co-ordination of eye and hand.

Frankfurther found that it increased 17 times the relative number of errors in typewriting.

Durig and Schnyder found that it diminished working ability, stifled the young Germans' idealism, his taste for classics and increased incredible vulgarity.

The British Medical Report (1924) bears similar testimony to an altered individual lacking temporarily its moral factor of judgment and conspicuous element of self-control.

Human virtue is cracking and falling around us with sickening frequency.—B. C. Temperance League.

What sort of an athlete is the one who will assert that a drink or two of whiskey or beer taken just as he engages in sport will better fit him for endurance and victory? What sort of a man is a father who will indulge in a drink or two after putting his family in the car and tell them that the intoxicant better fits him to drive the car? And yet liquor manufacturers persistently extol their products as of "great benefit to humanity"—using magazines and newspapers and the radio to broadcast their false statements.—Conway (Ark.) News

Growing With Your Child

Encourage Child's Curiosity

The desire to explore, to investigate, to manipulate is one of mankind's most distinctive characteristics. The appearance of curiosity in a child should be joyfully welcomed by parents, as an indication of developing intelligence.

Many children are refused opportunities to learn through touching, handling, grasping, throwing, etc. In an environment planned for grownups, the child makes futile attempts to turn what he sees to his own uses. The fifteen month old child's efforts to fit pans and covers, to screw on jar tops, to pour and measure, sift and strain, is shortsighted. For the happy, busy child who is engrossed in this first-hand experience with "things" will give her more free time than will the bored child for whom she must constantly plan "busy work".

It is this desire to experiment, to manipulate, to "monkey" with things, that has given man's hand its marvelous variety of uses—that has led to the ingenious invention of all manner of tools which achieve what the hand alone could not. Without an increasing acquaintance with "things" of all sorts, there is not as rapid gain in motor response. The child should be improving his muscular control; being on the alert to all his surroundings will bring those instinctive response which with practice bring about better cooperation between the muscles.

Stanley Hall many years ago called attention to the carelessness of parents in not acquainting children with much that is of interest and value in their immediate surroundings. The first grade children studied by Hall showed surprising gaps in their information with regard to the common things of everyday life, and similar results have been obtained recently in a study of the range and extent of information among Minneapolis kindergarten children. The parent takes it for granted that the child knows, for example, what butter is made of, forgetting the child's limited experience. Sixty per cent of the children studied did not know from what butter is made. That butterflies make it is a common response in five year olds. Of the children studied over half had no idea where wool came from, 8 per cent of them thinking it grows on trees. Common as automobiles are in the daily experience of children, almost half of them did not know what the brake was for, altho 11 per cent hazarded the opinion that it was to make the automobile go.

The parent who takes pains by means of pictures, stories, and conversation to give the child a knowledge of materials, relationships, causes and effects, is stimulating the eager curiosity of the child, and helping him both to observe and to think for himself.

Doctors Making Study of the Functions of Mysterious Glands

Medical quacks and fakers have been quick to seize upon the results of modern scientific research about the mysterious ductless glands of the body to lend magic and persuasion to the sale of worthless or dangerous pills.

The question, do the advertised gland extracts really restore youth and vitality must still be answered in the negative according to a bulletin on the subject issued today by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association.

There is no doubt in the minds of researchers, today, that the system of endocrine or ductless glands including the pituitary, the thyroid and parathyroids, the adrenals, the pancreas and the gonads, do very largely control growth and sex development of the body.

When these glands are disordered; when they pour out their secretions too fast into the body or when they provide less than the normal amount of the secretion, then physical and mental abnormalities or disease are likely to develop. Thus the giants and the dwarfs and the "fat women" of the circus are regarded as victims of gland disorders these days.

Just how to correct these disorders even with the use of extracts containing the vital elements of these glands which medical scientists have been able to provide in the last few years is still uncertain and the subject of study in many parts of the world, and there is no immediate likelihood that youth will be restored by them.

Some startling results have been achieved, as in the control of diabetes with insulin from the pancreas; but much yet remains to be discovered and an important section of program time at the 82nd annual meeting of the Minnesota State Medical Association to be held in Minneapolis June 24, 25 and 26 will be devoted to the subject.

One world famous exhibit and demonstration will show the dramatic effects upon five generations of white rats of the extract producted from another gland, the thymus, by Dr. Adolph Hanson of Faribault. In the fifth and sixth generation these rats mature so rapidly that they are born with teeth and hair.

Dr. E. L. Severinghaus of Madison, Wisconsin will address the association on the use of endocrine extracts.

FARMER REPEATS ERROR; MISTAKES DEER FOR CALVES

Cold Spring.—Mike Zarmerman living northeast of this city had heard the story of the farm hand who spent a day trying to round up a couple of rabbits which he thought were lambs that had strayed from his flock of sheep, but never felt he would be fooled likewise. His wife noticed two animals which she took to be a pair of their Brown Swiss calves. Their son checked up the calves in the farm and found them all there. He then grabbed several ropes and went after them thinking perhaps they were the strays from a neighboring farm. After an exciting chase the pursuers got close enough to identify them as a pair of fawn deer. An unusually large number of deer have been seen far south of their usual habitats this spring. A young doe was found shot near Elbow Lake and Mr. and Mrs. Fankhanel of Albert Lea struck and killed a good-sized deer on the highway east of Little Falls.

The Chinese Dragon

That mythical beast the Chinese dragon, is described in old books as having a camel's head, a deer's horns, a snake's neck, a [illegible] stomach, fish's scales, eagle's claws and the ears of a cow.

Horse Brain Disease Spreading in County

The infectious brain disease affecting horses, known as encephalomyelitis, is making headway in Pennington county, ten cases having developed this week, according to Dr. L. R. Twete, local veterinarian. The Minnesota Livestock Sanitary board has issued orders to quarantine all farms where the disease has been discovered. The Red Lake county board met Wednesday evening to discuss the situation, and, like in this county, will disinfect all barns where the disease is found, Dr. Twete said.

Ticker Tape System

The first ticker was a printing telegraph which was patented by Royal Earl House, April 18, 1846. The ticker was first exhibited at the American Institute fair, New York city, in 1844. It was used extensively for about ten years when it was superseded by new models. The first ticker to operate at a fast speed was installed November, 1930, in the Bankers Club of America, on the thirty-eighth floor of the Equitable building, 120 Broadway, New York. It printed 500 characters a minute. It operated on only one transmitting wire instead of two as did the old tickers.

WELCOME THE NEW BANK

On Saturday Thief River Falls will return to its former status as a two bank town. There was a time when local "pointers with pride" blushed and stammered a little when they admitted that we had only four banks. In those days banks were like filling stations are today—a couple on every corner—and if a man in a town of this size wasn't at least a vice president of a bank it meant that somehow or other he just hadn't made a success of life. Then came the lean years when we boasted that we still had one bank open and vice presidents used the back door lest, by entering thru the front, they might start a rumor that there was a run on the bank.

Fortunately the days of those extremes are now a matter of history. Those who operate banks today, or are in a position to open new ones, have a right to call themselves bankers. And with the opening of the Northern State Bank Thief River Falls will have a right to tell the world that in this city there are two banks.

The new bank brings to the city the prestige of two men who, as bankers, have survived the depression. These men, George Belte and C. M. Berg, who have been associated together in the operation of banks at Gonvick, McIntosh and Erskine, have gained state-wide recognition for the able manner in which they have piloted their banks thru the financial storms of recent years.

With them in the new organization are those three stockholders of the former First National Bank of this city who stood by the ship when that institution stranded on a political bar a couple of years ago. It is to the credit of Rasmus Oen, O. D. Ostby, and E. M. Bennes that their bank paid its depositors a hundred cents on the dollar. These men have not only the respect but also the good will of the community.

So from every standpoint the new bank starts out as a strong bank, strong financially and strong in the sense that its officers and directors are well known and well thought of in this section of the state. We join with the rest of the community in welcoming this new organization to our city and in extending to its officers and directors our best wishes for the success of their new undertaking.

Consumers, protesting the high price of pork chops, have been assured by AAA officials that the slaughtering of six million pigs and a quarter of a million sows in 1933 had nothing to do with the present shortage of pork and the incidental high prices. And here, all this time, we have been under the impression that the one purpose of the slaughter was to create a shortage so that prices would advance. Now the only thing we don't understand about this proposition is why were the pigs slaughtered?

Federal Public Works Project No. 409, the new post office to you, is at least holding its own these days. We don't know what the cause of the present delay is and don't dare to inquire. All we are reasonably certain of is that mail will continue to be distributed from the same old stand for quite some time to come.

The untimely death of Will Rogers might properly be classified as a national tragedy. No individual contributed more than he to the maintaining of a proper balance in the country's state of mind. In him were combined the qualities of a court jester and a sage. He had a knack of getting down to fundamentals by the most direct route, digging out the little grain of truth from the sands of confusion and making it sparkle in a setting of humor. His knowledge was not the borrowed wisdom of books. His observations were the products of a keen mind, broadened by an understanding of human shortcomings and mellowed by a kindly disposition. His death is truly an irreparable national loss.

Even though harvest returns are not up to earlier expectations, this territory has little reason to complain this year. Compared with other communities our circumstances are good. This fact is brought home quite forcefully by complaints that come from the large area that suffered from the drouth last year. This year they have plenty of feed but very little livestock to feed it to and practically no livestock to market. We are fortunate in that our supply of livestock is at least up to, if not above, normal, with good prospects for a fair return.

A merchant advertising "home grown celery" this week prompted us to make a few inquiries. It was the first time we had seen the vegetable offered as a local product. The result of our research was the information that this crop was grown at Staples where one or two farmers have developed it as a major product. Here is a product for which there is a ready market that one of our local truck farmers could do some interesting experimenting with.

He that is good is free, though he be a slave; and he that is evil is a slave though he be a king.—Augustine.

Of course 1935 will always be remembered as the year they started building the post office but the really outstanding development in the city that will distinguish this year from all others will be the passing of the East Side automobile grave yard. There is no longer any question as to whether or not we should have a celebration this fall.

300-INCH TELESCOPE PLANNED
(London News)

The astronomers are dreaming of still larger telescopes, which will enable them to discover more of the secrets of the skies than ever before.

At the moment the 200-inch telescope being prepared for use in California is the world's largest telescope, but the Astronomer Royal has revealed the fact that preliminary designs for a 300-inch instrument have already been prepared.

If this instrument is ever constructed, it is estimated that the weight of all the moving parts of the instrument will be about sixteen hundred tons. The observer would be housed in a cage on the instrument itself.

There is nothing impossible in such a giant telescope. Dr. John Hostetter, director of research at the glassworks which made the 200-incher, recently said that the experience gained in casting the reflectors for this great telescope convinced him that one three hundred inches in diameter could be cast.

He also gave an interesting glimpse of what a telescope this size could do. It would, he said, bring into the observer's vision objects of five feet in diameter upon the surface of the moon.

THE ISSUE OF FREEDOM
(Industrial News Bureau)

A recent editorial in Liberty said: "Our pioneer ancestors were determined to be free men. They wanted the privilege of guiding their own destiny, of forming their own government, of living their own lives in accordance with the dictates of their conscience and intelligence. And they valued their citizenship, the Constitutional rights delegated to them. As citizens they were far better informed about their government than we are today. We were born into it. It has come to us through inheritance. And like the idle shiftless sons of rich men, having made no sacrifices for our liberties, we value them lightly. And perhaps much of the freedom we now enjoy may be lost before we awaken to the dangers that now confront us."

Too many Americans pay no attention to government. They accept the proposal and passage of laws that are opposed to both the letter and spirit of the Constitution without complaint. They watch the growth of political bureaucracy, and the centralization of political power, without the slightest regard as to what that may do to our institutions.

ESSENTIALLY A LOCAL PROBLEM
(Montevideo News)

Recent developments in the state emergency relief administration have culminated in the recommendation that the whole program be returned to the system of county control of both work and direct relief expenditures, a victory for those Minnesota counties which earlier in the year revolted against the state set-up.

Without going into the merits of the controversy over the relief situation, it is apparent that relief administration could doubtless be more efficiently handled under local control, altho such control now is made much more difficult by reason of the liberal manner in which state and federal relief funds have been poured into the local communities and the further fact that the problem as a whole is much more complex than that which the counties and municipalities have had to contend with in normal times. They are not exactly prepared to step into the breach at a moment's notice.

However, the federal government has definitely set itself to the withdrawal from all direct relief operations, emphasizing the work relief program instead, and the state executive council apparently favors the state's withdrawing from this field also, except for a check on the use of state funds.

Administration of poor relief has always been regarded as a local problem, one which the local units of government are best able to handle, both thru governmental agencies and voluntary organizations. If the still greatly enlarged relief problem is to be returned to local administration, it is to be hoped, however, that after the rather prolonged period of uncertainty and experimentation to meet the emergency, a consistent and well-planned program will be worked out.

THE FIVE BILLION DOLLAR LOBBY
(Chicago Tribune)

Mr. Roosevelt's control of Congress is neither magical nor mysterious. The controls are in the allocation of public money to political constituencies. Each member of Congress has people back home who expect him to get part of the 5 billion dollar work relief fund. The money can be given or withheld. A project can be rated good or it can be rated bad. When Congress appropriated the biggest lump sum of history it obeyed the command that no restrictions be attached to the use of it. Mr. Roosevelt has a final decision over the distribution.

A congressman knows that opposition to a White House bill will put him in the black list.

The political work fund works two ways. It bribes the congressman to vote for White House bills regardless of his judgment, and later it is to degrade the electorate into re-electing New Dealers. That is why every flicker of independence in Congress quickly flickers out. It may be that nothing can long resist the corruptive influence of 5 billion dollars used at every point to compel obedience and force legislation.

The five billion dollar fund rules Congress and leaves the Supreme Court and the free press the only uncontrolled institutions in the country.

STAMP COLLECTORS WIN VICTORY
(Duluth Herald)

With the announcement by the postoffice department that it took in $1,6??,717.66 on its sale of uncut and ungummed postage stamps the incident, which enlivened national politics last winter, appears to be closed. The ending seems to be a happy one for all. The collectors have won an important victory in their stout resistance to an offensive, if petty, case of personal privilege—the distribution, by the postmaster general, of sheets of stamps of a kind the public could not purchase. The postoffice department has the added revenue as a salve for its injured pride, and historians of the future will have a bright paragraph with which to leaven the dreary recital of the year's wrangles.

Every day evidence in abundance is furnished substantiating Barnum's philosophy. Last week in Minneapolis two oil royalty salesmen were arrested charged with selling unregistered oil royalties. These men, according to the securities division, have been operating about two years in Minnesota and the Dakotas, the clients being mainly widows and aged people. Many of the sales were made by exchanging stocks and bonds owned by their clients for oil royalties, the selling talk being that the monthly income from the oil royalties was greater than the return on the stocks and bonds. Of course, it was only a selling talk, the representations, to put it mildly, being "greatly exaggerated."—Ada Index.

When Greenbacks Were Issued
Greenbacks were issued by the United States at the time of the Civil war, based on the credit of the country and not secured by gold or silver on deposit. They were printed on one side in green ink. The highest amount at any time outstanding was $449,338,902 on January 3, 1864. In May, 1878, the amount had been reduced to $346,681,016, when congress forbade any further retirement of the notes from circulation.

Capitol News Review

Plans for decentralizing state relief activities as authorized by the state executive council are being worked out by L. P. Zimmerman, S.E.R.A. administrator, who has conferred with federal relief officials concerning the proposed system. Under this plan, submitted to the executive council by Mr. Zimmerman, both direct and work relief will be administered by the counties under the supervision of S. E. R. A. in the effort to reduce costs and insure more satisfactory results. It was proposed along with the request for $1,000,000 additional federal relief funds due to the failure of W. P. A. to immediately take over the present relief load.

Mr. Zimmerman pointed out that this system, when in full operation, will answer the criticism of many counties about the methods of directing relief activities and will work in with the desire of the federal government to get away from the direct relief business. The S. E. R. A. will give the state supervision of state funds used for relief purposes.

The Division of Women and Children of the Minnesota Industrial Commission collected $1,229.67 from 15 firms in unpaid minimum wages due minor workers during the month of July. The largest amounts paid were wage adjustments due minor workers in manufacturing establishments, next came those in printing plants, and third were for employes in grocery stores. It is apparent that employes received low earnings in those industries where competition is keenest.

Glaring head lights have caused many accidents in Minnesota this year, Mr. Arnoldy said.

Commissioner of Insurance, Frank Yetka has issued a warning to the general public not to purchase insurance from companies not licensed to do business in this state. Complaints, the commissioner said, have flooded his office of agents soliciting accident and health insurance for the Pacific International Health association, of San Francisco, an unlicensed company.

A commission of five experts has been appointed by Carl R. Erickson, commissioner of purchases, with the consent of the department of administration and finance, to analyze all bids for coal for state institutions. The commission consists of Dr. W. F. Holman, supervising engineer, University of Minnesota; L. L. Wood, combustion engineer, University of Minnesota; Ole Westby, chief engineer, University of Minnesota; G. M. Orr, consulting engineer, Minneapolis, and A. D. Hell, chemist, Van Clive Laboratories, Minneapolis. The award of the contracts will be made on the basis of recommendations of this committee. The state buys approximately 1,123,450 tons of coal each year for its more than 30 institutions. The whole is purchased on the B. T. U. basis, which is determined by chemical analysis.

Contract for the Police Radio Broadcast transmitting and receiving equipment for the State Bureau of Criminal Apprehension was awarded last week by the commission of administration and finance to the low bidders, Graybar Electric Company of Minneapolis, in the amount of $9,864.20. A new ruling has just been issued in the state insurance department. No agent or company, under this ruling, is allowed to use literature which contains ratings in order to solicit business. Some time ago, O. L. Kaupanger, executive secretary of the Minnesota division of the Izaak Walton league, bitterly criticized the C. C. C. contending that it was destructive of wild life in this state. However, after having taken a trip through the sections where the C. C. C. engages in forestry work, Mr. Kaupanger apparently has changed his mind. Changing one's mind when one discovers he is in error is always a commendable thing—and it is in this case—although it is regretable that the Izaak Walton secretary did not make his investigation before he made his charges.

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ had better watch out or it will be called a communistic organization by the American Liberty League, the new witch-hunting organization of this country. The Council, in the Labor Sunday message broadcast by its executive committee, demanded that the Christians of this nation fight for a new economic system, one which does away with the greed of the profit system. It also deplored the suppression of freedom and the lowering of living standards while concentrated surpluses pile up higher and higher because the average man and woman have not the necessary purchasing power.

The State of Minnesota established an all-time low record for the entire United States in selling $790,000 worth of certificates of indebtedness of the Department of Rural Credit at a rate of .55 of one per cent. This would indicate that the eastern banks who bought this issue believe that the finances of the state are in such shape that they are willing to loan their money at such a low rate that the state will only have to pay .55 per cent interest. This does not indicate that the state is in the "red", as some politicians would try to make us believe.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK
(By U. S. Department of Agricultural Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 19, 1935 (U.S.D.A.): Receipts of 6,200 cattle here Monday were the largest for any day this year to date. Hog receipts were light but the liberal marketward movement of sheep and lambs continued. About 160 cars of cattle came from western areas, so that grassers predominated and grainfeds were in small supply, the latter selling fully steady, the lower grade and grassy material weak to 25c lower. Better fed steers turned at $10.00-11.00, plainer short-feds down to $8.50, grass killers $5.50-8.50. Good to choice fed heifers brought $9.00-10.75, grassers $5.00-7.50, cutter cows $3.50-4.25, western beef cows mostly $6.00 and down, very good light cows up to $7.00. Bulls turned largely at $4.50-5.25, heavy bolognas $5.35-5.75. Vealers were about steady, good to choice at $7.50-9.00.

Stocker and feeder trade was less active than last week, steady to 25c lower, medium to good stocker and feeder steers $5.75-7.25, best load lots held at $7.50-8.00.

Better 150-250 lb. hogs brought $11.60-11.90, 260-325 lb. $11.00-11.50, most good sows $10.25-10.50 big weights down to $10.00, pigs $11.50 down, a few $11.75.

Around 30 cars or more of choice Washington lambs sold straight and with light sort Monday at $9.10, bulk natives $8.75, fat yearlings $6.00-6.50 or more, fat ewes $2.00-3.25.

PRESIDENT SIGNS SOCIAL SECURITY BILL LAST WEEK

Carrying Out of Law Hinges on Cooperation of States

President Roosevelt last week signed the social security bill, launching the New Deal's vast program to protect millions against poverty in their old-age and in times of future unemployment.

Championed by the president to help Americans "meet some of the major economic hazards of life," the measure:

1. Provides for federal contributions of up to $15 per month per person, starting soon, to help states pension their most needy aged residents.

2. Establishes a great national annuity system by which an estimated 25,000,000 workers and their employers will be taxed billions of dollars through the years and will be paid $10 to $85 a month by the government when they are 65 and jobless.

3. Creates joint state-federal unemployment insurance systems to provide limited benefits in times of future unemployment.

4. Assists the states immediately in caring for dependent mothers and children, the blind and the ill.

About $100,000,000 of federal funds are called for financing the federal share of immediate assistance to the aged, and to mothers, children and the blind. Congress is expected to appropriate the actual funds before adjourning this session.

BANGS TEST WILL BE CONTINUED IN COUNTY SHORTLY

New Contracts to be Signed up in Near Future, Says R. M. Douglass

The new Bang's disease testing contracts have been drawn up and signing of contracts will be started in the near future, says County Agent R. M. Douglass. The new agreement provides for a maximum of four free tests counting those already had. The contract is available to everybody, whether the herds have been tested before or not.

Those having no reactors in the last test are especially urged to take advantage of the supplementary state agreement and proceed to have their herds accredited. This may be done by complying with the agreement which provides for:

Testing of infected herds that have already received the four federal tests.

For making additional tests on herds of less than five cattle over six months of age that have reacted negatively to one federal test.

Additional tests on those having passed two federal tests for the purpose of state accreditation.

The state agreement does not provide for payment of indemnity but if both the federal and state agreements are signed; any reactors found by the state test will be paid for at the same rate as under the federal test up to a maximum of four tests, therefore the owners of herds that have reacted negatively to the federal test are especially urged to sign both agreements.

Under the state plan a "Bang's disease free approved herd" certificate will be issued to owners of herds in which no evidence of Bang's Disease has been found in one blood test of all cattle including all calves and bulls. This certificate is valid for a period of six months if not cancelled.

If no evidence of Bang's disease is found after three blood tests at least six months apart, a "Bang's disease free accredited herd" certificate will be issued which will be valid for one year unless cancelled.

Educational and sign up meetings will soon be held in the various parts of the county to give all farmers a chance to sign up under this new set-up.

RURAL CREDIT BUREAU REPORTS SALES INCREASE

Department in 1934 Earned Three Per Cent on Its Investment

A sharp increase in sales of farms the first half of this year as compared to a year ago, and a much larger income from rentals of state owned farms were revealed Saturday by Ted Arens, conservator of the state rural credit department.

The figures were such as showing an improvement in agriculture generally, and as indicating that the state may make out better in its adventure into lending of money on farms than has been predicted by critics of the plan.

Most startling of the increases was that in the money value of the farms sold, an increase of about 91 per cent over the sales in the first six months of 1934. The actual number of farms sold showed an increase of 31 per cent, the difference being made up by the purchase of larger and better farms this year.

The rentals for the first half of the year totaled $161,679 which is $42,603 more than the $119,076 taken in last year up to July 1. This is an increase of 36 per cent.

Even under the rentals received last year the department was earning 3 per cent on the investment in state farms, and a bigger return is indicated this year. Mr. Arens pointed out that the department itself earns but a fraction over 1 per cent on the loans which it has out, after paying interest on the money it has borrowed.

LITTLE GIRL'S HEAD GOES IN BUT NOT OUT

Luverne.—Mary Helen McRobert, agile three-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McRobert, had an unpleasant experience when she squirmed her head into the steering wheel of her parents' car and caught it so tightly it was necessary to saw the wheel in order to release her. The little girl was seated in her mother's lap behind the wheel of the car, when she suddenly reached over for something and stuck her head between the spokes of the wheel. Unable to extricate herself, she became rigid. Try as they might, Mr. and Mrs. McRobert simply could not release her. A saw was then put into action and in a few minutes Mary Helen was freed and none the worse for her experience.

Indian Village Will be Feature of Minnesota Fair Aug. 31 to Sept. 7

The oldest living resident of Minnesota, 107 year old Chief O-Din-E-Gun, will rule over the Indian village at the Minnesota State Fair, August 31 to September 7.

A complete cross-section of primitive Indian life will be shown in this new fair feature. The village will include more than 30 Indian men, women and children brought down from the White Earth reservation with complete equipment for an aborigin settlement.

Indications point to the largest opening day crowd in the history of the fair. Key Day, to be observed Saturday, August 31, has caught on like wildfire with thousands of persons from all parts of the state planning trips to take advantage of the low, opening day bargain prices. Key Day tickets, selling for 50 cents, will be good for admission to the grounds, good for automobile or admission to the Indian Village, good for a seat in the bleachers or unreserved section of the grandstand for the afternoon automobile races, and for two rides on the midway. The value of these tickets, if bought singly is $1.20. Key Day tickets can be purchased now or at the gates of the fair the opening Saturday.

$30,000 BRIDGE BIDS CALLED FOR AUGUST 27

Bids on two highway bridges to cost approximately $30,000 have been called for August 27, according to a highway department bulletin. Both are to be of the truss span type and both 90 feet in length, one located 1½ miles north of Houston on Trunk Highway 76 and the other four miles north of Houston on the same highway. Both bridges will have 24-foot roadways and will replace 16-foot structures over Money creek, which were recently damaged by flood waters.

254 WPA PROJECTS APPROVED IN SUM OF EIGHT MILLION

Will Provide Jobs for 9,617 Persons for Years, Says Christgau

In a record-breaking week, Victor Christgau, State Works Progress Administrator approved 254 projects for $8,327,273 and speeded them on their way to President Roosevelt and his advisory committee in allotments for release of funds.

The week's batch of projects, in which 54 counties were represented brings the total approved by state headquarters to date to 641 projects amounting to $23,009,353, the state administrator announced.

Christgau said the group of projects sent to Washington during the past week will provide steady jobs for 9,617 persons for a year.

Of the total submitted to date, federal funds will amount to $19,878,494 with local sponsors furnishing $3,130,859 of this sum. Labor will receive $16,856,027 with an aggregate of $3,022,000 to be expended for materials and other expenses.

More than $500,000 in sewing projects for 11 counties was approved by Christgau. Intended to meet the clothing needs of the relief population, the sewing projects will provide a year's employment for 8000 seamstresses. Counties asking for sewing projects funds included Goodhue, Cass, Freeborn, Martin, Kittson, Carver, Yellow Medicine, Marshall, Hennepin and Ramsey.

Christgau said he found "real encouragement in the manner in which the work is being speeded up.

"We have made a good start," he said, "for practically every county in the state projects have been submitted to Washington. But I want to reemphasize the importance of getting applications initiated, approved and started to Washington at the earliest date. Federal authorities have announced that federal funds will not be available for relief after November 1. Instead, the federal government plans to put people to work with work projects. Consequently, unless the community wishes to shoulder the whole program of relief, it is urged that they rush work projects into district offices immediately.

"There are no short-cuts in the procedure required for approval and allocation of funds. We can only urge immediate action in the hope that communities will avoid delays later, when the local relief problem becomes very pressing, after federal funds are discontinued."

Variety of Domestic Science Courses Given at Northwest School

Cooking, sewing, household art, home nursing, household sanitation and home management are emphasized in the home economics work offered at the Northwest School of Agriculture. Four full-time instructors are in charge of the lecture and laboratory work.

Miss Retta Bede, who has been a member of the staff for the past ten years, directs the work in cooking and home management while Miss Fanny Lippitt presents the work in household art. Work in clothing and textiles is given by Elsie Mae Kingston, a graduate of the Iowa State College. Miss Lydia Dahlen, school nurse, is in charge of the work in home nursing and household sanitation.

The climax in home economics work comes in the third year when the girls registered for home management occupy the beautiful home management quarters which are fully equipped with modern living room, dining room, kitchen and bedroom furniture and equipment. The girls plan and buy their own meals and receive practical training not only in the serving of meals but in the entertainment of guests.

All interested in attending the Northwest School this fall should write immediately for further information.

Food in Tins

The method of preserving food in tins is probably one of the greatest inventions in historic times. It has permitted man to import and store his food in any quantity and at any time, thus relieving him of his dependence upon harvests and local supply. Canned food for his armies, it has been said, would have enabled Napoleon to conquer the world.—Collier's Weekly.

Itasca Pageants Given on Two Coming Sundays

Two more showings of the historical pageant at Itasca state park will be given this summer, and dates being next Sunday, August 25, and the following Sunday, September 1. The Wadena band will appear in a concert next Sunday afternoon at 1:30, followed an hour later by the pageant. On September 1 the Pillsbury band from Minneapolis will be the musical attraction. Large gatherings have witnessed previous presentations of the pageant during the summer.

1935 MINNESOTA OPEN SEASONS FOR HUNTING ARE SET

Legal to Shoot Prairie Chickens Here September 21 to Sept. 29

Legal open seasons for the taking of ringnecked pheasants, Prairie chickens, bob-white quail and wild waterfowl were designated for 1935 by the Minnesota conservation commission in a meeting Friday in St. Paul. Orders issued by Erling Swenson, director of the division of game and fish, Minnesota state department of conservation, will regulate hunting of upland game birds. An executive order by Governor Floyd B. Olson will control hunting of wild waterfowl, state regulations to coincide with federal stipulations for this season.

The season on ruffed grouse, otherwise known as native partridge, will be closed during 1935 throughout the entire state. Similar closed seasons were also declared on mourning doves, upland plover and woodcock, by the commission, composed of John R. Foley, Wabasa, chairman; Richard R. Bailey, Virginia, secretary; George W. Friedrich, St. Cloud, and R. J. Ahlstrom, Minneapolis.

Director Swenson warned hunters that ringnecked pheasant shooting will be allowed only afternoons during the open seasons with noon marking the opening of each days shooting and sunset each day bringing the shooting to a close. He also cautioned that only in certain specified counties is one hen pheasant permitted in the daily bag and two hen pheasants in the possession limit. No hunting is permitted in Ramsey county, Mr. Swenson pointed out.

In fourteen Minnesota counties, Kanabec, Pine, Carlton, Aitkin, Lake, St. Louis, Itasca, Koochiching, Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Pennington, Marshall, Roseau and Kittson, it will be legal to take prairie chickens from noon September 21 to sunset September 29, inclusive. Time for taking will be from sunrise to sunset each day except that the season shall open at noon on the first day. Five birds are the daily bag limit and ten birds may be retained in possession.

METEOR PROVES TO BE FINE FERTILIZER

Mantorville.—Numerous fragments of a strange rock found early this spring have produced an unusually heavy crop of grain on the farm of Oscar Suhr, near Mantorville. Early in the year Suhr brought in specimens of the rock pieces which were scattered over an area of perhaps 100 feet in diameter. It was believed that a meteor which had not entirely burned out in the stratosphere struck the earth at that point, scattering numerous rocks about. Along with a crop of barley that field was seeded to clover. The clover and barley both grew very rank in that spot, while in other parts of the field the grain was crinkled and lodged, it stood up strong and straight in the spot where the unusual rocks were scattered.

WELL SPOUTS SMALL FISH

Moorhead.—A flowing well on the John Johnson farm in Spring Prairie township is emitting small fish with the gush of water. Mr. Johnson believes the fish are trout, although specimens examined by a local sportsman several years ago were reported to be from the perch family. The fish are the size of small minnows and soon die after getting into the warm surface water. How the fish got into the underground lake or river has not been determined.

GOODRIDGE

Four H Picnic

The Reiner 4-H Club will hold a Community picnic at the Sigerud farm Sunday, Aug. 25. This is located 8 miles east and one half miles south on the state road east of Goodridge. Free coffee will be served at noon and refreshments will be served all day by the club members. The program will consist of various contests and a kitten ball game. Prizes will be awarded to the winners by the Reiner Four-H club. Everyone welcome.

No Base Ball Game

Because of so much rain the latter part of the week and also the heavy shower early Sunday the ball ground at Oklee was too wet to play on. Just where the boys will be playing this coming Sunday is not known yet. They have several more games to play before the quit for the season.

Guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Prestabak were Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bergh of Erskine and Mr. and Mrs. A. Hammerstein, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Engen and Miss Hazel Erickson.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Iverson and sons, and Ellard Iverson spent the week end visiting relatives at Larimore, N. D. and at East Grand Forks. — Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Bergner, who have been visiting at the home of their daughter Mrs. John Gonnering left Friday for Argyle where they will make their home. They have resided for several years in Montana and just returned here this summer.—Carl and Joe Christianson motored to Erskine on Wednesday on business.

Red River Valley History

By Win V. Working

Origin of Red Lake Co. Names

In the study of Red Lake county geographical names we encounter something interesting concerning the name of the county, plain and prosaic as it may appear. The Upham account reads:

Gilfillan, who was a missionary to the Ojibways of northwestern Minnesota from 1873 to 1898, wrote in 1885 that the Ojibway name of this lake, written by him 'Misquagumiwi saugaigan, Redwater lake,' perhaps alludes to 'reddish fine gravel or sand along the shore in places, which in storms gets wrought into the water near the edges,' or to the reddish color of streams flowing into the lake from bogs on its north side, probably reddened by bog iron ore. He later wrote, however, in a letter of February, 1899, that these are erroneous conjectures of some of the Ojibways, and that he had obtained more reliable information, so that he could then confidently state the origin of this name, as follows: 'Red lake is so called from the color of the lake (reflecting the redness of sunset) on a calm summer evening, when unruffled by wind and in a glassy state, at which times it is of a distinctly [illegible] color... It is not called Red lake from any battle fought on its shores.'

"Red lake and Red river appear with these names, in French, on the map by Verendrye (1737) and on Bauche's map (1754); and the lake is so named on the somewhat later maps of Jeffreys and Carver. From information obtained during his travels in Minnesota in 1766 and 1767, Carver mapped Red lake and the Red Lake river, giving them exactly their present names. Their earliest [illegible], however, from [illegible], was by Thompson (in 1798), who, in April, 1798, reached Red lake, coming by way of the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers, and thence going on [illegible] to Leech and Cass lakes.

"It tells us something of the appreciation of natural beauty and grandeur by the Indians, that they took from the hues of sunset the name of the largest lake in Minnesota, whence we now have, by derivation, the names of two large rivers, of a county, and its county seat.

"Information on names was received from Edward L. Healy, real estate dealer, Z. A. Charlier, deputy county auditor, Ovide Emard, county treasurer, and Frank Jeffers, register of deeds, each of Red Lake Falls, interviewed during visits there, the first in August, 1909, and the others in September, 1916.

"Brooks is a village of the Soo railway in Poplar River township. This name is borne also by a township and village in Maine, and by villages and post offices in 12 other states. Brown's Creek township has a stream so named, tributary to the Black river, probably commemorating a pioneer settler or an early hunter and trapper. Delorme, a station of the Northern Pacific railway in the south edge of Lake Pleasant township, was named for Ambrose Delorme, an adjoining homestead farmer.

"Dorothy, a Northern Pacific station in Louisville, was named by J. P. Matthews of Red Lake Falls. This feminine name, derived from the ancient Greek language, means 'the gift of God.' Emardville township received its name in honor of Pierre Emard, who was born in Longueuil on the St. Lawrence river in Canada, opposite to Montreal, in 1835, and came to Minnesota in 1878, settling as a homesteader in section 21, Red Lake Falls. One of his sons is the county treasurer.

"Equality township was named by its people in the petition for its organization. Garnes township bears the name of one of the earliest settlers, E. K. Garnes, an immigrant from Norway. Gervais township was named in honor of Isaiah Gervais, who was born at Fort Garry (now Winnipeg), Manitoba, Dec. 10, 1831; came to Minnesota, and lived in St. Paul; settled as a homestead farmer in section 26, Red Lake Falls, in 1876; and died there, Nov. 2, 1888.

"Huot is a little village on the Red Lake river in section 28, Louisville. The village and township were each named for Louis Huot, an early French Canadian homesteader there. Lake Pleasant township was named for the former lake and marsh in its section 16, now drained.

"Lambert township was named for Francois Lambert, who was born at St. Ursule, P. Q., March 10, 1847. He came to Minnesota in 1881, settling as a farmer on section 10 in this township, of which he was the treasurer during many years. Louisville township, like its village of Huot, before noted, commemorates Louis Huot, a pioneer farmer. Oklee, a Soo railway village in Lambert, bears the name of Ole R. Lee, a Scandinavian settler, on whose farm the village was built."—Northwestern Feature Service.

TRANSIENT BELIEVES IN CHANGING SOCKS OFTEN

Breckenridge.—Donald McCarthy, a transient, believes in changing his socks often. While visiting in the city he discovered he was with only one pair of foot coverings and no money with which to purchase another pair. Donald thought the matter over and then walked into the Variety Store. From one of the counters he picked up twenty pair and walked boldly out the front door. Police chief, Edward Kuehn and officer Ben Edelhoff found McCarthy in the railway yards and took him to jail. A search brought forth the socks. Justice of the Peace Roberta Nelson read the complaint to McCarthy. He claimed he took the socks but did not do so wilfully. He was given thirty days in jail. Alone in his cell with only one pair of socks, McCarthy expects to do his washing daily, as soiled socks hurt his feet.

Wearing Quality of Textiles

In a test of the wearing quality of various textiles it was found that for every 100 days of wear given by cotton, linen gave 13 days, wool 23, silk 4, and rayon 2.

SLEEPING SICKNESS HITS WILKIN HORSES

Breckenridge.—Sleeping sickness in horses has been reported in Wilkin county. First symptoms of the disease, caused by a virus, are that the horse slows down in work, stands by himself with drooping head in the pasture and leans against his stall. Later it is almost impossible to rouse the horse, and almost every case is fatal. Serum treatment usually saves the horse in 50 per cent of the cases.

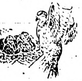
There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types — the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine — an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful... three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.



What Good Is a Baby?

With time and training a baby homing pigeon might become another Cher Ami... the little bird that was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for bravery in the World War after it delivered the message that saved the famed Whittlesey's Lost Battalion.

Bell's First Telephone

In its babyhood, few people could foresee how serviceable the telephone could become. Now it saves life and property every day. Millions of times a day it brings folks together.

Telephone service, as we know it, is the result of years of coordinated effort by the Bell System. Its organization is simple. In it are 24 Associated Companies, such as this company, each serving a part of the United States.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, parent company of the System, coordinates their operations, provides [illegible] a general staff service and operates the long distance lines that connect them into a nationwide [illegible]. Research and development for the System are done by the Bell Telephone Laboratories... manufacturing and purchasing by the Western Electric Company.

One of the 850,000 persons who have savings invested in the Bell System

HAS TWO FISH TO MOUNT INSTEAD OF ONLY ONE

—Detroit Lakes.— One proud angler from North Dakota got a little more than he expected when he took a 25 pound Northern pike to Judge Andrew Ostra, Ponsford, to be mounted. The judge is an expert taxidermist, and does a great deal of this work during the summer. In dressing the large fish for mounting, the judge discovered in its gullet a walleyed pike almost 14 inches in length, which apparently had been swallowed just before he took the fisherman's hook and was himself caught. Without instructions from the angler, the judge mounted both fish, so that the North Dakotan will have a far more interesting exhibit than he had anticipated.

ORDERS 80 LBS. DRIED CLOVER BLOSSOMS FOR TEA

Mazeppa.—An aged Minneapolis man, who does not drink tea or coffee and is fond of sweet clover tea, has placed an order with a Wabasha county farm for 80 pounds of dried sweet clover blossoms. Every blossom must have the leaves removed, and insects of every sort must be eliminated. As a bushel basket contains about seven pounds of fresh clover, it can be seen that collecting 80 pounds of the dried blossoms is no small job. After picking, the clover it must be laid to dry. The ladies of the house are doing the job and figure that the dried clover is worth about a dollar a pound.

PARDON ME, SIR, BUT CAN YOU TELL ME WHAT COFFEE HAS THE RICHEST FLAVOR?
NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE, MY MAN. THE VAN CLEVE LABORATORIES REPORT THAT NASH'S TOASTED COFFEE CONTAINS 35.7% MORE FLAVOR THAN OTHER COMMERCIAL BRANDS.

The flavor of coffee comes from an aromatic oil known as caffeol. Scientists can actually determine the flavor of coffee by extracting this oil and weighing it on a scale—and tell you scientifically which brand possesses the most flavor.

The Van Cleve Laboratories, food chemists, recently analyzed seven popular brands of coffee. Nash's Toasted Coffee was found to contain 35.7% more flavor producing oil than the highest of the six other brands—scientific proof of its richer, deeper flavor, a flavor that millions pronounce, "Every Drop Delicious."

ONLY 5 PER CENT WHEAT ACRES CUT IS ASKED FOR '36

Crop Shortage Is Cause of Change in Fifteen Per Cent Requirement

Farmers who sign the 1936-39 wheat allotment contract will be required to reduce their 1936 wheat acreage only five per cent below their average 1930-32 acreage, according to word received at University Farm, St. Paul, last week from George E. Farrell, chief of the Grains Division of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The new contract, Mr. Farrell announces, will be ready to offer to farmers by the end of August.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace previously had announced that a 15 per cent acreage reduction would be required for 1936, but this percentage was changed when it became apparent that the 1935 wheat crop of the United States and certain other surplus producing countries would be smaller than previously had been expected.

Better Times No Excuse for Raising Tax Levies, Taxpayers Head Asserts

Although agricultural and industrial skies are somewhat brighter than in some time, which holds promise of increased revenue for earners throughout Minnesota, tax-levying bodies are warned to "go slow" until the taxpayer can get his feet planted on more sound financial ground.

Increased levies in many instances have been noted for county purposes recently, many of them based on potential incomes that conceivably could not materialize. With last year's tax deficit boosting this year's taxes, together with several mills increase in state taxes, optimism alone is not a safe yardstick by which to measure tax revenues, James P. McDonnell, president of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, told a statewide meeting of county taxpayer officials at the Nicollet Hotel in Minneapolis, Saturday.

"The tax reduction program is now at the cross roads. Taxpayers should exert continued pressure against unjustified tax levies, even if times hold letter promise than last year. Many taxpayers are still struggling to pay back taxes overdue two, three and four years; no new burdens should be added to that load at this time", Mr. McDonnell stated.

"One good crop, even at good prices, is not going to restore the farm-owner overnight to the secure place had years ago. It will take time and patience to build up herds of cattle; it will need intensive toil to fertilize overworked land; it will take money to repair and repaint the buildings. It will require a much better income than that of recent years to take care of mortgages and interest and taxes."

Farmers to Fight for New Measure if AAA is Found Unconstitutional

If the Agricultural Adjustment Act is declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, organized Minnesota farmers will be ready to lead a national fight to secure farm price legislation that is constitutional, says J. S. Jones, executive secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation.

"Minnesota farmers are aroused over the opposition of processors to the AAA," said Jones. "They take the same attitude toward assaults on the processing tax and the Adjustment Act that industrialists take whenever a reduction in the idustrial tariff is mentioned," said Mr. Jones.

"Farmers are determined not to lose the ground gained. They believe that they are entitled to the protective powers of government in maintaining a fair exchange value for farm products. They feel that the price of many things they buy could be cut in half were it not for the tariff, monopolies, limited production and industrial price fixing.

"There is plenty of sentiment in Minnesota in support of the move proposed by Texas farmers to test the validity of industrial tariffs. The tariff, farmers contend, has the effect of taking money away from them and other consumers in the form of higher prices and giving it to protected industries."

The Panther

The name panther applies to no species of animal, in the sense, for example, of the word "tiger," which identifies a particular kind of beast, writes G. B. Turner, in the Kansas City Times. It is a generic name that serves to describe several related species among which are the cougar of North America, the jaguar of South America and the leopards of Africa and Asia. The so-called "black panther," supposed to be one of the most difficult of all animals to tame, is in reality a black-coated leopard.

STATE STARTS NEW HIGHWAY BUILDING PROGRAM SEPT. 20

Only Short Lengths of Concrete Scheduled for This Falls

First contracts for state highway construction under the regular federal aid program for the current fiscal year will be let about September 20, under plans announced today by N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner. Projects involving nearly $1,000,000 will be included in the first letting, it is expected.

Minnesota's participation in the federal aid program was made possible when the state executive council last week authorized issuance of $4,500,000 in state highway bonds to be used in matching federal funds. Approximately $3,400,000 in federal money is available for the year ending next July, and an equal amount for the following year, if matched dollar for dollar.

Plans for a number of construction projects were submitted at once by Mr. Elsberg to the U. S. Bureau of Public roads for approval, after this is obtained the work must be advertised for three weeks before a letting can be held.

Owing to the shortness of the fall construction season in Minnesota, the paving jobs to be let for immediate work will be limited to short lengths. In the first letting there probably will be about a dozen paving jobs of two to three miles each. There will also be a number of grading projects. These can be carried on much later in the season than paving.

District Judge Will Have Officers in Municipal Court Room

District Judge M. A. Brattland of Ada will establish his home in Thief River Falls October 1, it was learned this week. He has rented the home of Herman Wagner located at 621 Bridge st.

This city has the advantage of easy accessibility by rail and highway to all sections of the northern part of the fourteenth judicial district, and a further inducement was the fact that Judge Brattland has several relatives in this community.

An office for the judge will be provided in the municipal court room in the Auditorium, the city council recently having offered the use of the quarters. Space will also be provided for the court reporter, Harley Swenson, now of Warren.

It has not yet been definitely decided by the council what room in the Auditorium will be made available for the municipal court following the arrival of Judge Brattland.

BIBLE DRAMA WAS GIVEN EFFECTIVE PRODUCTION HERE

"The First Commandment" Is Presented Tuesday and Wednesday

"The First Commandment", a Bible spectacle, was successfully presented at the Auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday evenings by Miss MacNiven of the American Educational company under the auspices of the Trinity ladies aid with a large group of local residents participating.

The effectiveness of the production was heightened by the use of authentic costumes and accessories as well as suitable lighting effects, while the religious atmosphere was further carried out by the singing of hymns by a chorus under the direction of S. P. Orwoll.

Among the scenes presented were the selling of Joseph into slavery; Joseph at the court of the Pharoah in Egypt; Moses and Aaron, represented respectively by Rev. E. A. Cooke and Rev. R. M. Fjelstad discussing means of delivering the Israelites from the false gods of the pharaohs; the quest of the Promised Land; and Moses turning his followers away from their false gods and revealing to them the Ten Commandments. Supt. Morris Bye supplied a story that explained the accompanying scenes, the final one of which was a tableau showing the birth of Christ.

MAN KILLED AS AUTO LEAPS 60 FEET THRU AIR

Joseph Bruneau Meets Death North of City Sunday Morning

BELIEF IS HE FELL ASLEEP AT WHEEL

Two Other Minor Accidents Occurred Near City Past Week

Apparently falling asleep at the wheel while returning to this city early Sunday morning, Joseph Bruneau, salesman employed the past two and one-half years by the Northern Chevrolet company, met his death when his car left Highway 32 one-half mile north of the city, sped along the bottom of the ditch for 100 feet and crashed against a cross road, the car hurling a distance of 60 feet thru the air before coming to a stop.

Bruneau, who was thrown clear of the car, sustained a fatal skull fracture. The tracks of the vehicle indicated that the car had for some distance been working over to the left side of the road, and it was evident that it had been traveling at a terrific rate of speed.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday morning in Brooks, the family home of Bruneau, who was 36 years old. The surviving family includes his mother, four brothers and five sisters; David, Albert and Napoleon, at home, and William, living in Massachusetts; Mrs. Henry Fontaine, Beltrami; Mrs. Ella Tougar and Mrs. Eddie Bedard, Manitoba; Mrs. Prosper Davidson, Fort Frances, Ontario; and Mrs. William Benoit in Massachusetts.

Two other automobile mishaps involving local residents occurred during the past week, when cars driven by Bert Mosleth and Abraham Hetland collided Thursday evening on the road south of Greenwood cemetery. Miss Helen Wilson, accompanying Mosleth, sustained cuts about the face from a shattered windshield. Sunday evening a car driven by Dick Nelson suffered considerable damage when it collided with another car on Highway 32 several miles north of Marcoux corner. None of the occupants of either vehicle was injured.

Cow Dies After Being Used for Rifle Target

Use of a cow for a rifle target by a 16-year old boy last Thursday evening resulted in the death of the animal, which was owned by Ole Finberg of Rustad's addition. The boy shot the animal three times from across the river on Tindolph point, explaining his action by saying he did it merely for the purpose of seeing the cow jump. No legal action has been taken against him pending settlement for the value of the animal, the rifle being confiscated by the police. Police Chief A. B. Stenberg today called attention to the fact that it is illegal to use rifles and airguns within the city limits.

GOVERNOR PLANS ON LEGISLATURE MEETING SHORTLY

Purpose Will be to Qualify Under New U. S. Laws, He States

The Minnesota state legislature will be called in extraordinary session to enact an unemployment insurance law so the state can qualify for federal aid under the federal-state system of old-age and unemployment insurance set up by congress.

Governor Floyd Olson, who said Thursday while in Washington, D. C., "a special session appears unavoidable," said the session likely would be called for early in November, probably the first week. It will also have to re-enact two old-age pension laws.

The scope of the session will not be determined until the Governor has had an opportunity to confer with leaders of the various groups in the assembly, he said. Whether he will demand a new tax act to meet the state situation, which was left in the air by his veto of the omnibus bill will be determined by these conferences, he said.

The Governor said "there is no way to get federal benefits for unemployment insurance without passing a law," and because of that" a special session appears unavoidable."

Presidential approval of WPA projects at Oakland Park Sanatorium was given Wednesday, it was revealed in a dispatch from Washington. Plans call for the construction of a sewage tank and of a service tunnel between the sanatorium and nurses' home, calling for an outlay of $2,559 by the sponsor and $5,623 in federal funds. Also approved was a sewage project in Warren involving $22,210 in federal funds.

WPA PROJECTS TOTAL $4,842,000 FOR PAST WEEK

State Office Approves Thief River Falls Sidewalk Building Work

JOBS AT HALF-WAY MARK TOWARD GOAL

Projects to Date Call for Expenditure Totaling $27,849,000

The Works Progress administration program to take unemployed off relief rolls and give them steady jobs swept past the halfway mark this week as Victor Christgau, state WPA administrator, announced that sufficient projects have been submitted to Washington to take care of 60 per cent of the state's employable relief load. Included in the list of approved projects is one for an outlay of $19,284 in federal money with $5,510 supplied by the community.

Sixty-five of Minnesota's 87 counties were represented in the 269 work requests, totaling $4,842,456, which cleared the desk of the state administrator this week and were speeded to Washington by air mail for release of funds by the president and his advisory allotment board.

According of the official estimate, the latest group of work plans will provide steady jobs for 6,776 persons for a year. Of the $4,842,000 total, over $3,800,000 would go to labor.

The week's project brought the total thus far for the state to 913 calling for an expenditure of $27,849,173 of which the sponsors' share will be $3,710,278. The proposals are sufficient to provide more than 30,000 persons with jobs for a year.

In the group for the week were 11 conservation projects to cost an estimated $280,246 of which the federal treasury would furnish $183,830 with the balance to come from sponsors. Eight dams to form lakes or restore waters to their former level are among the proposals. The largest conservation projects to be submitted calls for $70,840 for restoration of Wood Lake and Mulligan slough in Watonwan county, once one of southern Minnesota's greatest duck hunting grounds.

A new lake would be formed in Clay county, 13 miles east of Moorhead, under the proposal to build a dam across the north branch of Buffalo river. This project would cost approximately $27,052 with the state department of conservation projects, to cost over $350,000, previously had been approved and submitted to Washington from the state among the week's list, were sewer and water main extensions, public hazard removals, graveling and grading roads, library and sewing projects, public building, park and playground improvements, canning, research, bridge building and school repairs.

Six more counties asked a total of $70,136 for sewing projects through which to provide clothing for their needy families. They were Wabasha, Nobles, Olmsted, Murray, Roseau and Winona. Similar projects totaling more than $500,000 previously had been filed by 11 counties. Two canning projects, to follow harvesting of work garden vegetables were approved for Mower and Freeborn counties.

Total projects for the nine WPA districts in the state, with federal funds and sponsors' contributions include Detroit Lakes district, 164, federal funds $1,462,177, sponsor $254,736.

Pointing out that some areas are far in advance of others in submitting projects, Christgau urged those lagging behind to get their plans under way of consulting with their area engineers at once. To insure the steady flow of federal funds into a community needing assistance with its relief load, he said a reservoir of projects is essential.

WARDEN-BLIDE-RELEASES DEER AFTER HEELING LEG

Hallock.—"Billy" the baby deer brought in with a broken leg by Game Warden Blide last spring is now enjoying himself in the wilds of the poplar grove, east of Kregstads in Hazelton township. Billy suffered a broken leg when hit by a car near Karlstad last May. The bone was set by a local doctor and the fracture healed rapidly. Given excellent care by the Blide children Billy developed into a real pet, eating out of the children's hands and coming when called for his milk. He grew rapidly and it was becoming a problem to keep him inside the pen built for the purpose so it was decided he had reached the age when he could care for himself in the woods. Several deer have been staying this summer in the heavy woods in Hazelton township along the Two river so here with his comrades, protected by law from the hunter's guns Billy will grow up to be a stage estate.

BEAUTY HINTS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The smartest women in this country as well as abroad are wearing vivid nail polish with lipstick to match. Reports from Paris and St. Moritz say that the really chic women there are matching theirs in red and yellowish-red shades. Trick effects such as metallic combinations and odd color schemes have disappeared. The most fashionable colors are coral, cardinal, ruby and the "natural" which is the lightest of the yellow reds. Most Parisian beauticians prefer to cover the entire nail with polish instead of omitting the moon and tip. Some fashionable New Yorkers follow "this" mode, while others prefer the trim look which white moons and tips achieve. The young woman pictured has that look of distinction which perfect grooming gives.

25,000 Potential Upland Game Birds Are Rescued

More than 25,000 upland game bird eggs will have been "rescued" by state game wardens in southern sections of the state before the end of this week, Charles McFarlane, deputy director of the Division of Game and fish, reported. This "conservative estimate" is based on the average receipt of 500 eggs at the state-owned game farm near Madelia, Mr. McFarlane explained.

Game wardens are working on game bird egg rescue work in co-operation with sportsmen's organizations, Boy Scouts, 4-H clubs, rural mail carriers and other interested individuals.

Last reports from the game farm stated that almost 4,000 upland game birds have already been hatched. A 60,000-egg modern incubator was installed to take care of the influx of game bird eggs from practically all southern Minnesota areas.

FLYING TULLIBEE LANDS ON DECK DURING STORM

Warroad.—This is the fish story of the week. It will be told without embellishment. Several persons vouch for its veracity. There is a fish to show for it. On a return journey from the Northwest Angle Fay Young, captain and owner of the S. S. Resolute was holding in close to shore and headed toward Long Point to avoid as much as possible of a storm. One great wave broke over the bow of the boat. When the wave receded a tullibee lay on the deck. There were five tourists on board who had not caught a fish during a five day trip. The opinion was hazarded that the tullibee was just enough of a booster to sacrifice his life that no tourist might leave Warroad without having caught—or been caught by—at least one fish.

CLAIMS BASEBALL RECORD FOR ZUMBROTA BUSHER

Kenyon.—How well do you know your baseball records? Adolph Anderson, ardent baseball fan from Zumbrota is so confident that Art Hanson, Zumbrota first sacker, established on the other day with his "four for four" hitting and errorless day in the field that he has offered a prize of ten dollars to the person showing him positive proof that Hanson's record has ever been equalled in organized baseball. According to Anderson's account, twenty one chances, three of them exceptionally difficult, were cleanly handled for put-outs by Hanson in a ball game between Zumbrota and West Concord, a game won by Zumbrota pitcher. Cleanly handling 21 putouts at first base and at the same time batting 1000 with four clean singles, is a record never surpassed in baseball history, according to Mr. Anderson. Feverish conning of baseball record books will be in order by those who wish to win ten dollars and an argument from Anderson.

BIRD SHOWS DISTASTE FOR FISHERMAN'S BAIT

Ortonville.—Both birds and fish were rivals for a trout fly and the swallow won—but just for a moment. Ross Knercher, fishing with a fly rod for blue-gills in the south Big Stone lake bay, was suddenly startled to find one of the swallows which had been flitting about him on the end of his line, when all of the time his sole intention was to lure the bluegills. Badly surprised and after no end of embarrassment the bird finally rid itself of the bait and fled, leaving the fish alone with the tempting barbed morsel. Billy Orton, who was fishing nearby, vouches for the story.

Peel Their Money

The native people in Africa's copper belts are so anxious to be in possession of large sums of money that it is a common thing for two workers to pool their money; one takes both pay envelopes one month, and the other takes both envelopes the next. A boy may be earning three times as much as his partner, yet he cannot see anything ludicrous in this arrangement.

Growing With Your Child

Superstition

By the Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Breaking a mirror, walking under a ladder, spilling salt, hanging up a horseshoe, — we might go on for the length of this column, listing ridiculous and unfounded beliefs that still cast shadows over the minds of millions of persons nourished in habits of unthinkingly accepting old ways.

Why in the world do we clutter up our children's minds by giving them ideas about the luckiness of a rabbit's foot, or perpetuate the nonsensical notion that Friday is any more unlucky than any other day of the week? Some unfounded beliefs have realm of the traditional, and are safely ensconced as amusing traditions that no one takes seriously, but that are fun to follow. When a ship is christened, no one with his wits about him really thinks that breaking a bottle of wine on the bows will prevent that ship's getting into trouble. When the bridesmaids shriek and grab for the flowers the bride has thrown, they don't actually put much faith in the old saying that she who catches it will be the next bride! No one worries much about such "wishful thinking" or such tricks as hanging a horseshoe over one's door.

But when it comes to paying out hard-earned money to fortune tellers and astrologists, as thousands of otherwise sensible people do every day of the year, the matter of how false notions become beliefs arises and confronts us. We begin to wonder how our children are learning to play this game of thinking. Are they learning to think at all, or are they learning uncritically to accept ideas that suit their convenience, and to reject other ideas that seem to them unpleasant to swallow?

It may make little difference to them whether they learn such an untruth as that the ostrich hides its head when in danger. That particular bit of misinformation will probably never do them any harm. But, if they are not taught critically to examine the table of knowledge that is spread before them, they may get into the habit of eating unwisely from that table. "They say" is a mighty unreliable source of information!

Only by giving children practise in thinking scientifically can we hope to keep them from being burdened with a mass of outworn and discarded ideas. That children who have an opportunity to study science have fewer superstitions was an interesting discovery in a high school where very good science courses are given.

Maybe we can teach scientific habits of thought at home. To be able to observe exactly and report accurately what one sees, to be open minded and able to suspend judgment until the evidence is gathered, not to jump to conclusions, but to look for causes, to be able to criticize oneself—these would be invaluable assets to a child growing up in a world aferment with changes.

It's a case of practicing what we preach. We can rest assured that our own habits will influence what our children believe. If we are fooled by radio voices into gulping down patent medicines, how can we expect our children to be critical in their acceptance of what they hear? If we are chock full of silly superstition, how can we expect our children to get into the habit of tying up cause and effect? It's up to us to set the example of thinking as clearly and honestly as lies within our power.
